

A. W. EICHELBERGER.

HISTORICAL SKETCH

OF

Philip Frederick Eichelberger

Who came from Ittlingen, Germany, in 1728,

AND OF

HIS DESCENDANTS ;

WITH A

FAMILY REGISTER.

COMPILED BY

A. W. EICHELBERGER.

HANOVER, PA.
HANOVER HERALD PRINT,
1901.

PREFACE.

THE author regrets that he did not commence gathering material for this Record twenty years earlier. Had he done so he might have obtained much valuable information from persons then living, information which cannot be had now either by searching the records of churches or court houses, or by examining old graveyards—deciphering the inscriptions on the old stones, as was shown by the fruitless effort to discover the old tombstone of our ancestor, Philip Frederick Eichelberger, who, as reported by common rumor was buried in the old Winebrenner graveyard about September 20, 1776. This graveyard is situated about a mile north of the Borough of Hanover, in the corner of a field, owned by Mrs. Lydia Sprenkle, and was for many years the property of George Winebrenner, and thus still bears his name.

At the time the writer first visited it in the Fall of the year, it was in a most neglected condition, overgrown with weeds and briars completely covering the place. Many of the stones were down, some buried in the ground and others broken off. The place was thus so difficult to explore that further examination was deferred until the following Spring. On making the second visit, he found the briars and weeds mown down and the ground comparatively clear. Then he and his assistant with a sharp pointed iron probed the ground in all directions where the interment was supposed to have been made but failed to find that stone for which they were looking, and so concluded that there had none been put up for him, or that he had been buried elsewhere. It might be possible that the ground had been encroached upon and that grave destroyed. Such, alas! was the fate of the earlier Lutheran burying-ground on the McSherrystown road; it has been entirely obliterated! Therefore, it is not deemed safe to trust to these old graveyards where there are no churches near by to protect them; it would be safer far to trust that "art preservative of all arts," cold type and printer's ink. Still in the search for that stone, the author did find those of Caspar Reinacker and wife, and these were in a pretty good state of preservation, although the tombstones were almost entirely buried. He had their remains raised and moved to a lot in Mt. Olivet Cemetery, Hanover. These were the tombstones of his maternal ancestors, who were buried in 1790, about fourteen years subsequent to the burial of Philip Frederick Eichelberger, his paternal ancestor.

The writer feels that he owes an apology to those parties who showed so great an interest in the earlier preparation of this Record and furnished him much information for its foundation. The long delay in its completion was caused by two serious accidents, which rendered him unable for many years to prosecute the work. He was also anxious to have the Record correct, and as he had an opportunity to communicate with the old country directly, he opened a correspondence with the officers of the Old Lutheran Church at Ittlingen, Germany, which with the certificate of character, are inserted in this history.

He thinks it due to Mrs. Catherine Young, of Dillsburg, Pa., now deceased, Mrs. Blanche Smeltzer—nee Eichelberger, of Virginia, and Mr. Alfred Gartman, of York, Pa., also deceased, to hereby gratefully acknowledge their assistance in procuring much of this first information of the heads of some of the lines.

This has been a work of many years, and still is necessarily imperfect, many branches of the family having moved to the far West or South where all trace of them has been lost. Others have died out entirely in the male line, which of course is the only one perpetuating the name. The work of following out the female branches has been deemed too arduous and unnecessary to pursue to any great length.

Owing to his advanced age and failing health, the author also wishes to say he has been advised to put into this shape all such information as he has obtained, trusting that in the near future some one with more ability may thoroughly complete this Family History.

A. W. EICHELBERGER.

NOTE.

To those families or persons whose lines have not been carried out, or if carried out, done incorrectly, we would like to say that room has been left that they may make such corrections as are necessary, or they wish. There are many families whose lines are very incorrect, but that came from no lack of serious effort on our part. It was never our intention to fully carry out the collateral branches, but we would very much have liked to have been able to carry the male branches out in their entirety, and made strenuous efforts to do so. The result is our misfortune, not our fault. For all the errors to be found herein, we pray your kindly patience.

There are many to whom thanks are due for assistance given in their own branches, but there are two gentlemen, to whose strenuous efforts much of the correctness of this later work is due, Mr. Covington D. Barnitz and Mr. Edward Cary Eichelberger, both of Baltimore, Md. They are both lawyers, and from their patient copying and searching, many wills and deeds were found, which assisted greatly in the placing of the earlier families. Had only Captain Eichelberger been as hale and hearty when this work was completed, as he was in the beginning, when he took his first notes, this record had been complete. As it is, it had to be finished by one who was unaccustomed to such work, one to whom the family in its relationship as a whole, was an unknown quantity, and who begs you, to any errors to be wondrous kind. All the latter work which is correctly done here, is done for the sake of him whose kindness to others is but his daily act, as a slight memento of her gratitude and respect.

HIS LOVING NIECE.

Hanover, Pa., Dec. 25, 1900.

THE EICHELBERGER FAMILY.

THE Eichelberger family of whom we write, descended from those ancient Germans of whom the Encyclopedia Britannica says : "In stature they were tall and vigorous, with long fair hair and fiercely blue eyes. Their dwellings were wooden huts, war and chase the favorite occupations of the men. Although violent and cruel in moments of excitement, they were rarely treacherous, and in the ordinary intercourse of life they appear to have been kind and considerate. Some of these rough traits may be noticed in the Pennsylvania German character even at the present day ; but so also their bravery, their religious devotion and their attachment to home and kindred. They greatly cherished the memory of illustrious ancestors and often listened with delight to songs celebrating their famous deeds." This last may be the trait which has, in its transmission, made us so fond and interested in our own family history.

These ancestors of ours, as the liberty dearest to them—that of worshipping God according to the dictates of their own consciences—became more and still more curtailed, thought oftentimes longingly of that free country far across the ocean where religious liberty might be theirs. We cannot wonder that they emigrated in such numbers. Rupp and Kapp tell us "that in 1709, between the middle of April and the middle of July, the number of German Protestants that came to America, by way of London alone, was 11,294." In Gibson's History of York County, we find that the first Germans who emigrated to America were the Sectaries, the Quietests, and those of other religious denominations, who on account of the extremity of their doctrines and practices, found it very difficult to get along with their more conservative Protestant brethren. But after these came the deluge: The Protestants found that there was a land of peace on the other side of the Atlantic, and they knew by sad experience that their own country was a land of war. The peace of Westphalia had turned out to be only a hollow truce after all, as far as Protestant Germany was concerned. They were deprived not only of the enjoyment of their own religion (which meant so much to them) but they were practically robbed of the fruits of their labors. No matter how industrious, how fore-handed a man might be, he never was able to provide for his future. Naturally they rebelled, and only emigration afforded them relief.

Most of these earlier German emigrants congregated in the neighborhood of Baltimore, Maryland, and York County, Pennsylvania. York, and York County were peopled with them, houses were built, farms were cleared, cities, towns and county centers were named and laid out. In 1740 we find them erecting large public buildings. And it was in or about 1769 that Jacob Fite and George Reinacker built Congress Hall; these were sons of the earlier emigrants. But it was about 1730 that the most important accession to the German colony was made, that of a large number of young and enterprising business men, among a long list of whom we find the name of Eichelberger. During the Revolution, our Pennsylvania Germans furnished many soldiers who fought bravely and well for the cause they thought just and right. The German race, and their American descendants—all over these broad land as they are—are always worthy of our respect and admiration. We may well be pleased to be able to trace, from that home in Ittlingen, Germany, down to these dear free homes of ours, the growth and strength of the Eichelberger family as descended from our sturdy young ancestor—Philip Frederick Eichelberger.

First take the family name. In those early days all surnames were given or chosen for a family or clan, either for the meaning of the name or derivation, or bearing upon the family residence or occupation. After some study over the matter, I have come to this conclusion, that in our case there must have been, according to the church records at Ittlingen, as well as the fact of our having found other Eichelbergers of different descent than ours, a very large clan comprised of many families of Eichelbergers. Now the heads of each of these households, most likely had a name which bore some relation to his occupation. But the name borne by the clan entire, related to the situation of their family homestead or castle. It is translated thus : Er—he or they; Eiche—oak; Berg—mountain: the letter “l” is apparently only used for the sake of euphony. “The Eichelbergers”—they are “the mountain oaks,” a name suggestive of strength and tenacity. Some advance the theory that the family home, as by the translation of the name, was near the Black Forest.

The question of spelling the name next becomes of interest to us; though in earlier times each family seem to have spelled it as seemed good in their own sight. In some old deeds I find it—“Eykelberger” and “Eigelberger.” The South Carolinians have spelled it “Eikelberger” or “Ickelberger;” and I found it on old tombstones “Igelberger” and “Ickleberger.” But now all of the name seem to have agreed upon the more conservative “Eichelberger.”

In the preparation of this family register I have come across several by the name of Eichelberger who emigrated to this country, both from Germany and from England. It would be exceedingly interesting to study up the early relationship of the now entirely separate families, who doubtless all came from one common home, some time, some where ; but it would be an exhaustless amount of work. Just the work that has been so imperfectly done here has taken years of letter writing and travel, as well as diligent application. It is only my purpose to take up the story of that young German, Philip Frederick Eichelberger, and give his history and that of his descendants.

In the first that we assuredly know of the Eichelbergers, that is from the church in Ittlingen, down to the present-day, they are as a family Lutherans. That those of the name in Germany belong to that faith is easily traceable to the fact of their home being in that neighborhood which more than any other was stirred to the depths by the divine teaching as spread by Martin Luther. But to me it is a beautiful sight to see them embracing the faith of their Fathers down to the seventh and eighth generations.

As the homestead or cradle of the race was in Sinsheim, I will quote the following: "Sinsheim, principal town in the district of Sinsheim, county of Heidelberg, Grand Duchy of Baden; has 40,000 inhabitants, 3 geographical miles southeast of Heidelberg on the banks of the Elsenz, was founded 1099, was the seat of an Abbot, later of a City of the Empire. Was incorporated with the Palatinate, and then through debts became property of Conrad of Weinsberg. June 16, 1674, it was the scene of a great battle when the French General Turenne fought and defeated the Austrians, and on June 22, 1849, the Revolutionary Army of Baden under Mieroslaioski and Franz Sigel fought a part of the Neckar corps under Penker."

Early in the year 1887, I wrote to the Burgess of Ittlingen, as also to the Lutheran pastor there, asking for the Eichelberger family records. These are their replies, which take us back to about 1670, when John Eichelberger was born very likely:

(Copy—Translated from the German.)

ITTLINGEN, May 19th, 1887.

To A. W. EICHELBERGER,
Hanover, York Co., Pa., U. S. A.

Honored Sir:—

In reply to your honored letter I send you the desired record of the family, from the Church records. I should have sent them before this, but I wanted to get an extract of the Archives of the Lord of Gemingen, which effort proved in vain and caused me a delay of several weeks, and in spite of all the efforts of the court officers, nothing could be ascertained in regard to history of your family. According to our belief and judgment the Eichelbergers were all related; there are no Eichelbergers living in our immediate neighborhood, and after a long and diligent search I could find no trace of them.

The Pastor demands Five Marks for the Records, which you will please remit to me.

Many thanks for the Dollar piece you sent me.

Respectfully,

Ge. HAGMEIER, Burgess.

Extracts from the Church Records of the Evangelical Congregation at Ittlingen.

To A. W. EICHELBERGER,
Hanover, York Co., Pa., U. S. A.

In the Birth and Baptismal Records of the above-named congregation, beginning in the year 1665, I find the following-named persons, bearing the name of EICHELBERGER:—

1. John Eichelberger's daughter—godmother, Nov. 14th, 1675.
2. Jacob E.—godfather, Febr. 16th, 1676, and again, May 8th, 1677.
3. Marie Sabina, born Febr. 28th, 1679, daughter of Jacob E. and his wife Catharina.
4. John E., single,—godfather, Aug. 20th, 1680. N. Eichelberger,—godmother, Apr 8th, 1681. (Cannot be taken in consideration, as dates, &c., are uncertain.)
5. Anna Catharina, born April 3rd, 1681, daughter of Jacob E. and his wife Anna Catharina.
6. John William, born June 10th, 1683, son of Jacob E. and his wife Anna Catharina.
7. Anna Elizabeth, born March 31st, 1684, daughter of John Eichelberger, Jun. and his wife Marie Barbara.
8. John Jacob, born Oct. 2nd, 1685, son of Jacob E. and his wife Anna Catharina.
9. A child (name unknown) born May 16th, 1687, child of John Eichelberger, Jun. and his wife Marie Barbara.
10. Catharina Eichelberger,—godmother, May 29th, 1687. (Perhaps the wife of above-named Jacob E.)
11. John Henry E., born March 3rd, 1689, son of Jacob E. and his wife Anna Catharina.
12. Philipp Frederick, born April 17th, 1693, son of John E. and his wife Marie Barbara.
13. John George E., born Nov. 21st, 1693, son of Jacob E. and his wife Anna Catharina.
14. Marie Barbara E., born Febr. 26th, 1700, daughter of John E. and his wife Marie Barbara.
15. Anna Catharina E., born Oct. 30th, 1700, daughter of John E. and his wife Marie Barbara.
16. Anna Margaretha E., born March 6th, 1701, daughter of John Eichelberger and his wife Marie Barbara.

NOTE: If the last three named children 14, 15 and 16 belonged to the same family, which is probably true to judge from the name of the parents, then there must be an error or an oversight in the dates of their births, which is also very probable, as the entries in the records were made at various times, and from separate entries made on slips of paper, which might have been imperfect.

17. John George, born April 16th, 1704, son of John and Marie Barbara.
18. John Martin, born Nov 16th, 1716, son of Philipp Frederick and his wife Anna Barbara.
19. Anna Margaretha, born March 2nd, baptized March 5th, 1720, daughter of Frederick E. and his wife Barbara.
20. John Frederick, born Febr. 18th, baptized Febr 20th, 1722. son of Philipp Frederick and his wife Barbara.
21. Barbara E., single,—godmother, Sept 21st, 1723.

22. Margaretha Barbara, born Aug. 9th, baptized Aug. 11th, 1724, daughter of Frederick E. and his wife Barbara.
23. Anna Barbara, born Febr. 7th, baptized Feb. 9th, 1727, daughter of Frederick E. and his wife Anna Barbara.
24. John Hieronymus, born June 21st, 1728, son of John George and his wife Juliana.
25. John George,—godfather, July 5th, 1728.
26. Christian Ludwig, born Oct. 19th, baptized Oct. 26th, 1730, son of John George and Juliana E.
27. John George E.,—godfather, July 18th, 1731, and again Jan. 5th, 1732.
28. Juliana Catharina E.,—godmother, July 16th, 1727. (Very likely the wife of John George E.)

NOTE: In the year 1732 the name of Eichelberger disappears from the birth and baptismal records, neither does it appear in the marriage records beginning in 1739, nor in the death records beginning in 1745.

The genealogical record of your family founded on above extracts in connection with the information given by yourselves, would result in the following:—

I. a. JOHN EICHELBERGER, Senior. (1)

One daughter. b. John E., junior, married to Marie Barbara.

1. Anna Elizabeth, born March 31st, 1684. (7)
2. ————, born May 16th, 1687. (9)
3. PHILIPP FREDERICK, born April 17th, 1693. (12)
4. Marie Barbara, born Febr. 26th, 1700. (14)
5. Anna Catharina, born Oct. 30th, 1700. (15)
6. Anna Margaretha, born March 6th, 1701. (16)
7. John George, born April 16th, 1704. (17)

c. PHILIPP FREDERICK, married to Anna Barbara nee Dörners.

1. John Martin, born Nov. 16th, 1716. (18)
2. Anna Margaretha, born March 2nd, 1720. (19)
3. John Frederick, born Febr. 18th, 1722. (20)
4. Margaretha Barbara, born Sept. 9th, 1724. (22)
5. Anna Barbara, born Febr. 2nd, 1727. (23)

II. JACOB E., married to Anna Catharina.

1. Maria Sabina, born Febr. 28th, 1679. (3)
2. Anna Catharina, born April 3rd, 1681. (5)
3. John William, born June 10th, 1683. (6)
4. John Jacob, born Oct. 2nd, 1685. (8)
5. John Henry, born March 3rd, 1689. (11)
6. John George, born Nov. 21st, 1693. (13)

NOTE: In which way this family is related to the above (I. a, b, c.) is very difficult to ascertain from the records, but it is very probable that Jacob E. was a brother of John E., junior, (I. b.) consequently a son of John E., senior.

III. JOHN GEORGE, married to Juliana.

1. John Hieronymus, born Apr. 21st, 1728. (24)
2. Christian Ludwig, born Oct. 19th, 1730. (26)

In which way this John George Eichelberger was related to the above families I and II, cannot be told with absolute surety, but that they were relations is very probable. But here the question arises: both families had sons by the name of John George, (I. b. 7 and II. 6,) which of the two is the last-named John George (III.)? Considering the time of birth and age of the two, the inference can be drawn, that the John George born in 1693, is a son of Jacob E. and Anna Catharina, his wife, and not the John George born in 1704.

Granting that these inferences are correct, we could place the Genealogical Record of the Family in the manner following:—

	JOHN EICHELBERGER, Senior.
Daughter,	Jacob,	John, junior.
	John George.	Philipp Frederick.

In answer to your questions, I would reply as follows:

1. Did any other Eichelbergers emigrate? When, and what were their names?

A. The church records give no information whatever on this point inasmuch as in 1732 the name of Eichelberger disappears from all records; they must have therefore left these parts. Where they went to, however, is not known.

2. What Christian church did the Eichelberger family belong to?

A. As the Baptismal Records say nothing to the contrary, the family of Eichelberger belonged to the Lutheran Church.

3. About the origin and former history of the Eichelberger family, nothing could be ascertained.

4. Are there any Eichelbergers yet in your neighborhood, and what are their positions and circumstances?

A. There are no Eichelbergers about here.

5. Are Christof and John George Eichelberger who emigrated in 1728, with Frederick Eichelberger, related with the same?

A. Cannot find the name of Christof Eichelberger in our church records; but John George (III) who is named as godfather in Jan., 1732, (No. 27,) must have emigrated in the same year, 1732. Compare the relationship of this John George with Frederick (III.) According to this, they must have been first cousins. But two other cases are probable. If the last named John George is the one named in I. b. 7, then your great-grandfather must have been a brother to the same. Again, both might have been second cousins. Then the Genealogy would be as follows:

1. JOHN E., Senior.	2. SON. (unknown.)
John E., Junior.	Jacob.
Philipp Frederick.	John George.

If therefore Philipp Frederick and John George were related in this manner, then of the probabilities pointed out to you, I consider that your great-grandfather and John George Eichelberger were first cousins, the most plausible. I will, however, not encroach upon your theories. To allow you the free use of your own judgment in this matter, I have given you a true and correct copy of the church record.

With the greatest respect,

FREDERICK SCHWEIKERT, Vicar.

Ittlingen, March 24th, 1887.

I certify to the above extracts from the church records.

T. REINHARD, Ev. Pastor.

Ittlingen, March 24th, 1887.

These establish the fact that Philip Frederick Eichelberger, son of John and Maria Barbara, was born April 17, 1693, in Ittlingen, near Sinsheim, then in the Grand Duchy of Baden, now in the Empire of Germany. That he was married. November 11, 1714, to Anna Barbara Dorners. Also, the fact that four little ones were born to them. In those early days it is likely that one who wished to emigrate to foreign countries, especially one who like the subject of our sketch was of the backbone and sinews of the nation, one of the working people, was obliged to procure from the authorities some sort of a passport. Every one of the descendants of Philip Frederick Eichelberger may well feel proud of that high regard and respect which the authorities of Ittlingen express in the following testimonial, the original of which is now in possession of a great-great-grandson, Edward S. Eichelberger, living in Frederick City, Maryland :

[COPY.]

Certificate of Good Behavior.

Know ye, that the bearer of this, Frederick Eichelberger, a resident citizen of the village of Ittlingen, near Sinsheim, said village belonging to the High and Free Baronial Corporation of Benning and Geikish, and absolutely incorporated with the Free State Baronial Domains in Suabia, Canton Curgichagen, has humbly made the following announcement to the authorities of the High and Free Baronial Domain of Benning :

In order to improve his condition and increase the means of subsistence, he is determined, together with his wife and 4 children, to leave home and emigrate into Pennsylvania, and he respectfully requests an attested Certificate in regard to his honorable name and good conduct ; which request is hereby and without hesitation granted ; and now ; In the name of the High and Free Baronial Domain of Benning and by virtue of my power, we hereby certify, that the said Philip Frederick Eichelberger and family have always conducted themselves obedient, honest, industrious, true and honorable, and if the times and occasion would permit it, should have liked to have him remain in our midst as an upright citizen. We therefore recommend him and his family to the grace and good will of everybody.

In testimony of this Certificate of the High and Free Baronial Domain of Benning, have I signed the same with my own hand, and corroborated the same by affixing the seal which has been graciously entrusted to me.

So done at Ittlingen, May 11th, 1728.

HIGH & FREE BARONIAL DOMAIN,
CORPORATION OFFICIAL SIGNATURE,
AUGUST, CHRISTIAN ERNST KLEIN.

It makes a pleasant picture when one thinks of that sturdy young husband and father, trying to make his own decision, as well as calming the fears of his young and possibly timid "Hausfrau," that they might by emigrating, better their fortunes and that of their children, as well as gain for all of them that long coveted boon, religious liberty. One can almost see them by the ruddy firelight, evening after evening, the day's work being done, talking and planning, longing yet half afraid; for in those days it was a brave man who entrusted his little all of kin and fortune to the terrors of the then almost unknown ocean. But he and his wife Barbara at last decided to take their little ones, to put their trust in God, as always they had done heretofore, and emigrate. Again, one can picture that severing of home ties, those last good-byes to loving parents, to other loved ones and to more distant friends. It must have been a terrible wrench, one little appreciated in these days of postal facilities, when one forgets how few letters were, at that time, carried safely over the land, still less over the water. But the die was cast; and with their four little ones clinging to them, and with the wee babe, Barbara, in the mother's arms, they stood ready on the 22d of June, 1728, with thirty other Palatinates and their families, one hundred in all, to embark on that good ship, Albany, which set sail from Rotterdam, Holland. Lazarus Oxham was Captain, or Shipmaster, of this vessel, which brought them safely to the land of their adoption. They landed at Philadelphia, September 4th, of that same year.

From Philadelphia they went to join the colony of Germans who had settled in Lancaster County, Pa., along the Pequa Creek. Here Philip Frederick must have engaged very successfully in some business or occupation, for by prudence and industry he soon accumulated enough to purchase a tract of land. It was in this colony that he met his first misfortune; a short time after they had landed his wife Anna Barbara died. To lose that young helpmeet, to have his fast growing little ones bereft of a mother's tender care! How they must have longed for a sight of the dear ones back in the mother country! Although in a foreign land, there were doubtless many around them who had learned to love the young wife and mother and could sympathise with them in their loss. I am sorry that we have no record of her death or burial, nor do we know where she is buried; although it is to be supposed along the banks of the Pequa. A few years thereafter he was married to Magdalena, surname unknown, who we presume had come to this country with those of her own family, for the tradition is that the second wife came from Stuttgart, Germany.

In 1743 our emigrant became a naturalized American citizen. Tradition says that he remained in Lancaster County until 1754, but here the stories rather differ. The one which seems most plausible is that he then went to a farm not far from Abbottstown, on the Pigeon Hills, where he stayed until he purchased the farm in Manheim Township, York County, Pa. Others believe that he went directly from Lancaster County to this farm. But as the original grant or warrant obtained from Thomas and Richard Penn, a copy of which is now in my possession, is dated April 28, 1761, we rather lean to the former story and think that he stayed on the farm near the Pigeon Hills until 1761, and then purchased this warrant from Conrad Low for the 220 acres, which has for all time since, 140 years, up to the present day, been in the possession of some member of the Eichelberger family. For the last fifteen years it has been owned by the writer. But it was in the home in Lancaster County that the four younger sons, Adam, Jacob, Leonard, and Lewis, were born.

About the year 1770, Philip Frederick Eichelberger purchased a house and lot in Hanover village, as it was then called. This lot is situated on Broadway, between what is now the O'Bold Hotel property and the Tanger building. The house in which the family lived has long since been demolished. Here it was that Philip Frederick Eichelberger spent the last few years of his life, all their children having married and left them. Here they lived quietly, he and his wife, until his death.

And doubtless as the burning question of revolting from under the bonds of England, was daily being mooted, our ancestor gave to his sons the advice which his fast aging years kept him from adopting for himself; for all of his sons but Lewis, who was almost too young, were American patriots during the Revolution. And it is very likely they were animated by the spirit and advice of their father, who had grown to love the country of his adoption as his own. Just as the struggle for American Independence was becoming successful, just as her friends were beginning to see hope for her freedom, Philip Frederick Eichelberger died, on the 19th of September, 1776, aged 83 years, 5 months and 2 days. His remains, family tradition says, now slumber in the old historic burying ground, about one mile north of Hanover. But all efforts to find his grave were unsuccessful. Probably owing to the unsettled condition of the times it was not as carefully marked as it should have been. So rests the ancestor of our line.

Last Will of Frederick Eichelberger.

IN THE NAME OF GOD, AMEN.

I, Frederick Eichelberger, of the Town of Hanover, in the County of York and Province of Pennsylvania, Yeoman, being of an advanced Age and weak in Body but of sound, perfect and disposing Mind and Memory, blessed be the Almighty God for the same, Do make and publish this my Last Will and Testament, in Manner and form following ; that is to say—

Firste, it is my Will and I do order That in the first Place all my just Debts and Funeral Charges be paid and Satisfied.

Item. I give and bequeath unto my Dearly beloved Wife Magdalena, exclusion of the Yearly Support, settled and secured for her by Article of Agreement with my Son Leonard Eichelberger, and also exclusion of the Legacy hereinafter bequeathed unto her, one Bed and Bedding and all other the Furniture thereunto belonging, as also one Cow, and the sum of Five Pounds lawful money of Pennsylvania, which said Five Pounds shall be paid unto her immediately after my Decease.

Item. I give and Bequeath unto my Son Martin Eichelberger, the sum of ten Pounds lawful Money of Pennsylvania, to be paid unto him in one year after my Decease.

Item. I give and bequeath unto George Nease, Senior, one Shilling Sterling, to be paid unto him also at the end of one year after my Decease.

Item. I give and bequeath unto my Son Adam Eichelberger, the sum of Forty Pounds, lawful Money of Pennsylvania, as also unto Frederick Eichelberger his oldest Son, the sum of Ten Pounds, like Money and to be paid at the same Time.

Item. I give and bequeath unto Mathias Wymers' lame Son, the sum of Five Pounds of like Money, to be paid at the same Time.

Item. I give and bequeath unto my Grand Children, viz., the Children of my Daughter Anna Margaretta, (who intermarried with Finsans Keafer,) viz, unto Magdalena Keafer and Barbara Keafer & Catharina, and Sabina Keafer, and Valentine Keafer the sum of fifty Pounds of like Money, to be equally divided between them Share and Share alike, and it is my Will further, and I do order and direct, that the said Last mentioned Legacies, shall be paid or discharged with Bonds which I have Respectively against the said Legatees and that there shall be no Interest charges unto them upon the said Bonds.

And as for the Residue of all and Singular my Estate, be the same whatsoever and wheresoever, I give, devise and dispose of same in the following manner, that is to say, To be equally divided between my said Dearly beloved Wife, Magdalena, and the five following of my Children, viz: Ludwick Eichelberger, Jacob Eichelberger, Leonard Eichelberger, Barbara Hoake and Elizabeth Smyser, share & share alike and to their Heirs for ever.

AND Lastly, I do hereby nominate, Constitute and appoint my Sons, Ludwick Eichelberger and Jacob Eichelberger, to be Executors of this my Last Will and Testament, hereby revoking all former Wills and Testaments.

In Witness whereof, I have hereunto set my Hand and Seal the fifth Day of February, in the year of our Lord one Thousand Seven hundred and seventy-six, 1776.

his
FREDERICK X EICHELBERGER.
mark

Signed, sealed, published, pronounced and declared by the before-named Frederick Eichelberger, to be his Last Will and Testament in the presence of us who have hereunto subscribed our Names as witnesses in the Presence of the Testator.

CHRISTIAN MILLHEIM,
MICHAEL DANNER,
ARCH. McCLEAN.

This, his Will, states the fact of the death of his beloved daughter, Anna Margaretha, (Mrs. Keefer), and leaves us to surmise that he must have given during his life to his son Frederick all, and to Martin as well as to the younger ones, nearly all that he had to give them; which would not be at all uncommon for a father to do, taking into consideration the fact of their having come of an age to marry and support themselves long before. Martin was a man fifty years of age and Frederick was forty-four when their father died. The children of the first wife were, as above stated, born in Germany. As each one married they located in or about York. Of the three daughters, Anna Margaretha married Vincent Keefer, July, 1738, by whom she had four children, Magdalene Barbara, Catherine, Sabina and Valentine. Barbara Eichelberger married Andrew Hoke, March, 1743. We are sorry that we have no further record of the second daughter than this. It is probable that they had children. Rumor has it that they moved to North Carolina.

The third daughter and youngest child, Anna Barbara, who, after coming to this country was always called Elizabeth, was married to Jacob Smyser; we do not know the date of their marriage. They had four children, Lemuel, and another son whose name we do not know, and two daughters, Elizabeth and Barbara. There are two completely different rumors concerning the whereabouts of this family, one is that they moved to Kentucky; the other that they bought a home in York County, on the Berlin road, right where it leaves the turnpike; some of their descendants are said to be residing there at the present time. But it was impossible for the writer to discover. It would have been pleasant to have carried out the record of the descendants of these daughters down to at least the third and fourth generations; but the writer found it impossible to find any direct, positive trace of the homes or families of their children.

There are many of the names, well honored and respected, of Keefer, Hoke and Smyser, all through York County, as well as in North Carolina, Kentucky, Virginia and Maryland. But in the compilation of a family history, one must only give facts as such.

MARTIN EICHELBERGER.

Martin, the oldest child of Philip Frederick and Anna Barbara Dorners, was born in Germany, and was only a child of twelve when he came to America. Doubtless he was of great assistance to his parents and soon learned to love the home in the new country. In 1738 he was married, like his father, to a fellow-Palatinate, Anna Maria, surname unknown, who bore him five sons and two daughters: George, Frederick, Jacob, Bernhard and Martin; Susannah and Mary. Martin was present at York when the town was laid out in 1741, and purchased lot No. 120. He was one of the original members of the first Lutheran Church in York. In the Pennsylvania Archives, 2d Series, Vol. 10, p. 781, we find Martin Eichelberger, commissioned by King George II. Court Justice, October, 1757, to 1758. Then by George III, in 1760, the first year of his long reign. Again, by or under the same, he was commissioned Justice of the Peace, October 17th, 1764, to 1765. Also, March 11th, 1771, to 1772, April 9th, 1774, to 1775. These last two commissions were granted by that Convention which framed the first Constitution of Pennsylvania, and by the President and Council under that Constitution.

As Scharf's History says: "The part which our German fellow-citizens took in that great Revolutionary struggle was manly, patriotic and distinguished. They furnished a great many soldiers and the Baltimore, Frederick, and Lancaster Germans fought face to face with the Hessians on many a bloody field. But the Germans who did not draw the sword, did the Civil State quite as valuable and indispensable service." It was in this way that Martin served his country. Several times he was chosen County Commissioner. Martin Eichelberger was a strong man. Those were times when he must needs be brave, valiant and strong. He was industrious and economical, but when his countrymen were suffering, from that need from which the invaded country always suffers most, he was one of the most generous. There is not a local history which does not speak of the generosity of Martin Eichelberger and his sons. He was a prominent and influential citizen of the town of York ; he and his son George were among the originators of the Hand to Hand Fire Co. there in 1772. We find his name given in a list of Associate Judges (not learned in law) as early as 1750. It is also appended, as one of eighteen most prominent citizens, to an appeal made to the Committee of Safety in Philadelphia, of which committee Benjamin Franklin was President, as to forming new Battalions, choosing officers for the same, &c. At the age of sixty-five, in 1781, Martin Eichelberger died, leaving his widow and all his children except his son George, surviving him. For many years Martin kept a hotel, in those days called a "tavern," in York, but in 1760 he retired from active business and his son George took it in charge.

GEORGE EICHELBERGER.

George, born June 22d, 1739, at York, was from the earliest years of his manhood interested in, and working for the freeing of his native land from under the yoke of England. He held many positions of trust. The Pennsylvania Archives of the same series as before quoted, says : "George Eichelberger, Sheriff of York County, October 6th, 1768, to 1769, 1770 to 1771 ; Collector of Excise, 1767, to 1770." There was a Committee formed to protect the lives and property of those citizens who were either away with the army, or were too young, or for some other reason unable to protect themselves, also to keep law and order and to collect funds and material for the army. This committee was called "The Committee of Safety," and had very great power. George was an important member thereof. A Provincial Convention, which was but the forerunner of the one that gave us the Declaration of Independence, was held in Philadelphia, January 25th to 28th, 1775, to which George was a delegate. He was also a member of the Committee of Correspondence. George and his brother Jacob are mentioned several times as having been prominent in gathering and giving supplies for the army. "As early as May 21st, 1774, the Citizens of Yorktown assembled to take into consideration the distressed and deplorable condition of Boston. They collected a large sum of money which they sent by the hand of George Eichelberger." The fourth company of York County Volunteers was formed December 27th, 1775, of which George Eichelberger was Captain, Michael Hahn First Lieutenant, Baltzer Spangler Second Lieutenant. The following is a copy of a part of a letter from the Committee of Affairs of York, to the Committee of Safety in Philadelphia, dated December 31st, 1776 :

Honored Sirs:—

In these times of difficulty several gentlemen have exerted themselves much in the grand cause. Several Companies have marched, more will march from this County, so as to form a pretty good Battalion. The gentlemen who deserve the most from the public are David Jameson, Hugh Dunwoody, Charles Lukens and Mr. George Eichelberger, They have been exceedingly useful to most of the companies. As most of the Companies have chosen their officers, pro Tempore, an arrangement will be necessary as to field Officers. We therefore prepose David Jameson Colonel, Hugh Dunwoody Lieutenant Colonel, Charles Lukens Major, and George Eichelberger Quartermaster of the York County Militia, who now march. It will be doing justice to merit to make these appointments, and we make no doubt it will be done by your board. We congratulate you upon the success of the American Army at Trenton," &c.

These suggestions were carried out and George Eichelberger appointed Quartermaster of the Militia of York County. In or about the year 1761, he was married to Lydia Worley, of York. They had seven children : Jacob, John, Martin, George, James ; Susan Lydia, and Mary. He seems to have been in the employ of the Government until the time of his marriage, and after, but at that time he took upon himself the care of the tavern. Here he spent the twenty years of his married life, here his children were born, and here he died at the age of 41, a short life but a useful one. He died a year or so before his father, as we see by Martin's will, which we would give but for lack of room.

Jacob, the first child of George and Lydia, was made, probably in recognition of his father's distinguished services during the time of the war, a Custom-House officer, at the National Custom-House in Baltimore. Here he served efficiently for many years, the record he leaves being a good one. In 1785 he was married to Elizabeth Burnetson, also of Baltimore ; she bore him a family of six children,—Charles, George Steyer, William, Samuel, Nelson and Baker. Of these Charles and Nelson died in infancy ; Samuel and Baker both died single. Samuel was a private in Captain Thomas Watson's Company of the 39th Regiment Infantry, Maryland Militia. He was wounded at the battle of North Point and only lived a little over a year from that time, dying in 1815. George S. and William were both soldiers in the war with Great Britain in 1812-14. William was a private in the Baltimore Fencibles, First Regiment of Artillery, Maryland Militia, while George S. served as Corporal in the Independent Blues, the 5th Regiment of Artillery, Maryland Militia, in the same company in which his cousin Jesse, son of Martin, the weighmaster, was First Lieutenant. This family served faithfully in this war, this branch alone being represented by three separate members. Only two of this family of Jacob, son of George, ever married, William and George S.

George Steyer Eichelberger married twice, first Mary Rutter, by whom he had nine children,—William George, Lawrence, Jonathan, Elizabeth M., Frances Harriet, Mary Ann, Hester Dysert, Isaac Burnetson, and Nelson Reid. After the early death of his wife, George S. married again, this time to a widow, Eliza Ann Boyle, by whom he had a family of three : James, Emma Lawrence and Thomas Speer. Out of this family, but two of the sons married, and neither of these had children. Of the second wife's children, James died young, but Thomas S. has descendants of the name. The daughters of the first wife were equally divided, two married and two single. Elizabeth M. married John Curlett and had a family, her three children being Mrs. Mary Eugenia Matine, Mrs. Ira Blake Kent and Mr. Thomas S. Curlett, all of Baltimore. The other married daughter of George S. Eichelberger has no child. In the second family, Miss Emma Eichelberger has the family Bible belonging to her father and from that has kindly given much of this knowledge ; she resides in Baltimore, is still single. Her only brother who has children is Thomas Speer Eichelberger, a man holding a prominent position in Baltimore. He married Mary Lee, by whom he had two daughters, both still single and at home. His only son Nelson, who assists his father, married Josephine Hoffacker, of Baltimore, and he also has three children, all still young, Helen, Thomas and Mary.

The father of this family, George Steyer Eichelberger, died when the children of his second family were quite young. He kept a hotel until the year 1830 ; then he must have become clerk of one of the courts. In 1833, he was made Justice of the Peace, which office he held for several years. For so large a family as his, it seems almost incredible that he should leave no more descendants of the third generation than the six mentioned.

His only brother who married was William, whose wife was Henrietta Brown, she having previously married a Mr. Luke, and was a granddaughter of Col. Ignatius Wheeler. She bore him a family of thirteen, five of these dying in infancy or in early childhood. Maria Louisa, the oldest child, married Oliver B. Wight, a man standing well in his profession in Baltimore. They had nine children, four of these dying young ; three remaining daughters married well, and both the sons the same, having children settled in Baltimore and throughout Maryland. The second daughter of William, Nannie R., married Doctor Keenan, but had no family. Helen W. married Dr. William Burt, of South Carolina ; they had a family of fourteen children, but only one is now living, Dola Burt.

Samuel Eccleston Eichelberger has very lately died. He had a beautiful home just out of Baltimore, on the York road, called "Locust Grove." He was a native of Baltimore and always resided there. He was for many years a public weigher, and when the sugar refineries were in operation did an extensive business in Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York. He enlisted in one of the volunteer companies at the beginning of the Civil War, but was excused on account of physical debility. He was twice married, first to Sophia B. Andrews, she bearing him ten children,—Charles A. living in the State of Washington ; Henrietta M., wife of Sidney Hayward, of Harford County, Md ; Sophia B., married Thomas Howard ; Dwight, who married last April. The remainder of this first set of children are still single. Sometime in the 80's, he married Louise E. Turner and had five children, all of whom are still quite young people. Samuel Eccleston Eichelberger suffered for a long time with Bright's disease, of which he died, November 10, 1900. His next brother, John Carroll Eichelberger, lives in Harford County, Md., has a large farm, is married and has children, but although we wrote him we could hear nothing from him. The same must be said of the youngest brother, Frank Thomas. We know he is married and living in Washington, D. C., and think he is connected with the War Department.

William, son of William, was also married, and lived in Baltimore, as do a few of his children, whose names we do not know. He has one son, Harry L. Eichelberger, who is the Secretary of the Federation of Labor; the men of this family are all industrious and good citizens.

Jacob Eichelberger, father of this branch of the family, was also engaged in business for many years with his brother Martin, the tanner. The son William was, so his family inform me, a Lieutenant in the Independent Blues of Baltimore, and had a very fine record in the War of 1812-14. After the close of this war, he turned his attention toward newspaper work; he became a clerk of the Baltimore Gazette and afterwards Associate Editor of the same.

It would have been pleasant to have carried this line to its completion, but we never knew until not quite two weeks ago, of the existence of Jacob, nor of his being in the family of George and Lydia Worley. We were very glad to find all we could about him, but as the Record was then overdue we could not devote much time to the unraveling of his descendants.

JOHN EICHELBERGER.

John, the second son of George and Lydia, was born in 1762, and lived in York, his birthplace, during his long and useful life. He married a granddaughter of that celebrated man, Baron Johanne Daniel Dinkle, of whom and of whose romantic history every one in York County must have heard. Sarah Dinkle bore the following children—Eliza, Maria, Henrietta and Mary Lydia, daughters; and Daniel, George and William, sons. Of the daughters, Eliza married a Mr. McCardell ; Maria married Jacob Lingenfelter. The former had her home in Baltimore, the latter in York, but of the family of either do we know anything. Henrietta married a Mr. Myers, of York ; their children were—Frank, Thomas and Eliza Jane, of these we know nothing more save that they resided in York.

Daniel Eichelberger, the oldest son of John, became a very prominent son of his native town, was influential and prosperous, and filled many positions of trust in town and county, as well as being a very prominent worker in the early Lutheran Church of York. He married Rebecca Smyser, of that place, and had a family of five children. He was called from a useful life when in his prime, dying and leaving his family all surviving him.

John, the oldest son of Daniel, left York when a mere lad. Enthused by the tales of adventure and travel as sent back by his cousins Barnitz and Charles, he went to Ohio ; stopped for a short while with Charles in Wooster, thence went to Mt. Vernon in the same State. About the year 1849 he went to California with a bad case of the gold fever, which was raging at that time. He used to tell the story that he came back with a "pocket full of experience," nothing more. During his stay in Mt. Vernon he married Amanda McIntyre, by whom he had four children. In Mt. Vernon he engaged extensively in the dry goods business. When the call for troops was sounded in 1861, he was one of the first to respond ; he was made 1st Lieutenant of Company K, 142d Regiment of the Ohio National Guards. To both officers and men, John Eichelberger, who was of a most genial, hearty and loving disposition, was so kind, so thoughtful, so much the friend, that at the close of the war they banded together and presented him with a silver water service, as a slight token of their remembrance of his many lovable qualities. Upon his return to his home, he soon wound up his business at Mt. Vernon and moved to Mansfield. Here he became a traveling salesman, and was one of the first in his adopted State. As one who knew him well tells us : "He was the most genial, big-hearted man I ever knew, so made a success at this business." He died lamented by many friends, at Mansfield, in 1896, his wife having gone before him fourteen years. Their oldest son, Norman M., is like his father, a traveling salesman, representing the National Biscuit Co. On their business he was at one time stationed at Towanda, Pa. Here he met, and in 1881 married Cora Bartlett. They have no children.

Catherine Rebecca, only daughter of John Eichelberger, son of Daniel, was born at Mt. Vernon, but is married and living in Mansfield. Her husband, H. B. Dirlam, is a very prosperous lawyer there. They have four children, three young sons and one daughter. Howard is studying at Cornell University, for which Jay N., the next son, is preparing, while Robert York and the only daughter Catherine are still continuing their studies at home.

John H., the second son and namesake of John Eichelberger, married Elizabeth Lawlor, of Mansfield, where they reside with their two daughters, Helen and Margaretta. He too is with the National Biscuit Co., and is manager of the shipping department. The youngest, Henry Martin, is in Los Angeles, California, having a very lucrative business there in the wholesale paper line. He is unmarried.

The three daughters of Daniel and Rebecca Eichelberger were married respectively, Mary Jane to Edward Eppley, of York, by whom she had three sons, the only one now living being Francis M. Eppley, a lawyer living in New York City. Elizabeth married Leon Rosenmiller, also of York; they had four children, Julianna Anna, died in infancy, Edwin M., who lived to be 23 years old, Joseph E., who lived a bachelor to the age of 70, and Josiah Frederick, who was still living in York at the last the writer knew, at 23 West Market Street. Georgianna Eichelberger married John Weiser, also of York, by whom she had one son, Harry. There may have been others in this family, but we can hear nothing of them.

Martin, the second and youngest child of Daniel, was a very important man in the history of York, during his early life. His biographical obituary in the York Daily, July 11, 1893, written by one of his many friends, describes him far better than I would be able to.

OBITUARY OF MARTIN S. EICHELBERGER.

York loses one of its most prominent citizens, and a representative of one of its oldest families. The deceased was a son of the late Daniel Eichelberger, who was a well-known citizen to the older Yorkers, and who died many years ago. He was of a very retiring disposition, refined, modest and unassuming, and only those who enjoyed his companionship understood the grand qualities of the man. The beautiful and costly chapel erected on Prospect Hill Cemetery, was built at his expense, and stands a fitting monument to his generosity. He was an attorney by profession, but never practiced to any great extent. During the war he acted as counsel to the borough.

He graduated from Yale College with the Class of 1858, with conspicuous honors. He was the Philosophical Oration man of his class. He was also a member of the Skull and Bones Society of the college. His class consisted of 102 graduates, and he was one of the fifteen members honored by admission to the Skull and Bones Society.

He paid much attention to the local and Colonial history, and was probably the best authority on the early history of York County of any man living at the time of his death. The late Judge Gibson gives the deceased credit for much information furnished in the compiling of his History of York County. His contributions to Colonial history made him a valued member of the Pennsylvania Historical Society. At the time of his death he was director of the Farmers National Bank of York, President of the Commonwealth Club, member of the York Club, member of the York Masonic Lodge, and connected with several business interests in the city, prominently among them being that of the Wire Cloth Factory.

But one member of his family survives him, his brother, Mr. John Eichelberger, who resides in Richland Centre, Wisconsin. Mr. Harry P. Weiser, whose mother was a sister of the deceased, is a nephew, as is also Mr. E. M. Eppley, which latter named gentleman's mother was also a sister. The deceased never married, but continued to live the life of a retired bachelor, in his fine home, on East Market Street, enjoying the friendship of a few chosen friends and what was to him the most delightful occupation, communion with the great authors represented in his large and valuable library.

In his death York has lost a good citizen, and those who have been recipients of his bounty a friend that will be missed. He was a man of large wealth, which has, no doubt, been judiciously disposed of by will.

The funeral services will be held in the chapel of Prospect Hill Cemetery which was erected by him, Wednesday afternoon at three o'clock. His friends and the friends of the family are respectfully invited to attend.

This Martin Eichelberger besides being a prominent citizen, was a most devoted son. After his father's death, his mother married Daniel Hartman. In Prospect Hill Cemetery, at York, he put up in memory of his father and mother and step-father, a beautiful chapel. There are many Eichelbergers buried in this cemetery, as well as in the churchyards of Christ and Zion Lutheran Churches.

George L. Eichelberger, second son of John and Sarah Dinkle, was the first to study medicine in the whole "freund-schaft." He studied medicine in Philadelphia. In May, 1832, married Maria G. Spangler, of York, also a descendant of the celebrated Baron Dinkle. Dr. George practiced medicine in York until 1837, then moved to Cincinnati, Ohio. Their first three children were born in York, two more in Cincinnati. In August, 1840, Dr. George, with his wife and five children, moved to St. Louis, Missouri, and here six more children were born. Here he practiced his profession until his death, December 4, 1851. He was buried in Bellefontaine Cemetery, St. Louis. His wife survived him thirty-nine years, and she is buried in South St. Louis. Their children are: Adolphus Spangler, Albert Peter, George Gardner, who sad to relate, was drowned in the Mississippi river in May, 1844; Jessie, Amanda, Sallie Dinkle, John, Maria Gordon, Ophelia, Kate, Gardner Spangler, and Mattie.

Of this large family, only seven are now living, all in the West. The eldest son is now a grandfather; he married Josephine Gwin in 1855, and they had six children: Alice, who married Lewis B. Gwin, of St. Paul, Minnesota, and has three children, Harry, Andrea and Alice. Belle, the second daughter, married Moses Goyetta, also of St. Paul. They have two little ones, Belle and Blanche. The oldest son, George M., died in 1898, a bachelor. Harry, second son, married Annie Hagerman, both of East St. Louis. This couple have a son, Edwin P., born in 1898. Robert, third son, died at the age of 17, while Willie, the youngest child, married Lillie Vogel, and lives in Taylorville, Ill. They have two little ones, Fred and Clara.

Albert Peter, second son of Dr. George, married Mary Barada. They lived in St. Louis, then moved to De Soto, where they reared a large family of children. He died several years ago.

John, the doctor's youngest son, died as did the fourth daughter, Ophelia, in childhood ; while of the remaining daughters, Jessie A., Mrs. Thorp, is now a widow ; she has raised a large family of children, eight in number and all living. She has also several grandchildren, who with their parents are living in St. Louis. Miss Sarah D., with her sisters, Kate and Mattie, Mrs. Crow, also a widow, are living together in the same city. Their brother, Gardner S., married in 1873, Mary F. Hickey, by whom he had two sons, John, aged 20, and William, 17 years. His wife died in 1883 and three years later Gardner married Jennie Marshall, and is raising a family of five little ones.

William, third and youngest son of John Eichelberger and Sarah Dinkle, was born about the year 1812 ; he emigrated to Texas, at that time a great distance for a young man to go from home. He lived there almost all his life. Coming home on a visit a number of years ago, he expressed himself as charmed with his adopted State and gladly returned to it when the time set for his visit had expired. He owned a large ranch and numerous herds, and was, we have heard, a useful and popular citizen. He was a bachelor and lived to the age of 90, dying about ten years ago. This closes the record of John Eichelberger and his wife Sarah.

MARTIN EICHELBERGER.

Martin, third son of George and Lydia, was a tanner, by which business he made quite a fortune. He carried on this trade in Baltimore, then retired and moved to York, Pa. He first married Mary Welsh, who bore him Catherine, Lydia, Mary and Ellen, daughters ; John, William, George, Samuel, Charles and Jacob, sons. Soon after the birth of this last child, Mary Welsh Eichelberger died. A few years after this Martin married again ; his second wife was the widow of his cousin George, said cousin being the son of his uncle Frederick Eichelberger. The second Mrs. Martin Eichelberger was a notably beautiful woman. Those who were boys at the time have told us with the utmost enthusiasm of her wonderful beauty. In Frederick Christian's will he speaks of her son and the son also of his son George, as being the step-son of this Martin. It was shortly after this marriage, that Martin retired from business and moved to York, where he built a beautiful mansion, which is standing now in York. Of the daughters we know absolutely nothing. One of the sons, we think probably William, was drowned in the flood of the Codorus at York, in 1815. John settled in Anne Arundel County, Maryland. He married Mary, name unknown, and had a family of descendants named Frederick William, James Francis, Eliza, John Myers, Emanuel W. and Charles Wesley, which son was an infant at the time of his young father's death. John was not quite forty when he died. We simply know that most of his children lived to maturity and settled in Baltimore. They like many others, of whom we could learn nothing will be obliged to accept our advice in the note to our preface and fill their own line out for themselves. George of this family married Elizabeth, daughter of a Mr. Schreiner, of Lancaster, Pa. He was quite a prominent man in that community, made several gifts to the town and finally left a piece of ground for a cemetery there which to this day goes by the name of "Schreiner's Cemetery." Elizabeth Schreiner and George Eichelberger had but three children—Martin, Elizabeth and George. Martin married Isabella G. Johnson, of Pennsylvania, and shortly after their marriage they emigrated to Lewistown, Illinois. Here George died in 1885; his widow is still living at the age of 78. She bore him seven children; the first three all died young. Edwin, the only living son, resides now at Lewistown, Illinois, is married and has two married daughters, Mrs. Wm. Palmer, of Sioux City, Iowa, and Mrs. Charles T. Lacy, of Havana, Illinois. Frank and Helen Eichelberger, youngest children of Edwin, are still at home. Irene, daughter of Martin and Isabella, married Alvah Howes, of Peoria, Illinois. They have two children, a single son and a daughter, Mrs. Isabella Frey, who resides in Sioux City with her mother's sister, Dr. Agnes Eichelberger. To this lady belongs the honor of being the first physician of her sex of our name, at least as far as we have been able to ascertain. She has practiced for several years in Sioux City and has a remarkably fine practice.

The other son of George and Elizabeth was George, Jr., who married—wife's name unknown—and had three children. George died while young and we know nothing more of him nor of his two daughters, Mary and Margaret. His son Marcus was living in the West at last accounts. Elizabeth Eichelberger, only daughter of George and Elizabeth, married Adam F. Hambright, who for many years was ticket agent at the Pennsylvania depot, Lancaster, Pa. This couple lived many years together. They were members of the Trinity Lutheran Church and for many years before her death Mrs. Hambright was a deaconess in the same. She was the mother of eleven children, ten of whom were living at her death. Four of her sons were prominent railroad officials, one was connected with the Pharmaceutical College of Chicago. One daughter is the wife of the Rev. Wm. Roop, D. D. Mary married Dr. Thomas Fahnestock, of South Carolina. Two other daughters married Lancasterians. Mrs. Elizabeth Hambright lived to a good old age. Her father died while still a comparatively young man, but her mother lived to a great age, dying not so long before her daughter.

These are the only ones of the children of Martin, son of George and Lydia, that we have been able to trace. The Rev. John Morris, D. D., in his letters writes thus: "Martin by his first marriage had quite a family of boys and girls, several of whom died in childhood." It was he who told us of the son who was drowned, and of the great beauty of the second wife.

George, Jr., youngest son of George and Lydia who reached maturity, married Eleanor H. Uling, of Baltimore, and had but two sons, John and William. We heard, but in a roundabout way, that the sons of George died before him. Almost all we know of this family is that George engaged in a large wholesale business in Baltimore, most successfully.

Of the two daughters of George, son of the elder Martin, we can only say that Susan, or Lydia, for authorities differ as to this daughter's name, so I have given her—Lydia Susannah, married a Mr. Dull, of York, Pa. She was married in 1766, and had two sons and one daughter. Of the sons Henry and George we know very little, except that they became among the best of York's good citizens. The only daughter, Lydia, married Thomas Bethgall, a prominent citizen of Baltimore, and was well and favorably known.

Mary Eichelberger, the youngest daughter of George, married Adam Welsh, of Baltimore. She bore him five sons and two daughters, Lydia and Eliza. Of these we know absolutely nothing.

This closes the line of George, oldest son of Martin and Anna Maria.

FREDERICK EICHELBERGER.

The second son of Martin Eichelberger was called after his grandfather Frederick. He was born in the year 1740; he was never as patriotic apparently as his four brothers; at least he did nothing for the cause of freedom that has been recorded in history, although he may have given largely of his private means in the Biblical manner; but of that we can not say. He married early, about 1766, Eva Myers, of York, and raised seven stalwart sons and one pretty daughter. Their children were John, Thomas, Daniel, George, Bernard, William, Charles and Sarah. Frederick seems to have been quite a large landholder; he amassed what was for those days a fortune in farmlands. His home place was just out of York, where he lived many years. The only public service which Frederick rendered to his State, of which we have any knowledge, was that he served as Justice of the Peace in the last of the eighteenth century. Also, the history of York and Adams Counties says that in the year 1800, a hundred years ago, a Frederick Eichelberger served as a State Senator. As the Senator was Frederick Eichelberger, of the town of York, it was of course Frederick Christian.

As he grew older he always was seen with a skull cap on his head, and from that he received the name of "Cappy Fritz." He was also often called "Ebert Frederick," why I am not prepared to say. He lived to a ripe old age, for as he died in October, 1824, he was just 84 years, 6 months and 2 days old. Frederick Christian Eichelberger is buried in the old Lutheran burying-ground where Zion Lutheran Church, known as Lilly's, now stands in York ; no tombstone marks his grave. His remains were carried by his four able-bodied sons, John, Thomas, William and Charles, from the residence of his son Barnitz, one and a-half miles north of York, to the place of burial. This was told me by the daughter of Barnitz Eichelberger, with whom Frederick lived about six years after his son's death. The cemetery where he is buried is the oldest Lutheran graveyard in or near York.

We have the will of "Ebert Frederick," which is very interesting, but far too long to give here. He had survived his lovely Christian wife, his sons Daniel, George and Bernard. The writer can just remember seeing this interesting old man as he came up to Hanover on business ; can just remember hearing him spoken of by one member of the family to another, who had asked which Frederick it was that had come, as "The rich one." To one who was but a little child at the time the old man instantly became an object of great interest, one whom he never forgot, although only four years of age. He remembers him clearly, a little, wiry, thin old man, with a pair of the brightest eyes he had ever seen. Frederick is described by the Rev. Dr. Morris, as he looked to him in 1810, as a "thin, slightly built old man, wrinkled and delicate, who did not look at that time able to live fourteen years longer." In all descriptions of "Cappy Fritz" he is spoken of as being small, which is unusual in this family.

JOHN EICHELBERGER, (OF FREDERICK.)

Of his eldest son we know little except that he was a merchant in Baltimore, or otherwise engaged in a very lucrative business in that city. Business must have absorbed him until he was considerably over thirty years of age, for not until that age did he marry Mary Lydia, oldest daughter of his cousin John and Sarah Dinkle Eichelberger. Soon after their marriage he bought a beautiful home three miles from Baltimore, where their three little girls were born. Here about 1812 John died, leaving everything to his widow. She in her turn died in 1831 or 1832, dividing her property between her three daughters, who were Harriet (Mrs. Musser,) Mary and Catherine.

THOMAS EICHELBERGER.

The second son of Ebert Frederick, Thomas, lived on a farm of his father's near York. He was married when quite young to Elizabeth Welsh and they had only one son, Samuel, who lived and died a bachelor. All we can give of Samuel is another recollection of Dr. Morris, who was his cousin—"Ebert Frederick" and Dr. Morris's father having married sisters. But unfortunately these recollections of his are rather vague, as he was a mere boy when these cousins were men of fifty. At any rate, all we do know of Samuel is the Rev. Dr.'s story of a race horse which Samuel owned and raced one day in York, against that of a stranger. Whether it would be correct to infer from this that Samuel was much of a sport or not, I cannot say.

Elizabeth, the wife of Thomas Eichelberger, died in her 38th year ; she lies buried in one of the old cemeteries near York, and on her gravestone is an epitaph which for its quaintness and old-time flavor I give here :

Stop, passers-by, where I do lie,
As you are now so once was I ;
As I am now so you will be,
Prepare for death and follow me.

And now Samuel and Thomas lie beside her.

DANIEL EICHELBERGER.

Daniel, Frederick's third son, became a citizen of Yorktown and married into a family which like several others, is all intermarried with the Eichelbergers. Frederick Christian's only sister married Daniel Barnitz, and his son Daniel married one of their descendants. But first I must say that there is a mystery about the wife of Daniel. There is a family in Middletown, Pa., who claim to be descendants of Daniel Eichelberger, of York ; they say by his second wife. Now we can only say that there is no record of this Daniel having married otherwise than a Miss Barnitz. But there is no record to be found anywhere of any other Daniel Eichelberger than this one, save the others which we give in these pages. In one way and another, there is certainly a mystery about the wife of Daniel. The descendants of his, those who we can positively prove are descendants, all claim that their great-grandmother was Susannah Barnitz. We have a copy of the will of "Ebert Frederick," and in it he speaks of "the widow of my son Daniel" as Lydia. We would then think that in this perhaps laid the mystery of the two marriages; but we are confidently assured that the name of the lady who was the great grandmother of the family of our name in Middletown was Elizabeth. So, to go back to our first statement, Daniel's marriage lies shrouded in mystery. This is one of the puzzles which one engaged upon such a work often stumbles upon; but this is the worst, the most unfathomable, that we have met with in this work.

At any rate, Daniel married a Miss Barnitz, supposedly Susannah, about 1795 or 1796; had four children—Eva Catharine, Juliana, Barnitz and Henrietta. Daniel died in 1811, and his widow survived him thirty-nine years. This is from the stones that mark their graves.

Eva Catharine, born in 1796, married William Nes. She and her sister were young ladies together and were the belles of York. The stories they used to relate were highly entertaining, when as old ladies they sat by the fire o' nights and the younger ones coaxed stories of bygone days from them. They attended the reception given to La Marquis de LaFayette on his sojourn in York on the occasion of his second visit to America. He was entertained in the house which was built originally by Daniel Eichelberger, now owned by one of the Nes family, a descendant of his oldest daughter.

Daniel and his brother Thomas were both good citizens, quiet and plain men; as one who knew of them said: "They were sturdy, honest, soberly industrious, good citizens, who were not slothful in business, were prosperous, honored members of the community in which they lived."

Of Eva Catherine Eichelberger we must not forget to say that her husband, William Nes, was first a private and then an officer in the War of 1812. This couple had only three children—William Frederick and Jefferson, who died unmarried, and Alexander Hamilton Nes, who married Eliza Billenger, and has two children, both married and having children. William J. Nes, the elder, has only one son, William Hamilton Nes, while the only daughter, Leah Kate Nes, married William S. Warner, of Titusville, Pa., and has five children living there.

Juliana married Charles Kurtz, and resided with him in York until his death ; their children were William H. and Katherine. William H. Kurtz has two or three descendants living in York today. Katherine married Henry B. Sidle and moved to Minneapolis ; she has three living children there, only one of whom is married, Hattie, Mrs. Edward Barber.

At Mr. Kurtz's death, his widow, Juliana Eichelberger Kurtz, married Jacob Emmitt. Of their two children, Jacob Emmitt, Jr., died without issue, while Sophia, Mrs. Wagner, is living in Minneapolis and has children there living.

Henrietta, youngest daughter of Daniel, spent her life of single blessedness in the city of York, among her relatives. She died there fifteen years ago at the age of eighty-three.

Barnitz, third child and only son of Daniel Eichelberger, was born in 1804, married Henrietta Danner, also of York, and had three sons. This entire family have passed away ; but have left sons and daughters of their name, all living in York. That is, the two elder sons did, the youngest, Martin D., born in 1836, died unmarried in 1866. His eldest brother, Edward Charles, married in 1864, Georgianna Rebecca Earl Codwise, of Norfolk, Virginia. Their five children are all residing in York. Only two have married ; George Barnitz, Edward, and Susan Earl are living with their widowed mother, while the eldest daughter, Henrietta Virginia, is married to Samuel H. Daily, of York ; and the third son, Charles M. Eichelberger, married Maria Elizabeth Witmer, of Niagara Falls, New York, and has a young son and daughter, Charles Witmer and Maria Earle. Edward Charles Eichelberger was accidentally shot by his "own familiar friend." The weapon was his own too, a dainty toy to be a messenger of death, a pretty revolver, of a kind newly patented. His friend was trying it when "puff," suddenly Mr. Eichelberger was shot. He did not die immediately, but later and by trouble caused by this wound. These brothers, sons of Barnitz Eichelberger, disposed of the very last of the Eichelberger property, which had come to them by inheritance. Fortunately for the antiquity lovers, it was bought by cousins—sons of the daughters of Daniel, and is now owned by the Nes's or Emmitt's. Frederick Augustus married Catherine Victoria Upp, of York, June 10th, 1862. They had three children. Frederick A. Eichelberger died in 1881, but most of his family survive him; his daughter Katie lives with her widowed mother, while the only son, Harry Martin, married in 1895, Laura Wolf, of Mount Wolf, York Co., Pa. They have two little ones, George W., born in 1897, and Catherine Upp, born in 1899. With this last little one, the great-grandchild of Barnitz, closes the line of the descendants of Daniel Eichelberger and his wife Susannah (?) Barnitz.

GEORGE EICHELBERGER.

George Eichelberger, fourth son of "Ebert Frederick," was married to a most beautiful woman, whose name unfortunately we cannot discover. He was born just on the opening of the last century, and is reported to have been a newspaper man, whether as editor or reporter we cannot say. He was engaged on a York paper, but about 1818 went to Baltimore and was engaged on a paper there. He married when quite young, and took his bride there to live; they had one little son, and then came a tragedy. There was a terrible uprising of a mob, about the year 1823, in Baltimore, and they broke into the office of the paper where George was working and in the uproar he was killed. It was a most terrible thing for that young wife with her baby boy in her arms, but such is life.

His only son, Abraham, inherited his mother's wonderful beauty, for one who remembered them both, told the writer that they were each in their way, almost ideal perfection of physical beauty. In Ebert Frederick's will he leaves Abraham's share in his property in care of his stepfather Martin. Sad to relate, Abraham lost his mind. I suppose not having a father to guide him through his youth, and coming as he did into possession of what was for those days quite a fortune, from his grandfather, Abraham was led away. Our friend, the Rev. John Morris, D. D., tells us in a letter how he had played with Abraham when they were boys, how duty called him from York for many years, and how when he had returned he searched for him or news of him in vain ; how years after he had gone to preach at an Asylum, and in looking over the faces before him had recognized his boyhood's playmate, Abraham Eichelberger, sitting before him. Inquiring into the matter he was told that he had become so wild as to have his mind affected. Here he spent the last days of his life, and died while still in his early prime.

BARNITZ EICHELBERGER.

Barnitz Eichelberger, as his father names his fifth son in his will, was more often called or spoken of as Barnet. He was born on his father's farm just outside of York in 1779, and about 1805 he married Elizabeth Ebert, also of York. He bought and lived upon a farm about two miles away from that city, and here his children, Philip, Henry, Sarah, Daniel, Frederick and Susannah were born. But while Frederick was still a mere child and just before the birth of Susannah, Barnitz died, after suffering terribly with the dropsy for several years. Poor Mrs. Eichelberger was left with such small children that it took all her time to nurse the babies, but she did nobly, and brought up her sons to be good and loyal citizens, her daughters to be good and true women. As one of the descendants of this branch said in speaking of them : "Our branch of men have been unassuming, neither politicians nor statesmen, but with loyal, loving hearts for home and country, have tried to uphold the honor of both by clean, pure and honest lives." Barnitz died in 1814, and his wife survived him forty-four years, a long and loyal widowhood, but it was with the blessing of God that she was spared so long for the sake of her fatherless little ones. Of her six children, three stayed in York, while three went West to make that the place of their homes and business ventures.

The oldest son, Philip, was the only one of the sons who remained in York. When a mere boy he was apprenticed to learn the hatter's trade, after which he worked with prominent firms until he gave up business altogether in 1862. He was a member of Christ Lutheran Church, and resided with his sisters until the time of his death, in 1877. He is buried, as are his sisters, in Prospect Hill Cemetery, at York. His sister Sarah married Abraham Baumgartner; they had no children and quite soon after their marriage Mr. Baumgartner died. His wife then returned to the home of her youth, where she lived many years, but died in 1895, outliving by many years her sister Susannah who had remained single, and lived at the old homestead for thirty years after the death of her mother, dying in 1888.

Henry, the next son of Barnitz, learned (as did nearly all the boys of that day,) a trade; he became a cooper. In 1833 he went to Winchester, Ohio, where he lived for fifteen years, then moved to Ottawa, Illinois, making the trip by wagons, such as emigrants used in the early days for crossing the prairies. He was married to Harriet Lowe, of Baltimore, Md., who bore him seven children and died in 1876. Henry, like so many of our race who moved to the West in those days, was compelled to give up the church in which he was raised, for at that time there were hardly any English Lutheran churches in the West or South; hence many of them were almost forced to join other churches. Henry Eichelberger became a member of the Methodist Church. At the time of his death he was living with his daughter, Mrs. Gilman. He is buried in the Ottawa Avenue Cemetery. Of his children his oldest daughter, Emily, married Washington Lloyd, who soon thereafter died; she afterwards married William Presbry. She died at Orange Grove, Florida, in 1896. Harriet, next daughter, married John Gilman; they are both living and reside at Ottawa, Illinois. Mary, third daughter, married Albert Honey, and lives in Tacoma, Washington. Henrietta is the wife of Frank Hackney, and they make their home in Chicago, Illinois.

Of the two sons of Henry Eichelberger, George, the elder, married Emma McPherson, and moved to Tacoma, Washington, where he died in 1889. But his first wife died long before that, and he married Mrs. Adelaide Roberts, and by her had two children, both born at Ottawa, Ralph and Edna. Henry's other son married Mary Smith and has a delightful home at Ravenswood, Illinois. They had three bright children, but two died, Roy S. in 1887, and Evelyn in 1879. Their only living child is Henry, Jr., aged 22 years.

Daniel Eichelberger, third son of Barnitz and Elizabeth, was born in 1811, that year fraught with import to so many of our name; more of the race were born, married and died during that year than any other one year since 1693. Daniel learned the tailor's trade and worked at it in both York and Baltimore. In 1839 he moved to Ottawa, Illinois, where he engaged in that business. Later he engaged in the dry-goods trade, but ill health soon compelled that to be given up, when he became interested in the lumber business and continued in that until he retired entirely from business. In 1845 he married Mary H. Hosford, of North Thetford, Vermont; they had four daughters. Daniel was an active member of the first Methodist Church, of Ottawa. He died in 1891 and lies near his brother Henry. His daughters, Mary Elizabeth, Sarah A., Fannie M., and Georgianna, all reside in Ottawa. They with their widowed mother have a sweet, pleasant home together.

None of these daughters have ever cared to leave that home for another, but living there together do all the good they can, are devoted to their church, and moreover are faithful and well-informed "Daughters of the Revolution," of which delightful association all female descendants of Martin Eichelberger can easily become members.

Frederick C. Eichelberger, Jr., (for he bore the same name as his grandfather,) was the fourth son of Barnitz, and was born in 1813, at the farm then owned by his father. Like his brothers he was early taught a trade, his was carpentering. He went to Illinois in 1837, and married Eliza Rumple, of South Ottawa, in 1845; they had four sons and four daughters. This family were members of the Baptist Church, and Frederick was a very active member, holding several important offices therein. At the time of his death he was the oldest resident member of that church in Ottawa. He died at his home near Grand Ridge, Ill., in 1879, and is buried in the Cumberland Presbyterian Cemetery, of that place. Of his daughters, Ellen A., the first, married William Lewis, and lives in Grand Rapids, Mich. The next one, Susan E., is the wife of William Trumbo, and lives in Marseilles, Ill., while Louisa M., became Mrs. William Milligan, and has her home in Ottawa. Frances I. married Charles Poundstone, and resides in St. Louis, Mo.

The sons of Frederick are : John H., married to Mary Miller and having his home in Harvey, Ill. He has two children, Frederick M. and Pearl R., just entering upon the brightest of manhood and womanhood. William Barnitz, who lives in Ottawa, was married in 1881 to Ella Sessler, by whom he has two children, Charles C. and Susie E., aged respectively nine and eighteen years. To this young man, and to his cousin Ralph, belongs the responsibility of carrying the name of Eichelberger well and worthily in their part of the State, for I believe they are the only ones of their generation and sex in Ottawa.

Frederick M., the youngest son of Frederick, has the honor of being fourth of his name, Frederick Eichelberger, right in his own branch. I would not like to undertake to say how many there are of that name in the family. This one lives at Grand Ridge, Ill., with his wife, Alice Butterfield, who has borne him two children, only one of them now living, Leola E.

This is the story of these descendants of Barnitz and Elizabeth Ebert Eichelberger.

WILLIAM EICHELBERGER.

William, the sixth son of "Ebert Frederick," was born in the year 1782, on the farm of his father near York. He was fast becoming marked for bachelorhood when the charms of the pretty daughter of the minister who was then preaching at the German Reformed Church, in York, proved too much for his aforetime unsusceptible heart. They were married about 1809, and in 1810 their first born, Frederick Augustus, or Augustus Frederick, (authorities differ which was his name,) came to them. George, Maria and Elenora followed him. These were all born on a farm which his father gave to William at the time of his marriage. This Frederick seems to have been a large landholder indeed, for he presented five of his seven sons with farms upon the date of their marriage. Truly, a generous and fatherly act. William, as well as his brother, was much interested in the building of turnpikes around York ; they both were members of a committee to see about raising necessary funds to build them. and were afterwards appointed Road Commissioners. Like his brothers, William was a good and loyal citizen, a plain man but had many friends. His son, Augustus Frederick, lived and married in York, for William died when just in his prime and this son took the farm. He married Caroline Day, by whom he had six children ; only two of these being sons, Charles Augustus, who died when a little over two years of age ; and William Kurtz, who is now a bachelor, residing with his sister, Mrs. Wiest. This family are Yorkers ; those whom death has spared are living in York, while the rest have their ashes reposing in the York Cemetery.

The oldest daughter, Jane Elizabeth, married Daniel Smyser, a farmer who owned a large farm just outside of York ; they had six children ; the mother died in 1882. Maria Elenora, the next daughter, was married to Charles Spangler, a merchant ; they had three children, one is married. Of the four daughters of Augustus Frederick, the third is or was, I believe, the best known of all ; Catherine, or Miss Kate, as nearly every one who knew her called her, was for many years a teacher. She taught in the Grammar Schools in York for thirty years, and before that in Hanover and other places. She died last Spring, and in a little notice I saw of her death, she was spoken of as being a remarkably fine teacher, as also a perfect lady, in the schoolroom or out. Emma Margaret, next daughter, was born in 1848 and died in 1867, only a girl, taken just at the time to be so greatly missed. The youngest daughter, Alice Irene, was, in 1875 married to Edward F. Wiest, a merchant of York ; they are childless.

George, the second son of William and Margaretta Augusta, married a lady from Baltimore, Mary McKenzie ; they had no children, and as he and Frederick Augustus were the only sons of William, you can see that William has no representatives at all, of the family name, in this generation. Maria Eichelberger, daughter of William, became the wife of Peter Loucks, a prominent citizen of York. Four sons and one daughter came to the Loucks home ; of these, the daughter, Mary M., died in 1877, and the sons, Peter and Franklin in 1880 and 1900, respectively. So only the two sons, Casper, of whom we know nothing, and Augustus, are left. This latter has been an Alderman of his home city for many years, and has done much to keep his name in fair repute and usefulness in York.

Elenora, the youngest child of William, died while but a child. Mourned at the time, but alas ! how soon are we forgotten !

CHARLES EICHELBERGER.

Charles Eichelberger was that old-time marvel, a seventh son, but as he had only one son the superstition was not carried out, even if the family would have done it. But there is a pathetic little story connected with him. He was very anxious to emigrate to the West when quite a young man, but as he was his father's youngest son, although he had so set his heart upon the going, Frederick denied him, or rather delayed giving his permission and probably something more substantial than the mere permission, from year to year. Finally, Charles married Elizabeth Nace, of York, and confided to her his anxiety to move West, and she promised him that when he was ready to go, she would go with him. Soon a little girl came to them, but just before her advent, which shows that Frederick was not unkind in his refusal to let them go, only that his heart was yearning to keep his youngest with him, he gave them a nice farm just a little way out of York. One after another, three more little girls were born to them, but the father's heart still longed for pastures new—Ohio seemed to be the goal of his longings. But the old father, Frederick, could not give them up. Finally, in 1824, the old father died, and Charles was free to consider no inclinations but his own. The farm was sold, everything was made ready and away they moved. At last ! One cannot but wonder if everything came up to the expectations of him who had so long yearned for the sight of these Ohio vales and fields. At any rate, they made them a home in the chosen country, on a farm quite close to Wooster. Here, in the new home, a son, the first, was born to them. How natural to name him after this so long promised land ! There were other names dear to the hearts of both parents, but first the boy must be named for the chosen State ; no thought or at least no care for the peculiarity of the name—little Ohio George Walter Eichelberger was soon so christened. Charles was a happy man for sixteen years; in 1847 he died, his wife surviving him twenty-one years. He is buried at New Pittsburg, Wayne County, Ohio, and his wife at Edgerton, in the same State.

But the last of the story is not yet told. The little son grew to manhood and married Kate Miller, of Reedsburg, Ohio. She soon died and later he was united to Arneal Spangler, of Edgerton, Ohio. By neither wife did he have any children. He moved out to Idaho, wrote me from there, and indeed he became pretty well acquainted with the Western States. Lately, wishing to know more of him, I wrote to Idaho. The letter was returned, with this written upon it—"Returned to Ohio, where he died." And it was true. Friends have written since saying that he had been living in Pocatello, Idaho, was taken ill and wishing to go back home to Ohio, was taken there, where he died Oct. 29th, 1899. His last wife survives him.

Of the three daughters of Charles and Elizabeth who married, the eldest became Mrs. John J. Hartman, and had three children. Mr. Hartman is dead, but his widow is still living, aged 80 years. Jane, the next daughter, married Joseph Coder, of New Pittsburg, Ohio; to them were born nine children, only four of whom are now living. Amelia Eichelberger was married to Daniel Beckley, also of Ohio, he died more than forty years ago, leaving but one child and his widow to survive him. Mrs. Beckley and the only daughter of Charles, who did not marry, Elizabeth, live together now in Edgerton, Ohio. These daughters all three, have descendants living around them, the descendants in the third and fourth generations of Charles and Elizabeth Eichelberger.

SARAH EICHELBERGER.

Sarah Eichelberger, the only daughter and youngest child of Frederick Christian and his wife Eva, married a Mr. Lutman, of York, Pa. She had four children,—Levi, who lived a bachelor; Aaron, of whom we can discover nothing, but do not think that he ever married; Charlotte, who married Thomas Jameson, and raised quite a little family ; and Jane, who married George Carmen, a politician of some note in his native town of York, and where they now have descendants living.

This closes the line of the descendants of Frederick, the second son of Martin Eichelberger.

JACOB EICHELBERGER.

Jacob, the third son of Martin, was a man of note during the time of the Revolutionary War. He was one of those who stayed at home and let his good deeds speak for him. He gave largely, and contributed also of his time and talents to the great cause ; indeed, he was an indefatigable worker in his country's behalf, not only giving himself, but collecting funds for the benefit of the sufferers through the war. He too was on the Committee of Safety. Once the writer met a party who well remembered him, and when asking for a description of him was told, that he always "was an exemplary Christian gentleman." He was a most devoted member of the Lutheran Church. He filled many positions of trust in his town and country. It seems with Jacob as with his next brother, Bernard, almost a pity that he left no descendants to inherit his many virtues, as well as to glory in his record during the War of the Revolution.

Jacob married a Miss Beard, who bore him one son, Peter ; but this little fellow only lived to see two short summers pass over his head, then left for a better world. The last years of his life Jacob and his wife lived at Reisterstown, Md., where they both are buried. They had adopted a son to their old age, one Augustus Miller, from their home which was at that time Baltimore, and to him Jacob left all his very considerable property, upon his death in 1832, he being 89 years old ; his wife died years before.

BERNARD EICHELBERGER.

Of the entire family of Martin Eichelberger, there is but one who can compete with this next son in his record as a soldier during the Revolution. Bernard was born in 1746, hence was but a young fellow when the call for troops was sounded, but old enough to be able to obtain his parent's consent to his going. As soon as he reached manhood his services belonged to his country. In the history of the Sixth Pennsylvania Battalion we find the following :—

“The Officers of the two York County Companies were : Captain David Greer, afterwards William Alexander ; First Lieutenant John McDowell ; Second Lieutenant Abdiel McAllister ; Ensigns, William Nicholas and John Hughes. Second Company—Captain Moses McLean ; First Lieutenants, Barnet Eichelberger and John Edie ; Second Lieutenant John Hoge ; Ensign Robert Hopes. This Battalion greatly distinguished itself in the unfortunate Canadian campaign of 1776.”

Later, a new Regiment was formed by Colonel Hartley, of which history says : “In this new regiment of Colonel Hartley’s were the York County Companies of Captain Archibald McAllister, Barnet Eichelberger, John McClellan, Lewis Bush.” Again : “Rallying the troops, Colonel Hartley had advanced with the reserve and bravely assisted by both officers and men, attacked the enemy from a thicket in a swamp to the left.” His Commander says of this : “This hardiness of his was of the utmost consequence to us.”

Sad to relate, the only family history we have of Bernard, or Barnet, as the State History calls him, is the brief mention made of him in his father’s will. In Scharf’s History of Baltimore City and County, we find honorable mention of Barnet Eichelberger, in chapter 9, page 69, in the article on the War of Independence. “On the 12th of November, 1774, a meeting was held in the Court House, of Baltimore, to select a Committee to inforce the carrying out of resolutions made by Congress. Barnet Eichelberger was chosen to be one of that Committee.” The committee drew up resolutions calling on the people of Maryland to lay aside all minor disputes, to unite in the common defence, and other things were decided upon, such as moneys to be contributed, etc. Then a cadet company was formed ; the people were notified that they must have uniforms, and many things must be done ; and finally the resolutions were signed by Barnet Eichelberger and others. He was certainly a man of influence in his day and generation. It seems too bad that we cannot tell of just one child of this noble patriot.

Griffin's Annals of Baltimore gives us this on page 37 : " Congress which met at Philadelphia Sept. 5th, 1774, recommended the appointment of Town and County Committees (to correspond with the neighboring Colonies, as the exigency of affairs should make it necessary, to make relief for the Bostonians and throughout the Colonies,) so the following gentlemen were chosen by citizens entitled to vote, to compose the Committee for Baltimore, viz—Barnet Eichelberger, John and Richard Moale, Mordecai Gist and other leading citizens, twenty-nine in all."

Scharf's Chronicles of Baltimore says : " Among those who arrived and carried on trade (for the Colonies) about that period, was Barnet Eichelberger." We also find that letters of administration on Barnet Eichelberger's estate were granted in 1783, thus making it appear that he must have died shortly before that date. But we could find no mention of a will, nor anything to lead us to suppose that he left a widow or any family.

In the will of Martin, his father, we find : " My son Barnet to have equal share thereof," several times ; but no mention is made of his having a wife or any children.

MARTIN EICHELBERGER, JR.

Martin, Jr., the youngest son of Martin and Anna Maria Eichelberger, enthused with longings to strike for America's freedom, became thrilled with patriotic ardor long before his parents considered him aught but a mere lad. He plead with them for many months that he might go with the regiments then leaving for the seat of war, but unavailingly. The whole story of his patriotism and its results, is given in the biographical obituary, taken from the Baltimore Patriot of October 15th, 1840, as follows :

Biographical Obituary of Martin Eichelberger.

The newspapers of this city have announced that Martin Eichelberger, for about 45 years Weighmaster of the Port of Baltimore, departed this life on the 2d of October inst., in the 82d year of his age.

It is painful to see, if not the last, nearly the very last of the officers of the Revolutionary War descend to the tomb without some notice of his services in the achievement of our independence and liberty.

Mr. Eichelberger was the son of one of the most respectable and influential citizens of York, Pennsylvania; where he was born January 7th, 1759. In 1776, at the early age of 17½ years, he entered the American Army. Such was his ardor in the cause of his country that being unable to obtain the consent of his family to that step, he privately left his home at midnight, went to the stable of an uncle living near town, took one of his horses, and travelled to Boston to join the troops. He immediately received a commission as Lieutenant in Captain Nicholas' Company, attached to the regiment commanded by the late Colonel Thomas Hartley, of York. He was present at the battles of Brandywine, Germantown and Paoli,—significantly called the Massacre of Paoli, inasmuch as the troops then commanded by General Wayne were taken by surprise in the night, and put to the sword, without mercy.

Captain Nicholas being transferred to the commissariat department, the command of the company devolved on Lieutenant Eichelberger, who was then ordered with the regiment to the western frontier of Pennsylvania, then about Wyoming, to protect the inhabitants from the Indians. In this service engaged in frequent skirmishes he remained, until about the time of the negotiations which ended in the treaty of 1783, when at the earnest request of an affectionate father, then lying very ill, he resigned his commission, soon after his appointment as Captain.

In consideration of his services and exemplary character, Mr. Eichelberger was appointed Weighmaster of the Port of Baltimore, immediately after the organization of the Federal Government.

His contemporary officers then in the Custom House, were Col. Otho Williams, Collector; Colonel N. Ramsay, Naval Officer; Capt. Robert Ballard, Surveyor, with other subordinate officers of the Revolutionary Army, all of whom he survived many years until full of years, time has numbered him also with the mighty dead.

In all the relations of life, as a husband, father, friend, neighbor and master, in benevolence and moral purity of character, he commanded the highest esteem and affection. Blessed with an excellent constitution, fortified by habits of temperance and regularity, he enjoyed almost uninterrupted health and died without a struggle. W.

May 10th, 1881, Martin Eichelberger, Jr., married Elizabeth Welsh, who was the eldest daughter of Jacob Welsh, who after serving in the War of 1776, became a merchant in Baltimore, and was a prominent man in that city until the time of his death. Martin Eichelberger was a stately, handsome man, and his wife was noted for her personal beauty, and they are spoken of as having been a remarkably handsome couple. They had a family of eleven children,—Jesse, Eliza, Maria, Juliana, Otho Martin, Louis, William Otterbein, Elenora Sophia, Amelia Augusta, Otho Welsh, and Henrietta Matilda. Of these, Otho Martin and Amelia Augusta died in early childhood.

JESSE EICHELBERGER.

Jesse, the eldest of this family, never married, nor did any of his brothers; but he as well as Louis and William Otterbein, was prominent in the defense of Baltimore, in 1814, at the battle of Fort McHenry. Jesse was appointed First Lieutenant of the Baltimore Fencibles, the First Regiment of Artillery of the Maryland Militia. After serving bravely and well in this war, Jesse became a highly respected and influential citizen of Baltimore. He interested himself greatly in the formation of that now flourishing German Society and was elected first President of the same. He entered into a business life, but died before reaching old age.

LOUIS AND WILLIAM O. EICHELBERGER.

Louis and William O. were privates in the regiment of which their brother was lieutenant, this company being composed mainly of the flower of the youth of Maryland, and known for the bravery and valor of both officers and men. Louis was a lawyer and a successful one, but unfortunately lived to practise but a few years, dying while yet in manhood's prime.

William Otterbein, the next son who survived to years of manhood, became a leading merchant, but never married. He died in January, 1879.

OTHO WELSH EICHELBERGER.

Otho Welsh, the youngest son, also was a merchant in the city of his birth; he entered Yale College, New Haven, Connecticut, but was recalled in 1819, to enter the service of McDonald & Ridgely, a wholesale firm, located at that time on South Howard Street, Baltimore. Here he remained many years, finally becoming sole proprietor. He lived to a far greater age than any of his brothers, hence was better known to the world at large; he was regarded as one of the leading merchants of Baltimore, greatly respected and esteemed for his business integrity and honor. So well was his reputation known for strictly dealing in the best the market afforded, for having goods honestly and honorably advertised, that after his death, the old signs from his warehouse were bought and used by other business houses, as a notice to the public that their goods were on the same scale. He died in 1879, leaving only one sister to survive him.

DAUGHTERS OF MARTIN, JR.

Of the daughters of Martin, Jr. and Elizabeth, only the two elder married. After the death of Martin, his widow lived with her sons and three younger daughters; she survived him fifteen years, being at the time of her death in her ninety-third year. Before and after the death of Martin, she made their home noted for its gracious hospitality. She was, as I have remarked, a very beautiful woman, and her vitality was wonderful. By her happy manner she succeeded in making her home exceedingly attractive, both to her family and their friends.

Her daughter Juliana died but two years before her mother, in February, 1853, while Henrietta Matilda survived her twenty-one years and Elenora Sophia twenty-five years.

ELIZA EICHELBERGER RIDGELY.

The eldest daughter of Martin, Eliza, married in 1801, Nicholas G. Ridgely, a business man of Baltimore, who bade fair to become one of the most promising young business men of that city, had he not died while still young. His widow survived him but a short time, dying February, 1803, leaving one child, Eliza Eichelberger Ridgely, who afterward married John Ridgely, of Hampton, Md. They had five children, but two of whom reached maturity, Eliza and Charles. Eliza Ridgely first married John Campbell White, by whom she had three sons, two of whom lived to manhood, and have since distinguished themselves, and become most important citizens of their day. Henry White, the eldest, married Margaret Stuyvesant Rutherford, by whom he has two children, now just approaching manhood and womanhood. Henry White is now

Secretary of our Legation, at London, England, and is quite a distinguished diplomat. His brother, Julian LeRoy, married Sophia Elizabeth Beylard, of Normandy, France. They have no children. Possessing large wealth and being a man of liberal education, Julian LeRoy White is deeply interested in charitable and social problems, while he and his wife are ever ready to respond to any charitable call. He has recently built and endowed a handsome Episcopal Church, in Baltimore, as a Mission of St. Luke's. The grounds are sufficiently spacious to accommodate a parish house, rectory, and other buildings.

John Campbell White died in 1853, and twelve years later his widow married Thomas H. Buckler, a distinguished physician of Baltimore. One son was born of this marriage, William Hepburn Buckler, a graduate of Oxford, England, and a prominent member of the Baltimore bar. He is married and has had two children.

Charles, the only son of Eliza Eichelberger Ridgely and John Ridgely, who lived to manhood, became connected by marriage with that Howard family who are distinguished by being descendants of General John Eager Howard, he of whom General Nathaniel Green, (himself considered second only to the immortal Washington,) said: "He deserves a statue of gold no less than the Roman and Grecian heroes." Margaret Sophia Howard became the wife of Charles Ridgely in 1851; she bore him eight children. Of these, three are married and three daughters are now residing with their parents in Baltimore. The mother of this family is a lady of grace and culture, the father a gentleman of especial erudition. Their several grandchildren promise to become worthy of such ancestry. The father of John Ridgely, he who married Eliza Eichelberger Ridgely, granddaughter of Martin Eichelberger, was rightly called Charles Ridgely Carnan, his mother who had married a Mr. Carnan, having been a Miss Ridgely, and a sister of Charles Ridgely, of Hampton. This last-named gentleman had no heirs other than his nephew, and wishing to keep his estate in the family name, he requested that he change his name to Ridgely, upon coming into the property. Accordingly in 1790, Charles R. Carnan secured permission, by an Act of the Legislature, to take the name of Charles Ridgely, of Hampton. This was done before the birth of his son, who then became John Ridgely, of Hampton, Maryland.

Thus the descendants of Eliza Eichelberger, eldest daughter of Martin, the patriot.

MARIA EICHELBERGER.

Maria, next daughter, in 1810, married John Clemm, who became for the defense of Baltimore, Sergeant of Artillery in the United States Army, and fought in the Battle of Fort McHenry ; Sept. 14, 1814, he was killed by the bursting of a shell. His name is inscribed, with the other heroes of that battle, on the Battle Monument, at Baltimore. Before this war, two children had been born to them, Elizabeth, who died young, and Johanna. The latter married Daniel B. Ridgely, Commodore in the United States Navy. Mrs. Ridgely did not live long after the birth of her only son, Nicholas D. Ridgely. This gentleman is now a physician of great ability, practicing in Baltimore, is married and has a family of children.

These are the descendants of Martin, whom we call the patriot, to distinguish him from the other Martins, all of whom took pride and interest in the Revolution of 1776. It seems a great pity, taking into account the fine, manly character, as well as good looks of Martin, that he left no descendants of the Eichelberger name to perpetuate his virtues in the family.

DAUGHTERS OF MARTIN EICHELBERGER, SR.

The only daughters of Martin Eichelberger, Sr. and his wife Anna Maria, were Mary, Lydia and Susannah. Mary, the eldest was born in 1749, and when but twenty years of age she married William T. Coale, by whom she had several children. We have been unable to find their names or indeed any trace of them ; in fact it would seem hard to believe there was any such person as this Mary Eichelberger, did we not read of her in her father's will as married to William T. Coale, and of the share of his property that said Mary and William were to inherit. Among all the stacks of old papers which we have, it seemed that we must find something about her, but the only thing that we came across was an old letter of hers, written to her uncle, one of the executors of her father's will, in which she says that he is not to send any more of her money down to them, that she is coming up soon and wishes to get it herself, as she has a certain use to which she wishes to put it. To read this old letter from this wife and mother, dead these many years, is to turn over the leaves of the past, most truly. It seems almost like sacrilege, poor soul ! yet there was nothing in it to excite our sympathies.

Lydia, the second daughter born to Martin, died in 1754, while still quite young, so never married.

Susannah, youngest daughter, born in 1756, did not marry as young as was common for girls at that time ; but when about twenty-four married Daniel Barnitz, of Hanover. They had a large family. Jacob their first son, married Mary Etzler and had quite a family. But right here I must say that there are diversities of opinion as to these children. Daniel Barnitz married twice and had two sets of children, and it was hard to find anyone who could tell with exactness just which children were born of each marriage. Finally an obliging fellow townsman, who was himself a descendant of the Barnitz family, allowed us the satisfaction of getting positive information from a little book which is written by the hand of this Daniel Barnitz himself, all in German, the names and dates of the births of his and Susannah Eichelberger's children. Also, giving the date and hour of her death. It was a great satisfaction, and our thanks are due Mr. Barnitz for it.

Jacob, the eldest son, married Mary Etzler ; George, a Miss McClintock, of Chambersburg, Pa. ; Charles, Rebecca Swope, of Gettysburg ; Daniel married twice, first a Miss Judy, then Elizabeth Forney, of Hanover ; John, also married twice, first Elizabeth Scholl, and then Maria Bentley. Susannah had three daughters who did not marry,—Deborah, who died an infant ; Lovina, who only lived twelve summers ; and the mother's namesake, Susannah, who died when just eighteen. William, the third son, was the only one of their sons who stayed single. Elizabeth Barnitz married Charles Young ; Helen Catherine, George Himes ; while the youngest child, Michael Barnitz, married a granddaughter of his mother's uncle Jacob, Eliza Eichelberger, of Hanover. All of these children, who did marry, have descendants living today, but the task of giving the lineage has been relegated to the editor of the Barnitz book, which family record, I think has been already published.

Thus the family history of Martin and Anna Maria Eichelberger, he who was the oldest child of the emigrant; who came to this country while still so young, but who himself and whose children played such important parts in the Revolutionary history of their State and country.

John Frederick Eichelberger.

In starting on the line of this, the second son of the emigrant, I would like to call attention to the different Fredericks Eichelberger of the first and second generations, and to explain how they may be kept separate, and not become so confused in your minds that this will all be a tangle to you. Philip Frederick, after coming to America, took the name of Frederick almost entirely. But he can be kept apart from the others if you will remember that he was the Frederick who received the grant of land from the Penns, in Mannheim Township, York County, Pa. His son Frederick emigrated to Maryland, down near Hagerstown. That is this Frederick who was christened John Frederick, in Germany. Frederick who settled near York, where he has descendants living now, was the son of Martin, and was christened Frederick Christian. Then Frederick, who had the grant of land made to him in Maryland, said grant having been first given in 1799, is Frederick, son of Adam, the captain in the Revolution. The Frederick near York can also be distinguished as having been known as "Ebert Frederick," or "Cappy Fritz," while the son of Adam may be told from the others by being called "Owen's Creek Frederick," Owen's Creek being a stream of water flowing through his farm, and near which several of his descendants live to-day.

John Frederick Eichelberger, second son of our ancestor, Philip Frederick, was born at the home in Ittlingen, Germany, February 18th, 1722, consequently he was only six years of age when his parents turned their faces toward their chosen home. Though but a mere child when their mother died, he, like his brother Martin, became of great assistance to his father, and although born in Germany, he soon imbibed the spirit of American patriotism. Until he was about twenty-three he lived near York, Pa., after which he made his home near Hagerstown, in Maryland. He was a Justice of the Peace during the Revolution. It was his horse no doubt that younger Martin, his nephew, took as he rode to Boston to join the Continental Army there. In his early manhood he was married to Anna Maria Kintz, who bore him two children—John and Jacob. Frederick Eichelberger, this Frederick—was one of those who are spoken of in the early history of Maryland, as being one of its most upright citizens, and as giving to and working for the cause of America's freedom. He was a devout Lutheran and one of the first to help institute a church of that denomination in his neighborhood. He was very generous during the Revolution, giving largely in money, and also in grain, for the use of the army. He, like most of his name, became a large large landholder. He was also a very handsome man, large and fine looking. In this day he has descendants, as you will see, pretty well scattered over these United States, although only one of his sons married. This Frederick was considered by his family to be very adventurous in moving so far from all of them and going down near Hagerstown, Maryland.

JACOB EICHELBERGER.

His oldest son Jacob, much such a man as his father, never married, but became quite a man of affairs in the community in which he lived. He was a merchant, and was one of those who so well oiled the wheels of this new State that in peace or war she rides triumphant. He spent the latter part of his life in Baltimore. He was about sixty years old at the time of his death, in 1803. We are not able to locate the burial places of either Frederick, the father, or Jacob, the son. We were told that they were buried, the first in or near Hagerstown, the second in Baltimore ; but it was impossible to locate their graves.

JOHN EICHELBERGER.

John, the second son of this Frederick, was a soldier during the Revolution ; he was a private in Colonel Samuel Niles's Rifle Regiment of Maryland Volunteers. He was promoted, and made a corporal for bravery in battle. First, he belonged to a regiment of Free Lancers who chose their own captain, whose name is not given in history. These young patriots took upon themselves the duty of skirmishers, and annoyed the British very much. It was later when he joined Col. Niles's regiment, in which he participated in many battles, in one of which he was wounded.

At the close of the war, John Eichelberger came back to his home, and soon thereafter married Mary Leonard, a daughter of Michael Leonard, of Reading, Pa. John and his wife then took possession of his father's homestead in Maryland, his mother having died while he was in the army. They were married about 1780 and in 1783 two events took place which greatly changed affairs for them. In the beginning of the year Frederick died and left them the home for their own, and in the latter part of the same year their son John was born. Then their little family soon grew, Jacob, Peter, Henry, Mary Ann and Catherine, following in due succession.

Of these two daughters, Catherine stayed as did her descendants near the old home place. In 1816, she married Adam Kinkle, and their grandson, H. Culler Tice, of Frederick, Md., has the Bible which recorded the birth of his grandmother and her brothers and sisters. A quaint old Bible this -with the record in the handwriting of John Frederick, the Revolutionary soldier. Here is recorded the marriage, here the births of his children. Ah ! had he but recorded there his own experience during the War of the Revolution, what reading that would have made, very like that of a secand Richard Carvel in his record in the Navy ; only our writer's personal experience would have been in the Army, of course. He had a large grain mill and plantation near Martinsburg. He died there, or near there, in his seventy-fifth year, his wife having gone before him, a matter of two or three years.

JOHN EICHELBERGER, JR.

Of their sons, we give the line of John, the eldest, first. He was born in 1783, and married in the year 1803, Catherine Zimmerman. This family of German Marylanders, so many of whom intermarried with those of our name, were descended from John, the great-grandfather of this Catherine, who had obtained from George III. of England, a grant of land comprising 1,000 acres.

And right here we would like to speak of these grants ; there are rumors afloat in the family concerning these royal grants, which are very wide off the mark. The Georges, II. and III., were both very anxious to make these lands, which had cost their country so dear, pay for themselves as well as possible. They were populated only with Indians who could not be taxed. So they caused proclamations to be published, that for a mere song, they would give royal grants of large tracts of land in America, to whomsoever would be willing to make a home and cultivate the land thereof. This did not tempt so many of their own countrymen as they had hoped ; the most of the English who were willing to leave home and friends at that time, of the first publication, were those who did it that they might have freedom of worship in the churches.

But the Kings of England were very anxious, and actually needed to make those distant lands bring in something, so they extended the offer to residents of other countries, and the Germans were, at that time, suffering from oppression from their rulers, as they had of late had many wars to carry on, and their people were heavily taxed, too heavily for a man of small means to be able to support his family. Hence it was that this offer of lands, almost free, in America, was so tempting. And this explains the reason of our ancestors, many of them, having received royal grants from one of the Kings of England, not from any cause of relationship, or any other, save only the offer that was made to all men alike, all men who were willing to come over here and settle, and cultivate this land and build homes, in other words become taxable subjects of England's King. History does give us several instances when these Kings did give large tracts in America, to a subject, but always for some particular reason, and each one is recorded in the history of the time, and generally the reason for the gift is given. As in the case of William Penn ; he had advanced so much of his fortune to the King that he was obliged to repay him in some way.

But after the most careful search among the old records and histories at my command, I cannot find the name of any Eichelberger, nor any one who has intermarried with the Eichelbergers, to whom such a gift was made. And very well pleased was I to have it so, for such gifts were usually made with or for a purpose, and those purposes were not always such as to be proud of. Indeed so often was I told that this or that grant was made to this or that ancestor, once for relationship, again for valor, and yet again for another reason, that I made a special study of these grants, the manner in which they were written and recorded, and they especially and particularly say, that according to such a proclamation "this grant is made by the Proprietaries of Pennsylvania, so many acres for so much, they acting under orders of George the so-and-so." Also have I consulted authorities, have asked those of the race who are in a position to know, or can easily ascertain, and they assure me that the grants were all given to our ancestors for such a sum of money and according to such a royal proclamation.

And who would not rather belong to a quiet, respectable, God-fearing, industrious race of loyal men and pure women, who won their bread by the sweat of their brow, than to have descended from one of the corrupt and dissolute members of the Court of one of the George's? Such an honorable grant had John Zimmerman received, and he has descendants living on some of that very land to-day.

John Eichelberger, the son of John, of Revolutionary fame, moved after his marriage to a farm, near Hagerstown, Washington County, Md. He ran a large grain mill as well, and here his eight children were born; they were named, Henrietta, Samuel, William, Daniel, Henry, Joseph, Susan, and John Thomas. With this mill John had a large business connection. They ground barrels of flour there, and hauled them in old fashioned Pennsylvania wagons to Baltimore and Pennsylvania, over thirty barrels at a load. His children attended school at Antietam, and the oldest son now living, tells us of having to attend school from a distance of two or three miles, and says that in winter the snow would be frozen over so deep and so hard that he could easily walk on the top of the crust. That was in Maryland, in 1822. In 1824 John, with his wife and children, emigrated to Ohio; they left Hagerstown in a large wagon, with five horses, and were eight weeks in going from Hagerstown to Germantown, Ohio. There were no bridges and the roads were very heavy. They found the country around Germantown comparatively wooded. John bought a farm near there of 75 cleared acres, and having a fine orchard of the most delicious fruit. In that day, this same son goes on to tell us, everything of farm production was very cheap, but money was exceedingly scarce, and dry-goods and clothing, and household goods were very hard to obtain. They raised flax, made their Summer clothing, and sheared and wove sheep's wool for Winter wear. Their house, the nicest in their neighborhood, was a two-story log cabin. The children went to a little log schoolhouse in winter. The country abounded in wild game of all sorts; squirrels were so thick they could knock them off the fences with clubs. John Eichelberger died in Ohio in 1847; his widow lived to her 63d year.

Of their children, Henrietta, the eldest, married Benjamin Davidson; they had five children. Mr. Davidson soon died, and Henrietta married again, a man by the name of Hall; they had one son who is now living in Findley, Ohio. Orin Davidson, son of Benjamin and Henrietta, lived in Dayton, a great many years, and raised a large family, most of whom are still living in or about Dayton.

SAMUEL EICHELBERGER.

Samuel Eichelberger, first son of John and Catherine, born in Washington County, Md., was married to Eliza Dever and raised a large family. Two sons reside in Chicago, George W., the eldest, who married Mattie E. Jack, and has no children, and the third son, Wilson S., who is also married but childless. Luther Eichelberger, second son of Samuel and Eliza, was a soldier in the Civil War, but it was impossible for us to obtain his army record. He is single, and lives at the National Military Home, at Dayton, Ohio. Samuel, the youngest brother, lives in Dayton also; he is engaged in business, but has never married. Samuel, Sr., the father of this family, was engaged in milling most of his life; he died in 1872, his widow afterwards marrying a Mr. Booher, but died in February, 1900.

WILLIAM EICHELBERGER.

William, second son of John and Catherine, married Sarah Conway. He spent most of his life in Dayton, and at one time operated large mills in the Miami Valley, between Dayton and Middletown. His family consisted of eight children, Sarah Bell, Marietta, Adolphus and Norval died in childhood; while Francis M. married Elizabeth Jack, but died in his 37th year, leaving his widow and two children surviving him, one child having died but a short while before. These children, John N. and Eugenia, reside in Dayton. Elenora Eichelberger, fifth child of William and Sarah, married first Jacob S. Miller, by whom she had two children, both of whom have died. Later she married T. E. Dawson, of Indianapolis; they have one living child. We are informed by the great-uncle of this Mrs. Elenora Eichelberger Dawson, that she died some time since, and as we could obtain no trace of her, we are disposed to think that he is right. Her only living brother cannot tell if it is true or no, so if she should be living and ever come across this, she will know at least where to find her brother.

William, Jr., the sixth child of William and Sarah, lived in Miamisburg, Ohio. He married, we think, but cannot be sure either of that, or if he is now living.

The youngest child of this family who grew past childhood was J. Edward Eichelberger, now of San Pedro, California. He is the head of a large firm in that place, the San Pedro Fish & Ice Co., wholesale catchers, packers and shippers of all varieties of Fresh and Salt Water Fish and Lobsters, also manufacturers of Pure Distilled Water Ice. J. Edward Eichelberger married June 3d, 1875, Julia E. Miller, and has two children, Guy Dudley and Lida. This family are all living, the son at Fort Smith, Arkansas, and the rest at San Pedro, California.

DANIEL EICHELBERGER.

Daniel Eichelberger, third son of John and Catherine, married Eliza Ann Rouzer; they lived most of their lives in Dayton, Ohio. He also was engaged in milling. They had a family of four sons and two daughters. The youngest son died when but one year old. Thomas Benton, the second son, married Eugenia Wilder, but had no children; he is living in Dayton, a widower. Martin Van-Buren, the oldest child, never married; he resides in Dayton. The third son, Daniel Arthur, married, June, 1872, Anna Neal Crum; he is a widower but has three children living, Fanny LeRoy, who in 1899 was married to Henry H. Fitch, and has one little son, Daniel Frederick Fitch. Lucy Bell and Frederick Otho reside with their father. Isabel, elder daughter of Daniel, married Frederick William Braun, by whom she had three children, but father and children have all been taken from this loving mother, who now lives in the same city as her brothers, but alone. Her only sister, Laura Rebecca Eichelberger, married Henry Clay Coffenbury; both have died, but they left one child, Leone Avon, who in January, a year ago, married Leslie Sever, of Dayton.

HENRY EICHELBERGER.

Henry Eichelberger, fourth son of John and Catherine, was born in Washington County, Md., July 9th, 1814; went West with his father, married there, in his eighteenth year, Sarah Routzer, of Springfield, Ohio, in 1832. While very young he learned the cooper's trade, and engaged in that and at farming for many years. He bought and sold many farms, having owned farms in fifteen different parts of Ohio. He has lived in that State ever since his early boyhood ; his wife died there in 1892, but Henry is still living, now residing with his grandson, in Middletown, Ohio. He is very active and strong, and although he is over 86 years of age he can walk a mile about as quickly as any boy. He weighs over two hundred pounds, and is well and hearty. He is surrounded by many descendants. He and his wife had five children, four sons, John Thomas, Charles, Wesley and Washington, and one daughter, Mary Jane.

John T. Eichelberger married twice, first Elizabeth Drayer, of Miamisburg, Ohio, who bore him two children, Kate and Thomas O. She died four years after their marriage. John Thomas married Mary Deborah Duncan, in 1864 ; she bore him four children, Robert Dudley, Harry Duncan, Laura Mildred and Charles Carroll. When his youngest child was twenty years of age, John T. Eichelberger died, at his home in Dayton, Ohio, where he had been a merchant for many years. Of his children, Kate married Marcus D. Wood, of Dunkirk, Indiana, by whom she has four living children, only one of whom, Bernice, has married, but all residing in Dunkirk. The only son of the first marriage of John Thomas Eichelberger, Thomas Oliver, lives in Middletown, Ohio. He is Secretary and Treasurer of the McSherry Manufacturing Company there, is married and has three charming young people to represent him and the name, Charles Marcus, Edna and Kirk Wood.

Of the children by the second marriage, Robert Dudley is with the Wells Fargo Express Company, in San Francisco, California, in the office of the General Superintendent. He married Bessie Lucas, of Kansas City, Mo., but has no children. Harry Duncan is State Agent for the Travelers' Insurance Co., and resides in Richmond, Va. He married Lillian Morris and has four children, little ones at home. Charles Carroll, youngest child of John Thomas and his second wife, is located in Denver, Colorado, in charge of the John Deere Plow Company's business, for a large territory in the West. He is married to Alma May Hunt, but has no living child ; his only full sister, Laura Mildred, resides with him in Denver.

The only daughter of Henry and Sarah was Mary Jane, who married Alfred Owens, of Xenia, Ohio, and had seven children :— Marley, now living in Xenia, still single ; Laura, now Mrs. Smith, living in Cleveland ; Charles, Thomas, Ralph and Maud, all living in Xenia ; Pearl, the second daughter, is married and has left the State. Alfred Owens and Mary Jane his wife are now both deceased ; she survived him thirteen years and died in 1883. The second and youngest sons of Henry and Sarah, Charles H. and Washington, died while still young, but the third son, Wesley, lives now in Piqua, Ohio, where he carries on a large trade, and where his only son, who is lately married, assists him.

JOSEPH EICHELBERGER.

Joseph Eichelberger, fifth son of John and Catherine, settled in or near Urbaba, Ohio, where he has engaged in the business connected with the carrying on of several farms and large grain and lumber mills. He has been one of the most prominent citizens of that part of the State for many years, and is living there now, at the age of 84, a hale and hearty man for his years. He married Mary Eliza Maley, who has also been spared to her family these seventy-nine years. They had seven children, one of whom died in childhood.

George M. Eichelberger bears a name honored and respected at the Bar of his native city, having been a lawyer there over thirty years, and having practised with the utmost skill and legal ability ; he has plead before all the courts and is known for his erudition and power. He is married since 1872, and has a most interesting family. His wife was Emma Ping, and their children are : Gertrude Mary, who died in 1882 ; Susan P., George H., Frederick B., in the Census Department, Washington, D. C., Frank, and Robert L. The eldest son of this family was sent on a diplomatic mission to China, in the '90's. None of this family have married, as yet, but are residing at home with their parents.

The saddest events in the life of this Joseph Eichelberger, was the burial of five grown sons, all men of prominence and ability. William, the eldest of these, married Elizabeth Jones, of Springfield, Ohio ; they had four children,—Jeanette, Isabel, Frances and Walter ; the only married ones are Jeanette, who married Edwin M. S. Houston, of Urbana, and Frances, who married Roger Staley, of Springfield, Ohio. The first of these couples has one little girl, the latter no children. Of these five sons, William and Frank were lawyers, Sylvester a farmer, and Robert an artist. Sylvester married Emma Straw, of Carey, Ohio, but had no children. J. Frank was as fine a specimen of the Eichelberger race as ever lived among them ; he was over six feet in height and proportioned accordingly ; he married a widow, Mrs. Sarah Mumma, by whom he had no children. He died when only thirty years old, a young lawyer of great promise. Robert A. early gave evidence of being able to become an artist of great ability. He studied art abroad, in Munich principally. His pictures are remembered today. After his death in 1891, a landscape of his sold for $1,500 ; it was on exhibition at Paris ; the owner has since refused $6,000 for it.

Isabel Eichelberger, the only daughter of Joseph and Eliza, who lived to maturity, married Edgar M. Ward, an artist of note of the city of New York. They have one son, Edgar S. Ward, a bright young student of seventeen.

JOHN THOMAS EICHELBERGER.

John Thomas Eichelberger, the youngest son of John and Catherine, was born in Maryland, but was so young when the family emigrated to Ohio, that that State only seemed home to him. He was a young man of great promise, and in 1846 married Julia Sweatly, of Germantown, Ohio. They had but one child, a daughter, Addie, who married a Mr. Ireland, of that place, by whom she has eight living children, all residing in Germantown. John Thomas Eichelberger was a most lovely Christian character, who was cut off in his youth, comparatively, for he died when only 32 years of age, leaving his widow and little daughter surviving him.

SUSAN EICHELBERGER.

Susan, second daughter of John and Catherine, was also born in Maryland, but was a babe at the time of the moving to Ohio. She married when very young, Jacob Hoff Boyer, and always lived in or near Dayton, Ohio. Her husband died eight years after their marriage, leaving her and five children. She remained a widow until her death in 1898. Her children are all still living, with the exception of the third daughter who died when 32 years old, unmarried. The oldest son, Edward C. Boyer, is married and living in Dayton, as are his two younger sisters, who are single. The eldest daughter, Addie, married Lewis Taylor, of Germantown, Ohio, and has children.

With this daughter, Susan Eichelberger Boyer, closes the history of the children of John and Catherine. The daughters were, like their mother, consistent Christian women, while these six stalwart sons were good and loyal citizens of their adopted State, and the name of Eichelberger has been upheld by them as virtuously as by their ancestors in Germany, Pennsylvania and Maryland.

The father and mother of these eight children were members of the Lutheran Church, and they were born and christened in it, but in going West, where as you may know, there were no English Lutheran Churches at that time, they became members of other denominations. They were always faithful to whatsoever churches they did join, and active members of the same. Every one of them became Republicans, with the exception of Daniel, who died before the war. Daniel belonged to the Order of Odd Fellows, as well as the Masons, and was buried with Masonic honors; William and John both with the rite of Odd Fellowship. Henry Eichelberger, who has the honor of being the oldest member of his family, and also the oldest of the entire name, of whom we have any knowledge, is a member of the Methodist Church, and an Odd Fellow as well. He lives in the family of his grandson, and is surrounded by about sixty living descendants. He and every one of his brothers are, and always were strictly temperance men; but one or two of them ever indulged in the use of tobacco, which many people would ascribe as being the cause of their long lives.

Thus the lives and descendants of John and Catherine Eichelberger. He died in 1847, she surviving him twenty-four years, living with her children, who were so proud of her being spared to them for 93 years, and write of her wonderful memory.

JACOB EICHELBERGER.

The second son of John and Mary Leonard Eichelberger, was Jacob, who lived and died in Maryland and married there, but we are unable to find the maiden name of his wife. He was a miller in Frederick County, Md., and did very well financially. He had four sons, John, William, Jacob and Leonard. Jacob died while comparatively a young man, and his wife survived him but a few years. Their four sons all emigrated to Ohio when quite young, William then going to Lawrenceburg, Indiana, immediately after his father's death. He brought a wife from Maryland with him, but we could not discover her name; she bore him but one child, a daughter, Anna Belle, who married a Mr. Green and went with him to Arkansas where all trace of them has been lost. William Eichelberger was a miller and became a very wealthy man, but by the rascality of his partner he was ruined. The news of this coming to him very unexpectedly, was the cause of his sudden death.

JOHN EICHELBERGER, OF JACOB.

His oldest son, John, was born in or near Hagerstown, moved to Ohio when a young man, and married in Dayton, in that State, in 1840, Christiana B. Winters. She bore him four sons, Frank W., Thomas B., Charles S. and William G., and one daughter, Laura B. John Eichelberger, son of Jacob, kept a hotel, first in Ohio and then in Iowa. He was known as a "most kindly host." He died in Bloomfield, Iowa, in 1887, his good wife surviving him until last March, when she died at the home of her eldest son in Bloomfield. This son, Frank W. Eichelberger, has for many years been a lawyer of note in Iowa, and he is now serving his second term as District Judge in that State. We are told of his being an ornament and a strong power as well to that Bar. He married Ella A. Pratt, by her having one child, May, who died nine years ago.

THOMAS EICHELBERGER.

Thomas, second son of John, was the City Editor of the Des Moines Daily Register. He was a great wit, known all over the State of Iowa for his apt and brilliant sallies. He had no children, but died in 1879, leaving his widow, who was Ella B. Reinacker, surviving him. She is now the wife of H. F. Royce, General Superintendent of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad, and lives in Chicago.

WILLIAM G. EICHELBERGER.

William G. Eichelberger, the third son of John, lives in Bloomfield, Iowa. He is married and in business there, having one son, Charles, who in turn was married, last September, to Clyde Sturdevant.

LAURA EICHELBERGER BRUNTON.

Laura B., the only daughter of John, married Captain W. B. Brunton, of the United States Army. They made their home in Davenport, Iowa, where Mrs. Laura B. Brunton died in 1878, leaving two children, Mary, who is teaching in the Stanford University of California, is a fine instructress in French and music. Her only brother, John Brunton, is prospecting in Nome, Alaska. Both are yet unmarried.

CHARLES S. EICHELBERGER.

The youngest son of John was Charles S., who died unmarried, before reaching thirty years of age. This closes the line of John, son of Jacob.

JACOB EICHELBERGER, JR.

His brother, Jacob, Jr., emigrated to Ohio also, and in Bellbrook, Ohio, was married to Matilda Brewster; they had two children, both of whom died unmarried.

LEONARD EICHELBERGER.

The youngest son of Jacob, Sr., Leonard, married Violet Kidder and had one child, a daughter, Jennie. She has married James Preston, and lives in Davenport, Iowa. Her children are, James, Pearl and Leo Preston.

With these young people closes the line of Jacob, son of John and Mary Leonard Eichelberger.

PETER EICHELBERGER.

Peter, the third son of John, settled in Hagerstown, Md., where he lived many years. He was an early and active member of the first Lutheran Church in that town. He engaged in different businesses, was for a long time partner with his brother-in-law, Adam Kinkle, in an extensive pork packing concern. Then he carried on a large grain mill, also after his son, Ari, grew to manhood he entered into the mercantile business with him. Peter Eichelberger in his youth exhibited that loyalty to his country for which the Eichelberger family are noted. He was in the later war with England in 1812-14, was sergeant of Captain Andrew Smith's company of the 51st Regiment of Maryland Volunteers. He served faithfully in the battles of Fort McHenry and North Point, in defense of Baltimore in 1814. He enlisted as a private soldier, but his executive ability, and quiet, manly bravery, soon advanced him to become a sergeant. We doubt not had this war lasted any length of time, Peter Eichelberger would have advanced rapidly and held a high position in the army of the United States. He was twice married, his first wife being a Miss Deitrick, who bore him one daughter, Mahala. His second wife was Sarah Kertchner, by whom he had four children, Ari, Augustus, Maria and Peter. He survived both wives, and lived in Hagerstown, to a good old age, dying in 1875. He was nearly 90 years old at that time, and is remembered yet by the inhabitants of that place, for his hearty good will and Christian fortitude which upheld him through his long busy life.

His daughter, Maria, married a Dr. Gershong, of Washington, D. C., and has a family of five children, all living in that city. This family is composed of four daughters and one son, Hugh Gershong, who is a physician, and practising with his father.

Ari, the eldest son of Peter, married Edna Smith, from near Reading, Pa., She bore him five sons and five daughters. The two older sons, Henry and Augustus, were among the patriots of the North in the Civil War. Augustus never married, and died soon after the surrender, from injuries contracted in the army. Henry married, and resides with his family in Hagerstown, as does his sister Catherine, now Mrs. Francis M. Hale; also Indiana, Mrs. John Manious. Sarah, the oldest sister, was married three times, but died a few years ago. Ari died when his family was still quite young, and the five younger ones went to Altoona, Pa., where they now reside, most of them married and with families.

The second son of Peter, Augustus, was a physician by profession, but did not live long ; he never married.

The third son, Peter, Jr., was also a physician, he settled in Quincy, Pa. He bore the enviable reputation of being an excellent one, with surgical skill not often seen in physicians of those days. He had a fine practice. He married a Miss Fochler, of Cavetown, Md. Dr. Peter Eichelberger, after a long life of benefit to his fellow-men, died in 1853. His three children were, Lucius, Virginia and Peter, Jr. Lucius married and resides in New York City with his two children, both single, Wilton and Mary Catherine, as does the doctor's widow and single daughter, Virginia. Peter, Jr., is married and living with his wife and three children just outside of Urbana, Ohio. He has a large and productive farm in the suburbs of that city.

So the line of Peter and his wife, Sally Eichelberger.

HENRY EICHELBERGER.

Of the history of Henry, the youngest son of John and Mary Eichelberger, we know almost nothing, and what little we have gathered has been in sort of story form as handed down in his brothers' families. We only know that he married in Maryland, and emigrated to Zanesville, Ohio, about the year 1820. He had only two children, both daughters. They married in Ohio, but our authority, a nephew of Henry, says he thinks that the whole of this family are now deceased.

The daughters of John and Mary Leonard Eichelberger, were Mary Ann and Catherine. Mary Ann married Thomas Phillips, by whom she had one daughter and five sons, the former dying when but one year old, the eldest son, Thomas, becoming a physician in St. Thomas, Pa. He died when only 28 years old, still single. He was an exceedingly bright and attentive young physician.

William, the second son, was a very scholarly man, a minister of first the Reformed Church, then the Episcopal, in both of which he held parishes, but finally entered the Roman Catholic, and as he was married, was debarred from further preaching. After this, he delivered lectures and held the chair of Belle-Lettres, in Seton Hall College, Orange, New Jersey. He married twice and had sixteen children, but only five who lived to maturity. His son Thomas, a brilliant lawyer in California, is married and has a family. William and Mary Belle, (Mrs. M. B. McGuire,) reside in Omaha, Nebraska. Mrs. Minnie Rose, the second daughter of William, was becoming a noted artist when death claimed her, but one year ago. The youngest, Fanny, is now a Mrs. Conrad, of Kansas City, Missouri. The last earthly home of William Phillips was at St. Josephs, Missouri, where his widow now resides.

Israel Phillips, the third son of Mary Ann, was a miller by trade, lived in Lewisburg, Maryland, and married Marie Louise Lambert; by her he had but two children, Thomas, who died young, and Louise, who married J. A. Layton, of Montrose, Colorado. They have a family of four sons, two of whom are married. Israel is dead and is buried in Lewisburg.

The next son of Mary Ann Phillips, nee Eichelberger, was John, who located in Waynesboro, Pa., in 1845, and became what is called in his obituary, "the parent of banking in Waynesboro." He was a very successful financier, the advisory head of many business enterprises in that place. It was said of him, that in his long connection with the bank in Waynesboro, he never lost a cent of the money entrusted to his care. His death was a serious blow to that community. He married in 1848, Susan Clayton, of Waynesboro; by her he had six children, only two of whom lived through their childhood. Clayton, second son, bids fair to follow faithfully in the footsteps of his conscientious and able father, being a banker in his native place. He is married and has two children, living not far from the residence of his mother, with whom is living the only daughter, Grace E. A. Phillips.

The last child of Mary Ann and Thomas was Samuel, of Wayne, Pa., a minister of the Presbyterian faith, a ripe scholar and devout teacher of the Word of God. He married Rebecca Kay, by whom he had a family of ten; four of these died in infancy, two remaining bachelors, but dying under the age of thirty-five. Only three married, Oliva, Melville and Ida. The daughter of Olivia is the wife of R. P. Faulkner, who is now Librarian of the new Congressional Library, in Washington, D. C. To him we are gratefully indebted for much of our first knowledge of all the sons—bar one, and the two daughters of John Eichelberger and Mary Leonard. Thomas Phillips, husband of Mary Ann Eichelberger, was an Englishman, a man of wide charity, of deep knowledge and good business ability.

The youngest child of John Eichelberger, Catherine, married to Adam Kinkle, of Hagerstown, had four children,—Ann Catherine, who married W. K. Tice; Eliza, only a child of three when she died; Mary C., who married R. Curtes, of Hagerstown, and James Clinton, who studied medicine and has practised for many years in Baltimore. He married there and has a son residing near him. Mrs. Tice and her sister, Mrs. Curtes, both have children living, but they themselves have been dead many years. Adam Kinkle was for a long time in business with Peter, the brother of his wife; in the pork packing business on a very large scale, both became quite wealthy,

With the family of Catherine, we close the line of John and Mary Leonard Eichelberger. His wife, Mary, lived to see her 83d birthday, dying February 22d, 1840. They are buried in the rear of the old Lutheran Church, in Hagerstown, near the gate, at the left entrance. Their four sons were industrious husbandmen, millers, or hard-working business men. Their bread was earned and they were all honest and self-respecting.

From the race of John, we trace business men, law-makers and law-givers, with but one representative of the fine arts. From Jacob, a race of keen business men, as well as lawyers and judges. From the line of Peter, we trace men like their upright progenitor, honest, sturdy, able sons of industry, with several who have devoted their lives to healing bodily infirmities. Of the talents and tendencies of the descendants of Henry, we know very little. We have been told that the sons of his daughters were scholarly men, several lawyers, and one a professor in a Western College. From the line of the daughters we see a great difference. Of the children of Mary Ann, they are mostly scholarly and deeply religious men, with clear business heads among them, while in Catherine's line we find mostly business men, with a few physicians among the number.

Adam Eichelberger.

Oldest Son of Philip Frederick and his second Wife, Magdalene.

Adam Eichelberger—as I write the name it makes me long for the pen of a ready writer to tell of this life devoted for so many years to the good of his country, and of the men, women and children who were suffering from the privations consequent upon the war. Adam was born, May 12th, 1739, at the farm in Manheim Township, then in Lancaster County, now York County, as were all of Magdalene's sons. We may see him as the oldest, a sturdy German-American boy growing almost while one looks, for we are told that "he was a stout, lusty man, over six feet in height, weighed over two hundred pounds, and had light hair and eyes, and, best of all, was noted for his great kindness of heart and genial temperament." Several years before his death, Philip Frederick, as we know, moved to Hanover. At that time having assisted Martin to a fine hotel business in York, and Frederick, Jr., to a farm in Maryland, he gave over to Adam the home farm, near Hanover. This must have taken place soon after Adam's marriage to Magdalene Bechtel, which was in or about 1769. Adam also obtained possession of what is now called the "Mill Place," then in Manheim Township, now in Heidelberg Township, situated also east of Hanover. This mill, in close proximity to the Hanover & York Railroad, is now owned by George Jacobs.

Adam was spoken of in his boyhood as "a lad of promise," and well he kept that promise. He was a staunch and loyal son to this new Government, and that at a time when loyalty meant a great deal, when he knew that but a turn of affairs might have made his dear ones homeless and himself branded as a traitor and condemned to meet the fate of one. But fear of that never deterred men of this family from doing their best, giving their all to uphold their leaders in the stand for their just rights. He gave largely to the poor in York, at one single time 5 pounds, 15 shillings and 6 pence, this at a time when money was scarce, to relieve those bereft of their natural supporters by the call to arms. He also gave largely at other times but only this time is the amount mentioned. He sent, with others, alms to those who suffered in other cities from the same cause, and aided largely in collecting supplies for the army. He was a prominent and influential citizen, and as such received the following Commission :—

IN ASSEMBLY.

April 25th, 1776.

TO ADAM EICHELBERGER, Esquire,

WE reposing especial trust and confidence in your Patriotism, Valour, Conduct and Fidelity, DO, by these presents, constitute and appoint you to be Captain of a Company of foot in the third Battalion of Associators in the County of York for the protection of this Province, against all hostile Enterprises, and for the defence of American Liberty.

You are therefore carefully and diligently to discharge the Duty of a Captain as aforesaid by doing and performing all manner of Things thereunto belonging. And we do strictly charge and require all Officers and Soldiers, under your command, to be obedient to your Orders as their Captain. And you are to observe and follow such orders and Directions, from Time to Time, as you shall receive from the Assembly during their Sessions; and, in their Recess, from the present or any future Committee of Safety appointed by the Assembly of this Province, or from your superior Officer, according to the rules and Regulations for the better Government of the Military Association in Pennsylvania, and pursuant to the Trust reposed in you. This Commission to continue in Force until revoked by the Assembly, or by the present or any succeeding Committee of Safety.

Signed by Order of the Assembly,

JOHN MORTON, Speaker.

In battles where he led his soldiers, Captain Adam is described as the bravest of brave leaders—"fear had no part in him"—and like one of Napoleon's generals, he "faced death with a lover's smile and embrace."

For five years he kept a "Tavern for Men and Beasts." We have the licenses granted him for the same, in which he is described as "a fober and fit perfon to keep a houe of Entertainment." This was very probably kept as a means to help support their fast growing family, by Magdalene, at the home place, while Adam served as soldier and as captain. The last two years of his life he was sent to the Assembly. In 1784, Adam bought at an auction sale 300 acres of land near the boundary of our State with Ohio, which the deeds describe as "Wild lands in the far West." It also goes in the tax receipts by the name of "Nathaniel Bradim's district," a man of that name having surveyed the land. It is just around where the City of Pittsburg is to-day, and brought only twenty-five dollars.

Just as the new country had settled to a few years of peace, just as he might think that now he would set about to prepare for his declining years, when only three of his children were fully grown, Adam Eichelberger died. Pennsylvania had no more loyal son than he, his county no better representative, and although not reaching the prominence of some, all who knew him mourned him, and were thankful he had been spared them through those trying days of war, when honest, sturdy, staunch and loyal men like he were so much needed. Adam busy as he was, did also well by his young family, to whom he left two large farms, one mill and what would to day amount to twelve thousand dollars. In his will he makes his "wife Magdalene," to whom he leaves the "little house down by the spring" as well as a yearly income, "my loving brother Leonard and my eldest son Frederick," the executors.

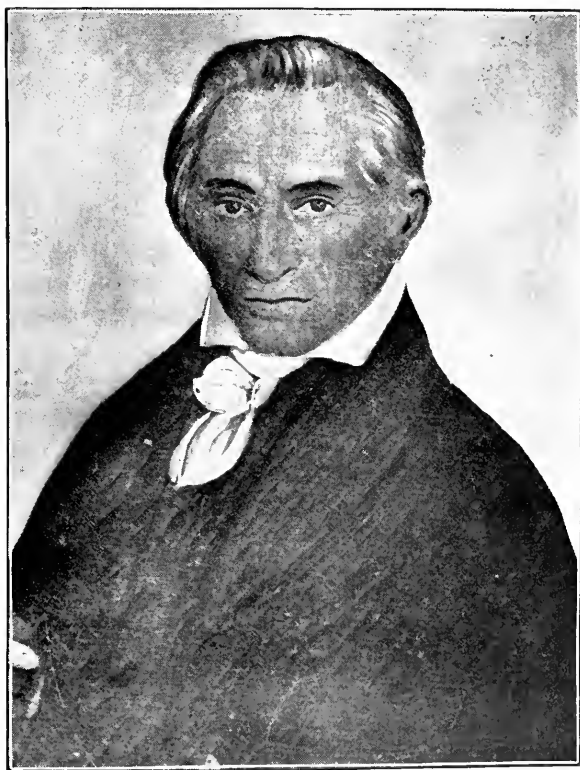

His grave may be found to-day in Bair's graveyard, on the York road, which land he himself presented to the community for a graveyard and church, not a mile from that home which he and so many of the name have loved so well, "The Eichelberger Farm."

His widow survived him twenty-seven years, raising the rest of the children who were young at the time of their father's death, Joseph, Adam, Susannah and Salome. Frederick was twenty-four at the time, and was married to Anna Frena Motter, of Maryland, and had one child, George, but a few months old. Adam's children were eight in number,—Frederick, Michael, Elizabeth, Samuel, Adam, Jr., Susan, Joseph and Salome. Susan, or Susannah, as her father's will calls her, was but nine at the time of his death and only lived to the age of nineteen.

FREDERICK EICHELBERGER, (OWEN'S CREEK.)

Frederick, who bought a farm in Maryland through which ran a creek called "Owen's," and often called to distinguish him from the other Frederick, then living, "Owen's Creek Frederick," and his wife Anna, had a large family of twelve children,—George, Adam, Joseph and Susannah, twins, Martin, Magdalene, Elizabeth, Mary, Frederick, Lewis, Sophia and Catherine. Times were more quiet as Frederick came to manhood, and well for him they were, with his boys and girls to look out for. (He accumulated a great deal of property, had a grant of 513 acres in Maryland, and bought farms in Virginia and Maryland, on which he put his sons. He was an Assemblyman in 1800 and 1802, but after that seems to have retired from political life. As he grew older, Frederick is said to have become a very strict old man; he would make his yearly trips to his farms on which his sons were living, cane in hand, and, did things not go to suit him, never paused, but raised his cane on whomsoever his wrath fell heaviest. We have a picture of him copied from a portrait, which we give on the opposite page.

But he did well by all his children, outlived his wife many years, she dying in 1815, and died at last, aged 75 years, August 17, 1838. Most truly beloved and mourned, for although severe, he lived in and for his family; and his wife is described as one of the "happiest looking women" of her day. Now for one moment's speech of her, who though not an Eichelberger born, did much to elevate and refine those descendants of hers who were Eichelbergers. As a grandson wrote : " Grandfather and all of his sons and daughters as far as I can gather, were staunch Lutherans. Also grandmother, of whose religious life and triumphant death, grandfather writes in most happy and cheerful words."

“Owen’s Creek” FREDERICK EICHELBERGER.

GEORGE EICHELBERGER.

Frederick's sons nearly all went to Virginia. George, the eldest, first moved to Virginia in 1816, and had a most beautiful home of 300 acres, called Federal Hill. His property and necessary slaves, the toilers of that day and generation, were the care of George's life, a happy and prosperous one. He married Catherine Meyers, of Pennsylvania, by whom he had four children,—Frederick, George W., Lewis S. and Ann Elizabeth. Frederick and the only daughter, Ann Elizabeth, married distant connections of their mother's family, Meyers, of Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania. They were descendants of Philip Meyers, of Wyoming Massacre fame, and a Lieutenant Lawrence Meyers, who was on Washington's staff, and fought at the Brandywine. Frederick, the oldest son, married Harriet Meyers ; in 1858 they moved to St. Mareos, Texas. They had lost two infant children, but the three living went there with them. Virginia died in girlhood ; John, the only son, was killed by being thrown from a Texan horse ; Lily, the youngest child, was living in Texas at last accounts.

George W., Jr., second son of George, was born in West Virginia in 1820 ; in 1848 married Anna Maria Wirt, daughter of Henry Wirt, of Hanover. They lived on their beautiful Virginia home where Mrs. George became greatly beloved both by friends whom she made there and by the negroes on their plantation. She only lived a few years, but left her husband one daughter, Blanche, an attractive daughter of the Eichelberger race, who afterwards married Professor S. S. Smeltzer, a gentleman of great learning and polish, of Staunton, Va., where she is now living with her two children, her husband and two other children having died.

George W. Eichelberger, after the death of his first wife, married again, the lady being the daughter of his uncle Martin, Maria Louisa Eichelberger ; by this wife he had one daughter, Anna, a young lady of fine musical ability, a teacher now at Capon Springs, West Virginia.

Lewis Smith, third son of George and Catherine E., married Miss Sarah Wirt, also of Hanover, in May, 1851. He was born in Virginia, and was a graduate of Jefferson Medical College. After marrying, they made their home at Duffield Depot, Va., in a beautiful house. Here he practised his profession for several years, afterwards moving to Cantonville, Va., where Mrs. E. died in 1864. They had only one son, William Wirt, who was of an exceedingly studious, gentle and retiring disposition. At St. Timothy's Hall, and at a large school in Baltimore he was always first in his studies. He made the law his chosen profession, was admitted to the bar in 1875, and about the same time was married to Miss Helen Wheatly, of Baltimore. Entering the service of the Government, he did duty at Boston, Washington, Mobile, New York, and Portland, Maine, where he, from overstudy and too close application, died in 1886. He had five children,—Edith, Blanche, William Wirt, Jr., Arthur and Paul. Edith and Arthur died in childhood, Blanche lived to the age of seventeen, while the other two sons still live with their mother. After the death of Dr. Lewis Eichelberger's first wife, he, in 1866, married a Mrs. Elizabeth Richstien, but they had no children.

Ann Elizabeth, only daughter and youngest child of George and Catherine, married like her oldest brother, Frederick, into that family of Meyers, of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., of whose connection with Revolutionary history I have spoken. Her husband, Lawrence Meyers, was a wealthy banker: they had a most delightful home, but only one daughter, and the mother died while she was but an infant. The daughter, Georgianna, with all before her to make her young life delightful, died when she was but twenty, a pretty and charming young lady.

ADAM EICHELBERGER, (OWEN'S CREEK.)

Adam, second son of "Owen's Creek" Frederick, was the second also to move to Virginia; he and his brother Martin, enthused by the beauties of their brother's home, wished for one as lovely.

And Frederick, severe and austere as he is said to have been, delighted to please his children, bought them each a home in Virginia, adjoining one another ; one consisting of five hundred acres, the other of three hundred. After settling and making a home for her, Adam came back to York, Pa., for his wife. At the age of twenty-eight, he married Magdalene Hoke, by whom he had six children, Eliza and Jacob died in childhood ; James Milton, a young man of great promise, studied medicine in Philadelphia, but while there was taken ill, and died at the age of twenty-two.

The second son, John Adam Hoke Eichelberger, moved to Galesburg, Ill., finally to Pana, a devout and active member and an Elder in the Presbyterian Church there, where he died about ten years ago. He was married to Mary Adeline Honore, of Charleston, South Carolina, in 1851. They have five sons and two daughters. Of these last, Alice married Ira Burlingham ; they live in Washington, D. C., where Mr. Burlingham is Division Superintendent of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, between Washington and St. Louis. They have two children, Catherine Honore, aged fifteen and Ruth Lyons, aged four. Charles Norman and his brother, Wm. H., are in the drug business in Pana, living with their sister Marion. The second son, J. H., called "Harry," in 1893 married Margaret White ; they have two sons upon whom will devolve the responsibility of carrying the name down into the coming generation, in Pana, Illinois, as they are the only grandsons of John Adam Hoke who bear the family name. They are Norman Jute and Chauncey Honore.

The third son of John Adam Hoke Eichelberger is John Willard, who was married in 1898 to Clara Hutchins, of Rosmond, Illinois. They have one little daughter, Florence Easterbrook, a mere babe as yet.

Jesse Lee, the youngest, is still single, a pharmacist, located in Kewanee, Illinois.

John Adam Hoke Eichelberger was first in the wholesale grocery business, then became a traveling salesman. He was of a genial nature and made many friends, dying in his 59th year, while his gentle and lovely wife survived him but two years, dying July 22d, 1892.

Harvey S., second son of Adam and Magdalene, married Lizzie Shaffer, and moved to Graham, Texas. He lives just outside that city, a wealthy ranchman, and his two sons, Milton and Albert, are carrying on an extensive business in the place. The younger of the sons, Albert, is still single, while Milton was married in 1899, to Susie Collins. They have one little daughter, born last July, Mary Elizabeth Eichelberger.

The two daughters of this family, now Mrs. Blanche E. Johnson and Mrs. Caroline E. Joline, both live near their parents, and both have families.

The only daughter of Adam and Magdalene Hoke Eichelberger to live to a marriageable age, was Savannah, who married James Aulick. This couple died quite young, but left three children, Elizabeth and Albert who are both married and living in New York city, and William, the youngest, still single, who lives in the same city.

Adam, the father of this family, died young, while just beginning to enjoy his dear Virginia plantation, which made his life's work for him. He was but a little over thirty years of age when called to his home in those beautiful mansions, and left his young wife alone with her three living children, but she responded to the call thus made upon her most bravely, and ran the plantation in such a business-like way as to be able to start the children in the world very well. When her son, John Adam Hoke, left for Illinois she went with him, lived with him in Galesburg and then in Lewistown of that State. There she died about 1878, and there she is buried. Her husband is buried in Virginia.

FREDERICK AND CATHERINE EICHELBERGER.

Frederick, namesake of his father, died while yet a child, as did also his sister Catherine. Out of this large family, these two were the only ones who did not live to marry and have children, and with ten children giving him descendants it is no wonder that "Owen's Creek" Frederick had a long line.

JOSEPH EICHELBERGER.

Joseph, the fourth son of Frederick and Anna Frena Motter, was with his twin sister Susannah, born October 10th, 1795. He never left home as did his brothers, but we can see him living near his father, the filial staff of his declining years. He too had a delightful home in Frederick County, Md., and married Elizabeth Hoke, of Mercersburg, Pa., by whom he had the following children:—Michael, married to Isabelle Favorite, moved to Dayton, Ohio, where he raised a family of seven children, and died in 1892, in his 62d year; his widow is still living in Dayton. Their oldest child died, one son, Allen, is single, is in business and living with his mother. All the rest are married and living in Ohio except one, Olive, who lives in Omaha, Nebraska.

Martin, second son of Joseph, moved to Emmitsburg, or near there. He married Cassandra Favorite, by whom he had five children, and died in 1896. Of his children only one, George, is married, and has two children. Gregg was killed by an accident on the railroad, some time since. The rest, Joseph, Carrie and Maria, are living, but we do not know where.

Of Joseph's daughters, Harriet, the eldest died at 24; Virginia not much later in life, both single; Elizabeth died in infancy, while Mary married John Seabrook and raised four boys and five girls, several of whom are married, with little ones of their own. Susan Eichelberger married George Zimmerman, M. D., and has two sons and one daughter, Clayton and Effie single, and Frank who married Mary Black and has five children. Marian, the youngest child of Joseph, lives at Rocky Ridge, Md., and has taught school for many years.

Grayson, third son of Joseph, lives in Jeffersonville, Ohio, where he moved after the Civil War. When the call for troops was made in the Civil War, he enlisted in Co. D, 6th Maryland Volunteers, as a private, at Mechanicstown, Frederick County, Md. August 7th, 1862, was promoted sergeant, later to 1st sergeant; then to First Lieutenant of Co. D, November 17th, 1864, Captain of Co. G, April 13th, 1865; brevetted Captain in U. S. Army, April 2d, 1865, for gallant and meritorious services before Petersburg, Va. He led the 67th Pennsylvania Veteran Volunteers into action April 2d, 1865, in the assault on the Rebel lines at Petersburg, and captured a "Division Flag." Served entire time of enlistment in Army of the Potomac, and with Gen. Milroy in Shenandoah Valley, in 3d Brigade, 2d Division, 8th Army Corps, later in 1st Brigade, 2d Division, 8th Army Corps; July 9th, 1863, 2d Brigade, 3d Division, 3d Army Corps; March 24th 1864, 2d Brigade, 3d Division, 6th Army Corps, where his regiment remained until the surrender of Lee at Appomatox closed the war. He participated in the following battles, besides many skirmishes:—Winchester, 1863, Milroy; 1864, Sheridan; Wilderness, Spottsylvania, Cold Harbor, North and South Anna Rivers, Petersburg, Opequan, Fisher's Hill, Wapping Heights and Sailor's Creek. Was hit with spent ball on ankle at the Wilderness, May 6th, 1864, again with spent ball on instep at Spottsylvania, May 10th, 1864, and was severely wounded across left breast at Winchester, Va., September 19th, 1864, and was kept in a hospital for four months, which was the only time spent in hospital during entire service.

This is indeed a record to be proud of. This is one of the soldiers and patriots of whom we have boasted, this veteran of the Civil War. In 1867, he married Hannah M. Coyner, by whom he has six children. Maud died in 1870; Phoebe N. married a Mr. Kirk, in 1896, and has one little son. The rest of the children reside with their parents. Grayson Eichelberger is connected with the Fayette County Infirmary of Ohio.

MARTIN LUTHER EICHELBERGER.

Martin Luther, fifth son of "Owen's Creek" Frederick, lived near Creagerstown, Md., then moved in the early '40's to his pleasant home and plantation bought for him by his father, next that of his brother Adam. It was called Rock Spring. He also bought a mill property which he sometimes ran; he was a member of the Board of County Commissioners for the years 1833-34-35 and 1844-45. He also filled a few other positions, but the care of such a large and fruitful plantation occupied all his time as did theirs that of his brothers.

Martin Luther Eichelberger justified his name by his deep religious feeling and beautiful Christian life. There was a feeling of pleasure among the neighboring Virginians as they became acquainted with these brothers whom they had been expecting rather to look down upon as Pennsylvania-Germans ; but whose sturdy uprightness, cordial manners and lovely Christian lives, won their heartiest respect and liking. This comes to me from a son of one of these neighbors. At the age of 29 Martin married Maria Zimmerman. This couple raised a family of six children,—Joseph L., Ann Eliza, Webster, Maria Louisa, Jane Elizabeth and George Frederick. We have no record of his wife, but Martin himself died in 1855, aged 57 years, 10 months and 7 days.

Joseph Luther, eldest son of Martin Luther and Maria Eichelberger, born in Frederick County, Md., October 27, 1827, moved with his parents to Jefferson County, Virginia, now West Virginia, in the early '40's, where he worked with his father in the milling business and on the farm until he was 21 years of age. He died March 31st, 1898, aged 70 years, 5 months and 29 days. He followed the occupation of farming during his entire life. He was three times married ; first to Deborah Schaeffer, by whom two children were born to him, Deborah, who lived to the age of six years, and Nellie, who died an infant of six months. His second wife was Eliza Catherine Deest, who bore him three children,—Martin Luther, born February 4, 1867, married in November, 1896. He is a hardware merchant in Shepherdstown, W. Va., and has no living child. Mary Catherine is a teacher in the National Business College, at Roanoke, Va. Nettie May, a teacher, in 1898 married Jacob Strider Moler, and lives at Keller, W. Va. Her husband is postmaster, and engaged in general merchandising. One child, Wallace McClure, was born to them April 23, 1900. The third wife of Joseph survives him, S. Jane Barrick, also a descendant of Frederick, the grandfather of her husband. Her one son, Charles Barrick Eichelberger, was born April 28, 1885. He and his mother live in Frederick County, Maryland.

George Frederick, brother of Joseph Luther, when a lad of eighteen became a member, with his brother Webster, of the famous Stonewall Brigade in the Confederate Army, and served well and effectually in that army until the surrender of Lee, when he returned home. Some years after he procured a position in the Government Printing Office, at Washington, D. C., where he has been for fifteen years. He has never married.

Webster, second son of Martin Luther and Maria Eichelberger, has his record in life given here in a more full and comprehensive manner than it would be in my power to give it, so with pleasure I insert the following : -

“This faithful servant of God and His church was suddenly called from the labors of earth to his rest and reward, on Wednesday morning, December 15th, at about half-past eleven o'clock. For several years he had not been in the enjoyment of his customary robust health ; but had so greatly improved, that at the recent meeting of Synod he appeared to his friends and brethren to have promise of length of days. On the day preceding his death, he returned to his home at Smithfield, from distant preaching appointments, in good spirits, and expressing himself as less fatigued than usual by such a trip. On the following morning, however, while engaged in some necessary work in the parsonage yard, he was, ‘as in the twinkling of an eye,’ stricken down. A servant to whom he had just spoken pleasantly as he passed out from the house, saw him immediately after his fall, but when she went to him found him dead.

“The event has been a sad and startling shock, not only to the immediate family of our departed brother, and to the community in which he lived, but to many friends and brethren far and near, who highly esteemed him for the purity and sincerity of his Christian character, and the unvarying kindness of his disposition. As one of the older brethren has written, ‘It can truly be said of him, that he was a good man, an humble minded disciple of the Lord. A pure and simple hearted Christian, a Nathaniel without hypocrisy and without guile. He was faithful to duty and remarkably conscientious in his walk and conversation. His citizenship was in Heaven, and there, no doubt, he now enjoys in full position its immunities and unspeakable happiness.’

“Brother Eichelberger was born in Frederick County, Md., March 9th, 1835. While the subject of our notice was yet quite a child, his father removed his family to Jefferson County, Virginia, (now West Virginia,) and his early education was secured at the academy of the county seat, Charlestown. He entered the Junior Class of Pennsylvania College, at Gettysburg, in 1854, and was graduated in 1856, after which he was for a time engaged in teaching. Feeling it his duty to enter the Gospel ministry, he returned to Gettysburg for a course of instruction in the Theological Seminary and accepted, temporarily, a position as tutor at Roanoke College. Soon thereafter, upon the breaking out of the war, he entered the Confederate service, being a private in the Second Regiment of Virginia Infantry, from June 21, 1861, to July 21, 1862. He was ordained to the ministry in 1863, and in connection with occasional preaching held a place as tutor and adjunct Professor in Latin in Newberry College, South Carolina. In 1864-65 he labored as Chaplain in the Confederate army, particularly in connection with the Twentieth Regiment of South Carolina Infantry. Upon the close of the war he was engaged for some years at teaching in various private schools, availing himself however, of all opportunities to prosecute the work that he loved—the preaching of the Word. Since 1869 he has served different pastorates in the Virginia Synod, and at the time of his death was missionary pastor of the Smithfield charge. December 9th, 1874, he was married to Miss Elizabeth M. Hobart, of Hampshire County, W. Va., who with their surviving child, a son of about ten years, [this was written at the time of his death, 1884.] have the sympathies and prayers of many, in their sore bereavement. The funeral services were held in Smithfield, December 17th, and notwithstanding the severity of the weather, a large congregation of the departed pastor's parishioners, neighbors and friends were present. He lies buried in Edge Hill Cemetery, Charlestown.”

His one son, Philip Frederick, is connected on his mother's side with our late Vice President and is the only living descendant of Philip Frederick, the first who bears his full name. He is about 26 years of age.

Ann Eliza, eldest daughter of Martin Luther, was married in 1851 to Rev. J. O. Smeltzer, who was a minister in the church of his fathers. Dr. Smeltzer was the first President of Roanoke College, and was a man of scholarly attainments, and his wife was a meet companion, being of a lovely Christian character, and a most devoted wife and mother. Both are dead now. They had eleven children, the three youngest of whom died in childhood. The eldest daughter, Mrs. Frederick Muller, has six children; the next, Mrs. Kate Eargle, has lately been left a widow with three young children, and Mrs. I. J. Seyle, with three children, completes the list of daughters in this family.

Of the sons, William B. and Charles M., who died in 1876, lived bachelors, and John B. and Samuel S. married. John B. died in 1893, but left a young son, John B. Smeltzer, Jr. Samuel S., was married to Blanche, the daughter of George William Eichelberger, who with two children survives him; he died in 1891.

Maria Louisa, the second daughter of Martin Luther, a staunch and true Christian daughter who followed in the footsteps of her parents, married George W. Eichelberger, of West Virginia, and bore him one daughter, Anna, as noted elsewhere in this record.

Jane Elizabeth, the next sister of Ann Eliza and Maria Louisa, never married, but was the good fairy in the homes of her sisters and nieces, as only a single lady could be. She died in Charleston, S. C., May, 1898. This finishes the line of Martin Luther Eichelberger.

LEWIS FREDERICK EICHELBERGER.

Lewis Frederick Eichelberger, youngest son of Frederick, has his life better described in the following article written by Rev. J. E. Bushnell, D. D., of Winchester, Va., than I could possibly give it :—

The early training of the subject of this sketch was in the school of Rev. Dr. Schaeffer, of Frederick. While boarding with a married sister in Georgetown, D. C., he afterward attended the classical school of Rev. Dr. Carnahan, who became the President of Princeton College. In 1826 he graduated at Dickinson College and shared the honors of his class with Dr. Baugher, the first President of Pennsylvania College, and George Buchanan, a brother of the President of the United States. He at once entered the newly organized Seminary at Gettysburg and graduated with Dr. Morris and others in the first class. He was licensed to preach by the Synod of Maryland and Virginia at Shepherdstown, October 21, 1828, and while yet a student accepted the unanimous call to become pastor of the Lutheran church in Winchester, being the third pastor of this historic congregation, succeeding Christian Streit and Abraham Reck. In 1833 he opened a female school known as Auquerona Seminary, and also became editor of The Virginian.

REV. LEWIS F. EICHELBERGER. D. D., LL.D.

After declining an appointment to the Professorship of Theology at Lexington, S. C., he afterwards changed his decision and served the Seminary up to the year of his death. In 1853, the degree of Doctor of Divinity was conferred by Princeton College, which was then one of the most influential church institutions of the country. He resigned his Professorship in 1858, and returned to Winchester greatly impaired in health. Dr. Morris, in his valuable biography, says: "He eagerly seized the leisure at his disposal for the execution of a long-cherished purpose to prepare for the press a popular and compact History of the Lutheran Church for which he had made extensive preparations. Although frequently interrupted by illness and much disabled by bodily weakness, he yet lived to finish this last work of love to his Church, of which he was an admiring and loyal son, and a faithful, self-denying servant. Death found him with the harness on ready to do or die as the Lord might order. His death was peace, was triumph. It was a privilege which shall never be forgotten to see his heavenly composure and to hear his dying utterances. When he had but strength to whisper a few words at a time, he said to a brother minister, 'Christ is a precious Saviour. He does more than He promises for His dying followers. Go preach to sinners, Christ will save them all. Nothing but Christ will do in death.' He was much beloved by all for whom and with whom he labored, and was universally respected and esteemed wherever he lived. (Fifty Years in Lutheran Ministry.)

The inaugural address of Dr. Eichelberger, when called a second time to service in the Seminary in 1852, as successor to the esteemed Dr. Hazelius, sets forth in a scriptural and scholarly spirit the true elements of an efficient ministry, and his official exchange of letters, with reports to the board, also furnish valuable notes upon the condition of the work in those early days.

Lewis married twice, first in 1830, Mary Miller. Their oldest son, John Miller, graduated at Pennsylvania College, then at the Seminary, at Gettysburg, was a beautiful Christian character, and would have made, no doubt, a minister of like usefulness as his father. But God took him to those mansions prepared for us, when he had only been on this earth twenty years.

The next son, Henry Samuel, was a most useful man, whose fulfillment of his chosen profession made him in Staunton, Va., admired and loved as only a good and kind physician can be. He received his degree of M. D. at the University of Pennsylvania, April, 1854, then settled in Staunton, where in connection with his practice, he opened and owned a drug store, and for twenty years was the leading pharmacist and physician in the town. In 1859, he married Susan Catherine Baylor, also a Virginian, of prominent family whose members always were ready to serve bravely and well at the call of their State; she still survives him. They had six children. George Baylor, died at the age of twenty, a bright and cordial copy of his father. Hugh Gilbert, a lawyer who in his turn married in 1891, Sadie Crawford Eichelberger; they have three young sons, Hugh Crawford, aged eight, George Baylor, four, and Henry Baxter, two. Hugh Gilbert is also proprietor of Variety Springs, a most delightful Summer resort in Augusta County, Virginia. Henry Lewis, his brother, is a merchant in Staunton, Va. He was but lately married to Nannie Griffin Herring, of Bridgewater, Va. Mamie Bell, eldest daughter of Dr. Henry Samuel Eichelberger, was a lovely and lovable girl, just engaged to a young minister of the Episcopal Church, when she was taken ill, and died in 1889. Charles Preston, the Dr's. fourth son, has followed in the footsteps of his father, and has been for some years on the staff of the Eye and Ear Infirmary, in New York City. He has not yet married, nor has his sister, Kate Edith, now enjoying a pleasant girlhood, and living with her mother. The father of this family, Dr. Samuel, died, January 24th, 1887.

Margaretta, only daughter of Rev. Dr. Lewis, was born in 1834, and in 1854 married John Bushnell. She was extremely devout and pious; had four children, two dying in infancy. Her daughter Ella married Joseph Sperry, by whom she had several children, and who all reside on Jersey City Heights. Rev. John Bushnell, only son of Margaretta, graduated from Roanoke College in 1878, and from the Lutheran Theological Seminary, at Salem, Va. He has served in the Lutheran ministry since 1882, first in South Carolina, then at Roanoke, Va., in Maryland, and for several years in Oakland, California. While in this latter State he received the degree of Doctor of Divinity from Westminster College, Fulton, Mo. He has been a frequent contributor to the Quarterly Review and other periodicals, and has assisted in the publication of several books. His address at Pen-Mar in 1890 is remembered by many of his friends in this section. He is now serving the Lebanon charge and resides in Winchester, Va. Dr. Bushnell married Anna Terrill and has seven children, Charles Eichelberger, George, Sara, John E., Terrill, Samuel and Margaretta.

Charles Frederick, youngest son of the Rev. Dr. Lewis and his first wife, married in 1859, Charlotta Sperry. He was an open-hearted, open-handed man, of keen business foresight and intellectual powers. He had no children, but expended much parental care and affection in the charge of his sister Margaretta's motherless children, she having died while they were but mere infants, and her husband not long surviving her. Charles Frederick died at his home in Virginia, in 1895, aged but 59 years. His wife died some years before, and they are both buried in Virginia.

Rev. Dr. Lewis Eichelberger was married twice, the second time to Penelope Lynn, daughter of John Hay, of Glenmore, Va. Her mother was a Miss Maury, a relative of Commodore M. F. Maury, of the United States Navy. The only children born to this second marriage were William Hay and Edward Cary. The elder is a prominent railroad civil engineer in the West and South, and was engineer in charge of building the Baltimore & Annapolis Short Line and Eastern Shore Railroads. He also was engaged in Central America, South America and Mexico, in following his profession.

Edward Cary Eichelberger was first intended to be a physician and studied to that purpose, but circumstances made it seem best that he should study law. After reading law with Abraham Sharp, of Baltimore, he was admitted to the Bar in 1876, and to the Supreme Court of the United States in 1881. At first he associated himself with William Wirt Eichelberger, but after a year the latter retired. He has built up an extensive practice, and has administered many large estates. In January, 1895, he was appointed examiner to examine candidates for admission to the Bar. He is a member of the Bar Association of Baltimore, a member of its Committee of Admission of Members and also of the State Bar Association of Maryland. In religion he is a Presbyterian—fraternally he is allied with the Ben Franklin Lodge of Masons, the Royal Arcanum, Golden Chain, National Union and American, in all of which he is active and influential. In 1897, Mr. Eichelberger was nominated for the Legislature by the Democratic party, but was defeated, although running in advance of his ticket. In 1879 he was married to Julia H. Sanderson, daughter of a prominent farmer in Baltimore County, living at a place called "The Plains."

They have five children,—Julia P., Anna Lynne, Lewis Hay, Edward Cary, Jr., and Francis Maury. This family reside at "Hilton," their beautiful suburban home at Walbrook, which place Mr. Eichelberger by his efforts has greatly helped to build and beautify and where he has expended much thought to try to improve.

ELIZABETH EICHELBERGER SMITH.

The daughters of Frederick all with the exception of Catherine—heretofore mentioned—married and had children. Elizabeth, the oldest daughter to live through her childhood, as the oldest of all, Catherine, did not do, was born in 1786, and in 1810 when just 24 years of age was married by Rev. David Schaeffer, to Lewis Smith, of Georgetown, D. C., and had three sons, William, John and Lewis. Mrs. Smith died in 1820 or about that time. This is all we know of this family.

MAGDALENE EICHELBERGER COPPERSMITH.

Magdalene married a Mr. Coppersmith, of the District of Columbia, a farmer, and had three children, John, Lewis and Mary. The sons both died in 1854. Of Mary we know very little, except that she married.

MARY EICHELBERGER CHRISE.

Mary, third daughter of Frederick, married a Mr. Chrise and had only one daughter, Susan, who afterwards married George W. Barrick, of Rocky Ridge, Frederick County, Md. This family is all intermarried with Eichelbergers, for the oldest son, Charles J., married a descendant of Joseph, youngest son of Captain Adam; while a sister of Charles became the third wife of Joseph Luther, another great-grandchild of Captain Adam.

SOPHIA EICHELBERGER ZIMMERMAN.

Sophia married John D. Zimmerman and had a family of five, one daughter, Susan, and four sons, George, who became a physician, Lewis, Jacob and Martin. While these were still quite young the family removed to Kansas, in the year 1855. Most of these sons afterward returned to their native State.

SUSAN EICHELBERGER HOKE.

Susan, daughter of Frederick, was a twin of Joseph, and they were the fifth children in this family, and were born October 10th, 1795. Susan married Adam Hoke about 1816, and had a family of five daughters, and one son, Lewis W., who only lived through two short summers. Ann Elizabeth married Henry M. Eberly, a dentist, who owned a farm in the near vicinity of his home, Mercersburg. They had seven children, all of whom are living and doing well, most of them west of the Mississippi river. The second daughter in the bevy of Susan Eichelberger Hoke's pretty daughters, for we are told that they were all extremely pretty and proved very fascinating to the students at Mercersburg College especially, Louisa Hoke, was born in 1820, married Rev. Mr. Hoferditch, a minister of the German Reformed Church, a divine of devout and lovable character. He died before their family of six children were fully raised. Lewis, the second son, died in infancy, and the rest all married and have many descendants living.

Caroline Hoke, the fourth daughter, married John Weber, a prominent merchant. There were three sons of this family,—George, John and Edward.

Maria Hoke, the prettiest of this quintette of pretty girls, was especially popular for her gentle manners and winning ways. She was very much of a belle and had several offers, but her heart was won by Charles F. McCauley, then a young college student, afterwards a very prominent divine, who became a Doctor of Divinity. The care of his pastorates was much lightened by his love for children. He was a genial man, who loved all mankind, but especially Christ's "little ones." His old parishioners in Reading have put up a most beautiful memorial window in the church where he used to preach to them. He and Maria Hoke had eight children, all still living but two. The second son, Edward, was poisoned while out hunting in the Rocky Mountains. The rest are all doing well, and all are married except only the youngest son, Harry. The second daughter, Harriet, married in 1893. Andrew Schnebly, a widower, of Mercersburg, Pa. Mrs. Maria H. McCauley was a most lovely, gentle Christian, whose good works and their results can only be known on that last great day when all secrets will be revealed.

Harriet M. Hoke, born last in this family of Susan and Adam Hoke, was a mere babe when the death of that lovely, gentle mother came like a thunder-clap to the entire family connection. On account of their tender years, Adam was almost obliged, in a short time, to furnish his little girls with another mother. But he chose wisely one whom he well knew to be of an amiable and kindly nature, one whom he knew could soon win their hearts as she had won his own, his cousin, Hannah Hoke. They had one child, Hannah Margaret. But the babe Harriet grew up to be well-called "one of the pretty Hoke girls," and married Andrew Schnebly, of Maryland, the same who at her death married her niece, Harriet McCauley. Andrew Schnebly by his first wife had but one child, a promising young man, who was born in March, 1868. He taught, traveled, was in a bank, and in many ways had occupations which were rounding out his character to that completeness we call perfection, when in October, 1899, he died. God took him home. So runs the line of "Owen's Creek" Frederick and Anna Frena Motter.

MICHAEL EICHELBERGER.

Michael Eichelberger, second son of Captain Adam Eichelberger, was born May 17th, 1765. He was a rather delicate child and man, though rather large in frame. To him Adam left that home farm near Hanover, of which in his will he speaks as "my now dwelling plantation," which had been his father's. While quite young he married Catherine Smyser, by whom he had the five following children,—Adam, Michael, George, Polly and Elizabeth. Adam was a lad of ten years when his father Michael died, and poor Mrs. Eichelberger had her hands full enough; George, the youngest child, a babe in arms, and the other three between that and ten years. She managed very nicely until Adam grew to manhood. He at the age of 21 applied to the Orphans' Court to allow him to buy this place; and on the 18th of May, 1813, he received an order from that court, then sitting at York, which order, now yellow with age, is in my possession. In it Adam was allowed to buy the property for $11,934, thus buying out the rights of his brothers, Michael and George, and his sisters, Polly and Elizabeth, giving each $1,587.07½, and to pay his mother every year thereafter the sum of $238.06. At this time his sister Polly was married to Martin Ebert, of York. She had no children and after Mr. Ebert's death came back to Hanover, where for several years she lived with or very near the daughters of her brother George. She has been dead for many years. The other sister, Elizabeth or Betsy, as she was more commonly called, married Mr. Crum, and early in her married life moved West, where all trace of her descendants has been lost.

SHERIFF ADAM EICHELBERGER.

Adam, "Sheriff Adam," as he was called to distinguish him from the several other Adam Eichelbergers in his native State, in his after life was the fulfillment of my ideal, or as near as one ever comes to an ideal, of manly strength and physical perfection. He was, as many of his race, tall and strong, but that was not all. He was so finely proportioned that unless one stood beside him he did not seem to be so large a man. He resided on the farm until he married Sarah E. Wolf, whose home was near Gettysburg, in 1814, and then continued living there for nearly ten years, when they went to York. He was Sheriff of York County from 1833 to 1836, and emigrated to Indiana in 1837, taking all of his family but his daughter Susan, who stayed in York with relatives, and afterwards married Alfred Gartman, of that place. The oldest daughter of Sheriff Adam had married Henry Beitzel, of Hanover, in 1836; they and the Sheriff's family all (with the exception already noted,) moved West together. The Sheriff and his son-in-law, Mr. Beitzel, built part of the first railroad in Indiana and west of the Alleghany Mountains, afterwards engaging in other occupations. After a life spent for the care of others, from the death of his father when he was but ten years of age, down to the care of fatherless grandchildren, a life so full of care as to darken most lives, jovial, genial and hearty to the last, Adam Eichelberger died in Connersville, Fayette County, Indiana, on the 13th of May, 1847, only 56 years of age. His good wife, Sarah, four years his junior, preceded him to that better land by six years, dying on the 11th of August, 1841, in the same town in Indiana. Their children were—Anna M., Eliza, Sarah, Louisa, Rebecca, Susan and Amanda, daughters, and Henry, Michael and Martin, sons.

The eldest, Anna M., who married a Hanoverian, Henry Beitzel, lived in York until their migration to Indiana; they had seven children: Sarah Eichelberger who married a Mr. Gentry and had three daughters, all married and I believe doing very well; Benjamin F., killed in the battle of Kenesaw Mountain, June 18th, 1864, and who never had married; Marcellus, who married Fanny Henderson and raised a most interesting young son; Irene, who married C. M. Walker and has two daughters, now also married; Mary L., now deceased, who married a Mr. Carroll and has one son, Frank Beitzel Carroll, of Mt. Vernon; Alice, now Mrs. W. B. Commons, of Richmond, Indiana, has three children, Josephine, Irene, and Homer; Flora, the youngest, who married Albert Vogel, superintendent of a large organ factory at Wayne, Indiana, and has no children.

Eliza Eichelberger, second child of Sheriff Adam, was born at York in 1817, went to Indiana and in one year's time married

George Freybaugher, by whom she has three sons and three daughters, the most of whom are living in Indiana.

Sarah, third daughter of the Sheriff, married also in Indiana, John M. Reed. They lived first at Cambridge, moved to Newcastle, and in 1856 to Newton, Iowa. This family were devout members of the Presbyterian church there. Their children were, Josephine, Walter S., who died in California in 1880, Horace Mann, who died at the home farm in 1878, Rebecca, who died at the last home of this family in Indiana, Laura J., who married a Mr. Scott, had two sons and died in 1884, Mary Gertrude, who married a Mr. McCosh and has three children, all living in Newton, Iowa, and Miss Kate, who resides at the home place with her surviving parent.

Louisa Eichelberger in 1849 married Walter Crawford, by whom she has one daughter.

Rebecca, fifth daughter of Sheriff Adam, married Jesse Holton, by whom she has seven children, Sarah E., Augustus J., William Henry, Charles Payton, Martin C., George Watson and Abraham Lincoln. Only the four younger ones of this family were living when I last heard. Their home was in Richmond, Indiana. The youngest son is the only one in our entire connection who, to my knowledge was named for our martyred President.

Susan, as I said, became Mrs. Gartman, lived and died in York ; while Amanda, the youngest, married David Mount. She had only one child, a daughter, who married the owner of an extensive carriage factory in Connersville, Wm. McFarland.

Two sons of Adam and Sarah, Henry and Michael, never married, but became adventurous explorers. They went out to Nevada, Oregon and California in the early days of the gold fever, and I think died there.

Martin, the only son of Adam and Sarah to marry, went to Kansas about 1858 or 1860, married a Miss Dolph, and had one son Henry, who is now living in California. We could, however, find no trace of him, who is the only Eichelberger descendant in the third generation of Sheriff Adam, oldest son of Michael.

MICHAEL EICHELBERGER, JR.

Michael Jr., was like his father a much more delicate man in build and general health, than his brothers. He married Elizabeth, surname unknown, but died soon after the marriage, leaving no children. No trace of his widow is to be found.

GEORGE EICHELBERGER.

George, the youngest child of Michael, Sr., was as I have said, only an infant at the time of his father's death, but he grew up on the home place, which had belonged to his great-grandfather, and became attached to the place, so much so that when he became of age he bought it, married Sarah Diehl in 1822, and raised his family of eight children there. George was born just one hundred years ago. He too was a large man, but not so large as his brother Adam. He became quite a prominent politician, was a Democrat, and there was almost no position which he might not have had from his party, had he wished for it. He was County Commissioner many years, and was a born political leader. He left the farm when his son Michael came to an age to take it, bought a house in Hanover, where he resided for some years prior to the death of his esteemed wife in 1865. He only survived her four years, dying at the age of 69 years. Four of his children died before him—Anna Maria at the age of seventeen, Sarah, the namesake of her mother, at the early age of four, his own namesake, George W., died when 9 years old, and Michael D., at the age of 36 years.

Martin, oldest son of George and Sarah, married Catherine Geiselman. He was born in 1823, married in 1844, and had three sons and only one daughter, Mary, who married Daniel M. Herbst, of Hanover, by whom she had two young sons, very unfortunately losing one just a short time ago by the hand of that death-angel to whom it is so hard to reconcile our hearts.

Martin's oldest son, George W., married Maggie Curry, had one child, but all, father, mother and child, have passed away. Michael E., next son of Martin, married Ida Lau; they are living in Adams County, and raising three sturdy young representatives of the name, Martin Luther, George E. and Sadie B.

Emory K. Eichelberger, youngest child of Martin and Catherine, married Alverta Kindig ; they have no children. They lived first on a farm not far from Hanover, but are now residing in that town on Frederick Street. Mr. Eichelberger and wife are following in the footsteps of their ancestors and worshiping in that Lutheran Church which their earlier forefathers helped to build—St. Matthew's. Martin Eichelberger died May 26th, 1889, his good wife preceding him but seven days.

Michael D., next son of George and Sarah, married Elizabeth Hershey, took the home farm on his marriage ; there his two sons were born, and there he died in early manhood, the third of his name to settle there, marry and die before reaching their fortieth year. His two sons, Henry and Edward, are both married, but we could not find their place of residence, nor trace of their families.

Franklin, fourth son of George, married Louisa Hershey. He and she are both dead now, but they lived in the upper part of Adams County and raised a large family. Elsie and Willie died young, but the rest are all married, although it was impossible to find the names of their matrimonial partners, or their children.

They were, Albert E., Sarah, Hiram, Riley, Charles, Howard, Edward, Cora and George. Their descendants will have to fill out this part of the record with good deeds for their descendants to read of.

The youngest son of George was Charles F. He too loved the old Eichelberger farm, and took it at the death of his brother Michael. He lived upon it many years, but sold it to me about fourteen years ago. I have the chain of titles from him, down even from the grant of the Penns. From here Charles F. married Susan Menges, brought her here as his bride, and here his children were born. Ira, William, Martin and George were his sons, and Ella, Mrs. Bollinger, Clara, Mrs. Hershey, Addie, Mrs. Raber, and Jennie, Mrs. Miller, were his daughters. They and their children are living in York County. Ira married a Miss Baumgartner, and William, Ida Winters. They have children. The two younger sons are still single. Last Spring, Charles F. Eichelberger died, very unhappily. He is buried near his home of later years, New Baltimore, York County. His widow still survives him.

Louisa Catherine, youngest child of George and Sarah, and the only daughter of this family who survived her girlhood, is married and living in Hanover. She has married a descendant of Jacob Eichelberger, brother of Adam, her forefather, and the history of herself, her children and her husband, William J. Young, will be given at another place in this book.

This closes the line of Michael, second son of Adam Eichelberger, Sr.

SAMUEL EICHELBERGER.

Samuel, the third son of Captain Adam, was born in 1769, and married Catherine Smyser, a young woman who bore the same name as the lady who had married his brother Michael, and who at one time we rather took to be his widow; but the Order granted by the Orphans' Court to allow Michael's son Adam, when he came of age, to take the home place, speaks of her in 1813 as the widow of Michael Eichelberger, so we saw our mistake, which was also corrected by a great-granddaughter. Samuel and Catherine were married in 1790. They lived on the "Mill Place," left Samuel by his father. He had also a saw-mill and the water rights and privileges appertaining thereto, as well as an additional hundred acres. Their children were, John Adam, who married Rebecca Nace, but had no children, and died when but 27 years of age; Magdalene, who was a deaf mute and never married, but lived to be almost 70 years of age; Maria Catherine, who died when only two, and Louisa S. at the age of four. Samuel S. and Jacob S. were the only sons, while Susannah, Elizabeth, Anna Catherine and Lida completed the list of daughters.

SAMUEL S. EICHELBERGER, Jr.

Samuel, Jr., the second son, was a farmer; he married Elizabeth Rudisill and had a large family, most of whom moved to Missouri. He was born on the "Mill Place," near Hanover, but when prepared to make a home for himself, he bought a farm in Carroll County, Md. He was a small dark man, while his wife was large and fair ; they both died in the 50's and lie buried in Maryland in a cemetery near their farm. Andrew, their oldest son, was born near Hanover, moved with them to Maryland and there married in 1853, Isabelle Keyser. They appear to have moved first to Jefferson County, West Virginia, but soon moved to Booneville, Mo., and in 1866 to Pilot Grove in that State. Before leaving the Eastern home Andrew and his wife had joined the church of his fathers, but upon making their home in Missouri, they found that they would have to forego that privilege as there were at the time no English Lutheran Churches in that part of the State, so they joined with the Cumberland Presbyterians and were consistent members of the same to their life's end. Isabelle Eichelberger was a lovely Christian woman, and her husband though more aggressive became a strong power for good both in the church and in the community where he made his home. He founded Pilot Grove Academy, where one of his sons is now teaching. He died the last of last April, at the age of 76 years, his wife having preceded him to the better land in May, 1892. In September, 1893, he married Mrs. S. L. Phillips, who still survives him.

Of his children, George William has become known to most of you by his Evangelistic meetings all over the country. Solely at my request, he gives the following :

He was born on the very day on which his grandmother died, July 28th, 1855, and grew up on the Missouri farm. He attended the district school in winters as did his brothers and sisters, and entered McGee College, then Cumberland University, graduating in 1878. Five years later, his Alma Mater gave him the degree of M. A. Upon leaving college his father founding Pilot Grove Academy, he became first Principal. Soon after he entered the ministry, first of the Cumberland Presbyterian, then of the Lutheran Church. Finally making Chicago his home, he lives there the most of the year, when not traveling on Evangelistic work—belongs now to the Northern Illinois Lutheran Synod. He holds Evangelistic meetings all over the West, has held them in California, Nebraska, Iowa, Missouri, Texas, Arkansas, Mississippi, Tennessee, Kentucky, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Pennsylvania. He has the names of nearly thirteen thousand converts made in his meetings, most of whom he has received into the church. Received the Degree of Doctor of Divinity in 1899. He married Annie B. Bowling, of Kentucky. She died November 6th, 1896, leaving him one child, Roberta Bowling, born February 10th, 1888. This child although so young, bids fair to become a prodigy as a singer, and when not at school accompanies her father when he is conducting services, and often sings alone, much to the delight and pleasure of the listeners.

The two youngest of Andrew's children died young. James M. is living on a farm in the vicinity of Pilot Grove, married Alice Cordry, by whom he has eight living children, Jasper E., Anna B., Eula M., Roger, William Andrew, Gertrude, James G. and Wear. There are none of them yet old enough to have homes of their own, the oldest being only nineteen, the youngest born last April.

Andrew Hoke Eichelberger, who being of the same as his father, is called "Hoke," is now teaching in the Pilot Grove Academy; he was married in 1886 to Sallie Tavenner, and has four children, all still young people, Clara, Lillian, Bessie and Andrew, Jr.

The only daughter of Andrew and Isabelle is Sallie Elizabeth, who after being educated as well as the Academy permitted, was brought East, near the old home of her grandfather's school days, at Hanover, where she spent one winter at her studies. After returning she met and married an evangelist like her brother George, only that he was not spared for a life of like usefulness, as he died in a few years after their marriage leaving his widow alone, as no child had come to bless their union.

Samuel C., the second son of Samuel, Jr., was born, lived and died in Carroll County, Md. He married Margaret Fogel, also a native of Maryland. Samuel was a miller by trade, but farmed most of his life. They had two children, the first who died while still a mere infant, the second a son, George. Of this young man we have not the slightest trace, I am sorry to say. Samuel, the father, died in the 37th year of his age.

Frederick Emanuel, third son of Samuel, Jr., or Samuel Smyser Eichelberger, died while a lad of tender years, and the youngest child, Elizabeth, only lived to be two years of age. Washington and Adam S. both emigrated to Missouri either with or in the wake of their brother Andrew, as did the sister, Maria, Mrs. Mowry, who lives in or near Pilot Grove. She and her sister Anna, Mrs. Donner, and Jacob and Adam S. are the only living ones now of nine children of Samuel S. and Elizabeth.

Washington, fourth son of this couple, was born in Maryland, in 1836, and moved to Missouri where in 1866 he married Maria Jane Merritt, by whom he had six children, Jacob L., Daisy A., Thomas S., Myrtle, Susie A. and Nathaniel Henry. The two eldest are married, the daughter to Frank Oswald, and now has a little daughter of her own; Jacob L. married Hattie Custer, and has one son, Henry.

Jacob H., fifth son of Samuel C., lives on his farm in Frederick County, Md. He married Emma Freshour, who bore him two little girls, Clara E. and Elsie; the mother and daughter Clara have died, and the father and Elsie live alone.

Adam S., fifth son of Samuel S., married Savilla Favorite in 1867, and has but two living children, sons, both living in Missouri. Harvey C., the eldest, is married to Mollie Helms, while Frank is still single. This closes the line of Samuel Jr., and we will now return to that of his father, Samuel, Sr.

JACOB S. EICHELBERGER.

Jacob S., third son of Samuel, Sr., was born in 1808, lived on a farm near Hanover, York County, Pa., most of his life; was married to Mary Mechlin in 1831, by whom he had nine children. Sarah E. married Barney Rudisill; Louisa M. married Adam Smith, of Maryland, and had four children. Adam S. in 1861 married Sarah H. Schaeffer, and had two sons, Isaac S. and Alexander. The elder of these is a bachelor and resides in Los Angeles, California, where he has a fine business prospect. His brother Alexander, Adam S. and wife, died while comparatively young and are buried in the Mennonite Cemetery on the York road. Johanna C. M., third daughter of Jacob S. and Mary Mechlin, married Jacob S. Bealing and resides in Hanover; they have three living children, all having homes in Hanover. William Henry D., the second son of this family of Jacob's, volunteered in the United States Army during the Civil War, in 1864, as a member of Co. E, 207th Regiment of Pennsylvania Volunteers. This regiment was twice publicly spoken of and thanked for the bravery of its soldier boys in battle. In the battle of Fort Sedgwick, April 2, 1865, young William was severely wounded, and died several months later in the military hospital at Hampton, Virginia, aged only 20 years, 10 months and 18 days. Joseph Monroe, the next child of Jacob, died in the 31st year of his age, unmarried, while his next sister, Mary Ellen, after living with her parents, being their solace and comfort through their declining years, now lives alone near the Fair Grounds on York Street, in Hanover. Miriam Alice, the youngest daughter, died when but little more than 20 years of age; she lies resting for that great day in the cemetery where lie so many of this family—that cemetery donated by and where rest the ashes of the founder of this entire line, Captain Adam Eichelberger. Nelson married twice, his first wife being Anna Strausbaugh, his next Lily Russell, but he has no children. He is a widower, making his home now in Hanover, now in Baltimore. He had only one son, who died in childhood and with whom closes the history of the sons of Samuel and Catharine.

Susannah, the oldest daughter of this couple who lived to a marriageable age, was married to Henry Rudisill, a farmer, of Heidelberg Township, York County, Pa. Elizabeth, the next, married John Bixler in 1831, while Anna Catherine married Jesse Spangler, of York. She dying in a few years, her widowed husband married her youngest sister, Lida. These four daughters all raised families and have descendants scattered over York County to-day.

So closes the line of Samuel, the third son of Adam Eichelberger, who only came of age two years and eleven months after his father's death, and who died in the 59th year of his life, leaving this large number of descendants who are scattered from the Golden Gate to the Eastern Shore of Maryland.

ADAM EICHELBERGER, JR.

I am very sorry to say that concerning this next son, Adam Eichelberger, Jr., I can not give much, although I have made many attempts to trace the whereabouts of his thirteen children. Adam not only had the name but also the face and figure of his father, and was said to look more like him than any child he had. In his will his father speaks of him as "Adam, the younger." He left him a farm next to the "Home Farm," a place of about 143 acres. He married at the age of 24 years Susannah Schmeizer, who bore him nine children, all of whom we think were born on this farm. Here rumor says Susannah died and Adam soon after sold the farm and went to Cumberland County, where he bought a farm and a grist mill. Shortly after this he married a widow, a Mrs. Forney, first name unknown, who bore him four more children. Adam Eichelberger, Jr., died at the early age of 48 years, leaving his second wife and thirteen children to survive him. He lies buried in the Largsdorf graveyard, near Kingston, Pa.

Of his family, John Michael died young, George S. was in the War of 1812, though young for a soldier, as he was born in 1797. About 1816, the most of Adam's children seem to have emigrated to Ohio. George, Adam, Samuel and Henry all married, as did their sisters, Elizabeth to John Robb, second husband Harman, Susannah to David Orris, Sarah to John Miller, and Mary to a Mr. Speer; these are all now deceased.

Of the second marriage, Joseph remained single, Isabelle married a Mr. Beniser, Hettie a Mr. Crider, and Susan a Mr. Hichnell; these also are deceased. Of the children of George, Samuel and Henry, I know nothing. If there should be any such living, they can by this trace their lineage.

Also, of Adam, son of Adam, Jr., I know only of two sons, William and Simon. This Adam settled in Ashland, Ohio, and died there only a few years ago, within a few days of the great age of 90 years. His son Simon resides there yet as a retired farmer. He was born in April, 1827, in Cumberland County, Pa., and has married and has four living children, one daughter and three sons, each the head of a family. William Eichelberger, grandson of Adam, Jr., was born in 1831, and died in Indiana in 1893. He married Susan Mell, by whom he had ten children, eight now living, five sons—John Adam, William Allen, Benjamin Franklin, Harvey A. and Joseph Elmer; one residing in Ohio, two in Indiana and two in Illinois, all married and having children. Of the daughters, Celesta married Jerome Boyer; and Celia, Charles Shoesmith; while Ella is still single.

Adam, Jr., and his sons as well as grandsons, all seem to have been either farmers or millers, while the younger generation appear to be business men.

JOSEPH EICHELBERGER.

Joseph, the fifth son of Captain Adam, was born in 1781, down on the "Home Farm," and was only six years of age when his father died. In that father's will we read that he "wished Joseph to be taught the English reading, writing and sivering as far as the rule of three," also that "he shall be bound out to learn some trade—what he himself shall prefer, that he shall be able to support himself thereby." We have receipts received by Magdalene for the schooling of all four of these young children, for whom their kind father thought so far ahead, when most likely he was ill and suffering. The trade chosen by Joseph was tanning, which in those days was an exceedingly lucrative business. He lived with his mother until over the time of all his learning—both of books and business. From then on for a few years we lose sight of him, but think he went direct to Greencastle, at least we find him living there engaged in the tannery trade and soon marrying. He married Martha Dicks, of that place. To them five children were born, James M., Job Dicks, Joanna, Josephine, and Lewis who died quite young. Joseph lived but a short time after his marriage; indeed his youngest son, Lewis, was born shortly after his father's death. Joseph was a very popular man and would doubtless have filled positions of trust and profit, had he but lived longer, as he is spoken of as having "hosts of friends."

Captain Adam's estate was not quite settled up yet at the time of his youngest son's death. We have receipts from "Martha Eichelberger" for some of her husband's share, he having gotten some of it before. Sorely must she have needed, poor soul, not so much financial assistance, but aid and sympathetic kindness.

Magdalene Eichelberger was a capable woman, and much were her capabilities put to service. Like many another good woman whose husband receives public encomiums, her husband's time was entirely taken up with the services which won for him those praises, and Magdalene was obliged to look out for her family. This as we well know was by no means small; and these four,—Susannah, Adam, Joseph and Salome, were brought up by her almost entirely alone. Then at Joseph's death, she was obliged to go and stay for some time with his forlorn young wife and little children.

Joseph lies buried in Greencastle as does his widow, but it was sixteen years before she was laid beside him. She kept the small farm which Joseph was buying near Greencastle, finished paying for it with the rest of the money still coming to him from his father's estate, moved on this farm and there brought up her children.

DR. JAMES W. EICHELBERGER.

James W., the eldest, at the age of 17, launched out for himself, first clerking for a storekeeper in Emmitsburg, Md. He attended school in Carlisle, Pa., then studied medicine with Short & Moore, in Emmitsburg, pursued his studies at the University of Maryland, from which institution he received his diploma in the session of 1826-27. He then practised medicine in Fayetteville, Pa., then on his farm near Rocky Ridge, Md., then in Woodsboro and from there went to Emmitsburg in 1843, where he remained until called from his labors. He was a staunch Whig and Republican, and was devoted to his profession. He served his town as Commissioner at various times, and was a strictly temperance man. He was a member of the Lutheran Church, almost always a member of the council, took great interest in its welfare, and was acquainted with hundreds of its ministers. He married Anna M. Motter, of Emmitsburg, in 1828, and they lived happily together until 1888 when his wife died; he survived her until 1895. They were blessed with eight children,—Gustavus M., Mary E., Motter, Charles D., Marian F., Columbia M., James W. and Anna M. Four have died, Gustavus M., Motter, Columbia M. and Anna M.

Charles D. and James W. both studied medicine and graduated from the University of Maryland, Charles D. in 1868 and James W. in 1870. James W. located at St. Clairsville, Pa., where he remained five years, then went to Emmitsburg, to relieve his father. Charles D. has a drug store there, is single as is also his sister Marian F. Columbia M. died in 1852, single. Dr. James W., Jr., married in 1864 Minnie Hoke. They have one child, Charles Dicks Eichelberger, Jr. Of the daughters of Dr. James and Anna Motter (who by the way is likely a descendant of the same family as the wife of Joseph's brother, Frederick,) the only ones to marry, were Mary Elizabeth, now a widow, Mrs. C. J. Ehrhart, whose husband was a minister; they had no children. The other, Anna Margaret, married E. L. Rowe and has one child, a daughter. The living ones of this family are all in Emmitsburg.

JOB DICKS EICHELBERGER.

Job Dicks, the second son of Joseph, became a farmer boy near Rocky Ridge, Md. He was born in 1808, and in 1832 he married Amy Anna Boomer, by whom he had five children. His wife died in 1850 and in 1851 he married Maria H. Cloud, and they had five children also. Job Dicks died in 1881, his second wife still surviving him as his widow. Of his first set of children, Anna Margaret, the oldest, married Benjamin Durall, now deceased; they have one son, Wilbur H., now living in Frederick, Md. The second child of Job, Joseph N., as well as Elizabeth Jane and John James, died without issue; while the youngest child by the first marriage, Emma Joanna, married Charles J. Barrick, of Rocky Ridge, Md. This couple had six children, two of whom died in 1887.

Of the second family of Job D., the oldest daughter, Mary F., married Benjamin Gobin, of Johnstown, Pa., she is the only one of this family who married. The others are Martha D., Melvina Rebecca, Helen Maria and Maria H.

Of the daughters of Joseph and Martha, the eldest, Joanna, married a Mr. Miller and had quite a family. The other daughter, Josephine, married a Mr. Otto, of Maryland, and also has quite a family.

This closes the line of Joseph, fifth son of Captain Adam.

ELIZABETH EICHELBERGER HOKE.

Elizabeth, oldest daughter of Adam, was born on the "Home Farm," three miles from Hanover, Pa., in 1771, and was 16 years old when her father died. In his will he speaks of "my minor children, Adam and Joseph, Susan and Salome." So evidently a girl of sixteen years was supposed not, in those days, to be a minor. She must have married Michael Hoke very soon thereafter, for in the settlement of Adam's estate we have releases from Michael Hoke, as at that time a wife's property belonged to her husband alone. They had nine children, six sons,—George, Adam, John, Jacob, Michael and William; and three daughters,—Sarah, Magdalene and Elizabeth.

Michael Hoke, Sr., and his wife Elizabeth, were buried at the "Old Stone Church," but were later removed to the cemetery at Mercersburg by their son Adam. Here in this cemetery many of their descendants lie, principal of whom are their two oldest sons, George and Adam. The third son, John, lived and died in Charlestown, Va., where he is buried. But of any of the rest of this family we have no history at all; they must be either deceased or very old people, as the youngest child, William, was born in 1812. Elizabeth died at the age of 63 years; all I can hear of her is that she was "such a pretty girl." Her husband was a farmer and a tanner, a man of strength of purpose and will, if one can believe the forecast of his handwriting.

Family rumor gives it that this family moved to North Carolina after the birth of the children, but whether the father and mother did is not stated authentically, although some of the children undoubtedly did.

SALOME EICHELBERGER CREMER.

Salome, third daughter of Captain Adam, was born in 1783. She was left fatherless when only four years of age, but her good father provided for his two little girls, Susan and Salome, as best he could. We have receipts for the education of Salome, as well as the others. She spent the most of her girlhood with her mother in that "little house down nigh by the spring," and did not marry as young as did most girls of her time. One can readily see how necessary she became to her dear mother, for she was just 21 when her sister Susannah died. Joseph had married just the year before, and the mother hated to give up her youngest with whom she then lived alone, but Henry Cremer finally carried her away. They were married in 1812. Mr. Cremer was a farmer and lived four miles below Hanover. They had only two children, sons, Joseph Eichelberger and Charles. Salome Cremer lived to be 73 years old, outliving her husband by many years. She died in Hanover at her son's residence.

JOSEPH EICHELBERGER CREMER.

Joseph became a merchant and married in 1842 Rebecca Wirt. They had only two sons, Charles Edward and Henry Wirt Cremer. Neither married, but both lived lives of usefulness and were strict, upright business men. Charles died in 1883, but Harry survived him eight years. In the "Swope History," Charles is spoken of as a most polished and elegant man, well travelled, and a man of infinite resources. His brother was more retiring, but fully as well equipped for the enjoyment of life—in other ways, perhaps.

CHARLES CREMER, SR.

Charles, Sr., the younger son of Salome and Henry Cremer, was born in 1815, and about the year 1838 was married to Polly Bolinger, of Hanover. They had five children. Salome went to Dickinson County, Kansas, with her husband, Mr. Bender. They have several children, two of whom are studying in Philadelphia, to fit themselves for professional lives. John Adam Cremer, living in Hanover, is an invalid pensioner of the United States Army, of the Civil War. He married Catherine Reiff and has by her four children,—Frank Eugene, Mary Katherine, Charles Henry and Joseph Eichelberger. Frank E. Cremer is proprietor of a profitable floral and gardening greenhouse, at 223 Walnut Street, Hanover, near where the whole family of John Adam Cremer reside.

His next sister lived with their widowed mother for several years, Charles having died in his 42d year. Anna Maria Cremer then married a Mr. Wolf, also of Hanover, but soon was left alone as her mother and husband lived but a short while after the marriage. She is now residing alone on Abbottstown Street, Hanover.

The next brother, Joseph Eichelberger Cremer, became a dry-goods merchant, but only lived a short time after establishing himself in that business, dying before he was quite 30 years of age in 1876.

Amelia Cremer, the youngest of this family, died when only 17 years of age.

SUSANNAH EICHELBERGER.

The other daughter of Captain Adam, Susannah, was also a child for whose education her father left instructions in his will. But she did not live to enjoy that education long, for from a delicate girlhood she passed away at the age of 26 years. She is buried near her father.

Magdalene, the mother of this family, left a widow in the prime of womanhood, with these four little ones to be sure, but with four stalwart sons to aid her in her cares, lived a quiet, devoted, Christian life, bringing up these children, seeing two of them pass away before her, but going on in the even tenor of her way until she died on the 30th of December, 1821. She was laid beside the husband she had loved so well.

So closes the line of Captain Adam Eichelberger and his descendants down to the sixth and seventh generations.

Jacob Eichelberger.

Second Son of Philip Frederick and his second Wife, Magdalene.

Jacob Eichelberger, the second son of Philip Frederick and his second wife, Magdalene Eichelberger, was born September 26th, 1746, on the "Farm." He chose his home to be in Hanover, Pa.

There is almost an established rule about these elder Jacobs and Fredericks of our name; the first seem to be almost altogether scribes and committeemen who served the cause of the Revolution; the Fredericks were nearly all large landholders or statesmen. This Jacob was no exception to the rule; he was much interested in the cause of the war, gave largely of his means, and wrote and attended to business matters connected with his own town and township. There are letters now preserved which he wrote to the Committee of Safety at York. To this ancestor it was left to introduce the touch of romance necessary in any book. Anna Maria Reinacker became the "light of his eyes," but why he thought it necessary to carry her off, we cannot say; we only know that he did. She may have been so young that her parents could not give their consent, but deponent sayeth not. She was the oldest daughter of Captain Caspar Reinacker, who served as a Captain in the Revolutionary War with honor and credit.

JACOB EICHELBERGER, JR.

Jacob and Anna Maria had only one child, a son, Jacob Eichelberger, Jr., who was born in 1775. He acquired fine business qualities early in life, by the side of his father. The father and son settled up several estates and carried on a great deal of business together, so that when the father was called of God in 1811, he left a son fully equipped to take his place. Jacob, Sr., was first buried in the graveyard of St. Matthew's Lutheran Church, of which he had long been a consistent member and part founder.

Afterwards his remains were removed to Mt. Olivet Cemetery, also of Hanover. He had run a farm and a tavern as well ; both of these the son, Jacob, took upon the death of his father.

Jacob, Jr., became quite prominent in the borough of Hanover, for a great many years. When the little village was incorporated as a borough in 1815, the meetings necessary to the same were held in the house of Jacob Eichelberger, Jr. The tavern which he kept was long known as the "Stage Office," and is now the Central Hotel. He also became a merchant, and in connection with all his other duties settled up many estates for relatives and others. He was the first President of the Maryland Line Turnpike Company, and was active in organizing the Hanover Saving Fund Society, of which he became President in 1835, and served as such with great acceptance for a number of years. He died in 1843. He was twice married, first to Elizabeth Nace ; and after her death to Maria, daughter of Christian Wirt, of Hanover.

LOUISA EICHELBERGER TRONE.

His first wife bore him four daughters, Louisa, Maria, Eliza and Susannah. The first married George Trone and bore him four daughters and five sons. Louisa Trone was a mild and gentle woman ; her health became very delicate, but her Christian grace and fortitude upheld her. Her husband was an old-time shoemaker. He was a great wit, and an ardent politician ; his sole delight in that line lay in argument. Of their daughters, Anna Maria, the oldest, married Adam Hinkle, but in a very short time thereafter, died, leaving no issue. Louisa Elizabeth Trone, the next daughter, married Daniel Q. Albright ; they lived in Hanover where Mr. Albright kept a tavern and later a bookstore. This couple had no children.

The next, Catherine M. Trone, married Absalom G. Schmidt, a druggist, of Hanover. Their children numbered four,—Martha Louisa, Ambrose, George and Catherine. Martha is single, and resides in Washington, D. C. Ambrose, formerly a druggist like his father, and at first with him, then as the call he long had heard became stronger, he gave up business and fitted himself for that ministry which he has since served so well. He is now the Field Secretary of Franklin and Marshall College, at Lancaster, Pa. He married Alda Stauffer, of Lancaster. They have had two little sons, but only one is now living. They reside in Lancaster.—George, the second son, is married, and has four bright boys. He is now engaged in the Government Printing Office, Washington, but his family reside at Hanover. Catherine M. Schmidt, the youngest child, lived first with her parents, then with her sister in Baltimore, but while there married a Mr. Nagle, of Washington, where she now resides; they have one little son, Ralph Nagle. Mr. Nagle is employed in the United States Pension Office.

Pamela Trone, next daughter of Louisa and George, has always been a woman of sterling qualities, the prop and companion of her parents' declining years. She made a home for them as long as they lived, and then for her brother Daniel until after his death. Then she moved to the home of her sister, Mrs. Albright, and is now living there with her niece.

George Eichelberger Trone learned the carpenter's trade, afterwards carried on cigarmaking, and later bought a farm near town, on which he resided until his death in 1890. He married Amelia Stark, of Hanover; they had only two children who lived through babyhood, Ella O. and Maurice. The former married Dr. John A. Melsheimer, a popular young physician of Hanover; they too have a daughter and a son, Amelia and Frederick. Dr. Melsheimer is a descendant of one of the first Lutheran pastors in this part of the country, Rev. Frederick Melsheimer. Maurice Trone is one of the young men of Hanover who helps to give the town its proper and necessary gayety. He was educated to become a lawyer, but a severe illness put a veto on that, and he is now engaged in one of the large works on the outskirts of Hanover. He is a graduate of the State College, and served as a volunteer in the recent war with Spain.

Albert Eichelberger Trone, the oldest son of Louisa and George, was born in Hanover and spent his early manhood there, but about 1870 he went to Florida, where he lived many years building and planting a home and an orange grove. In 1890 he mysteriously died in such a manner as to make his relatives fear foul play. He never married.

Matthias Edmund, his next brother, in 1851 married a most beautiful and charming girl, Catherine J. Hinkle, who bore him one daughter, Emily J. But although the skies looked so pleasant for this young couple at the outset, the husband being a scholarly man who would have made his mark in the world, the skies soon clouded over, for in 1853 the young husband died and his wife only survived him six years. Their little orphan fell into the best of hands; Mr. and Mrs. Albright took her and all who knew "Auntie Lou" Albright, remember that she was a most tender mother to her brother's little daughter; and she was repaid for that tender care. All Hanover knows Emily J. Trone, and knows too that to those in sorrow or in trouble she is one of the first to come; those who are in need, in poverty's bitter clutch, always look to her, as she is the true friend of those who see trouble.

Daniel E. Trone, although very delicate physically, was a keen business man with gentle manners and loving heart. He was for years a telegraph operator, agent of the Adams Express Company, and a freight and passenger agent at Hanover; then engaged in the cigar manufacturing business, and served as teller in the Hanover Savings Bank. He never married, and has been dead for some years.

Samuel E. Trone was for a long time engaged as a merchant in Hanover, but has retired and spends his days looking after his farm in the country and his home in the town. He is a veteran of the Civil War, greatly interested in the G. A. R., and a loyal and public-spirited citizen. About 1868, he married Louisa Thomas; their family consists of a daughter Mabel, who married Harry G. Schriver, a dealer in horses on a large scale; they have no children; and a son Ralph, a gay young bachelor and business man, of his native place.

MARIA EICHELBERGER YOUNG.

Maria, second daughter of Jacob and Elizabeth, married Jacob Young, of Hanover, and bore him seven children. Alexander married Rebecca Felty, and had four children, Mrs. Levi H. Eckert,

George W., Miss Rebecca and Jacob H. Mrs. Eckert has one living son, Paul, and George W. Young, one daughter, Ada. Rebecca and Jacob live with their mother, who is a widow. The whole family reside in Hanover. Edward married Elizabeth Alexander, and had but one son, Hugh, who has also married and lives in Boston, Mass.; he has children as well. Maria Louisa married Henry L. Sprenkle, and had two children. Hamilton, who lives with his wife and four children in Hanover. He married Anna George, and their children are, Arthur, Walter, Emma and Louise. Mary J. Sprenkle married a fellow-townsmen, John Luther Long, a lawyer, of Japanese story fame; they reside in Ashbourne, a Philadelphia suburb, and have a promising son, Bayard Henry Long. Henry A. Young married Catherine Reiff, and after her death, her sister, Elizabeth, but by neither wife had he any children. Jacob Young and wife are both deceased, as indeed are all the Young family so far as I have given them. The second child, who remained single, was a daughter, Ann Eliza, now also dead. The only ones living are the two younger sons, Cornelius, who married Mary Bechtel and has an only daughter, Alverta, residing with her parents in Hanover; and William Jacob, who married a daughter of George Eichelberger, himself a grandson of Captain Adam Eichelberger.

William Jacob and Louisa Catherine Young have a family of ten children, nearly all of whom are now residing in Hanover near their parents. Of them, Ida married John H. Brough, who is a prominent man in Hanover, engaged in the insurance and telephone business; they have three children, now busied with their studies, Charles Y., Katie and Myra. Sarah married George A. Klinefelter, a native of Hanover, now extensively engaged in the steam laundry business in Baltimore; they had two children, a son who died quite young, and a daughter, Katie, now a young lady. Robert L. moved to Omaha, Nebraska, is married to Nellie Morris, and has one son, William. Cora is married to a physician of her native town, Dr. Horace M. Alleman. The doctor has a large practice. They have one son, Winnemore Young. Grace M. has married Harry C. Naill, a young lawyer and politician; they have but two little ones, Richard Young and Catherine Elizabeth. Anna Katherine lately married Frank H. Jenkins, a most promising druggist of Hanover. Edward B. is single, and has a position in Baltimore. Carrie A., Helen E. and Henry William live at home.

ELIZA EICHELBERGER BARNITZ.

Eliza, third daughter of Jacob and Elizabeth, married a descendant of Martin Eichelberger, of his daughter Susan who married Daniel Barnitz. Eliza of this family married Michael Barnitz and had but two children, a son, Covington, and a daughter, Elizabeth. The latter married Rev. Joseph A. Seiss, D. D., LL. D., of Philadelphia. Dr. Seiss is a very noted divine, not only of his own church—the Lutheran, but he has written books of religious teaching and thinking, that have made him known all over the Christian world. He has preached the Word of God, lo! these many years, has also been for many years a Doctor of Divinity as well as a Doctor of Laws. He is Dean of the Lutheran Divinity School, in Philadelphia, as well as has charge of the Church of the Holy Communion, in that city. Mrs. Seiss, like many a wife of a goodly man, was obliged to be a little troubled about many things while her children were small, but later she was enabled to assist her husband, until her health failed. She bore him five children, and last Spring died in the fulness of Christ's blessing. Helen Seiss married Henry M. Vanderslice, D. D. S.; they live in Philadelphia, and had one daughter Ethel, who died in 1884. Dr. Ralph Seiss, the youngest child, has become a noted specialist, in the practice of medicine, in that same city. He married Virginia Taylor, but has no children. Mary, Covington Few and Lennie, are residing in Philadelphia with their father; the daughters not only giving the home that so needed feminine touch, but being able to do much good in their father's parish, while the son is fast becoming a scientist in his love for animate nature. None of the three have married.

Covington D. Barnitz has been for many years a lawyer in Baltimore. He has held positions of public trust, and has long been one of the most popular members of that Bar. He married Anna

Covington Claggett, who bore him three children, one son, John Covington, who died in infancy, and two daughters, Annie C., who married Brice R. Worthington, of Baltimore, in 1891, and who is now a widow, who has also lost her two infant children by the angel of death. The other has not married, but resides, as does her sister, with her parents. During the winter the family reside in Baltimore, but spend the Summer months in Westminster, Md., where Mr. Barnitz, the father, owned a farm, and where both he and his wife are buried.

SUSANNAH EICHELBERGER.

Susannah, fourth daughter of Jacob and Elizabeth, lived only through childhood. She was buried in St. Matthew's Cemetery, at Hanover.

Upon the death of Elizabeth, Jacob, as soon thereafter as was pleasant to himself, sought and obtained in marriage, the hand of Maria, daughter of Christian Wirt, of Hanover. She bore him a family of three daughters,—Catherine, Amanda and Amelia; and five sons,—Matthew, Jacob, Henry, Abdiel W. and Rufus A.

MATTHEW EICHELBERGER.

Matthew settled in Abbottstown, became a merchant there; later moved to Gettysburg, became a director in a bank and in railroads and other business enterprises. He lived there many years. His wife was a widow, whose maiden name was Sarah Tucker; they had no children. He left a large sum of money to be given in charity, and also for the cause of Missions; as well as for the Lutheran Theological Seminary, at Gettysburg. He died there, but is buried in Mt. Olivet Cemetery, Hanover, as is his wife who survived him but one year.

The following is from the Hanover, Pa., Herald, of May 27, 1893 :—

Death of Matthew Eichelberger.

One of Gettysburg's oldest and mostly respected citizens died on Tuesday morning, when Mr. Matthew Eichelberger, a native of this place, breathed his last. Mr. Eichelberger was born Oct. 27, 1807, and was the eldest son of Jacob Eichelberger, years ago one of Hanover's most prominent citizens. Capt. A. W. Eichelberger and his sister, Miss Amelia Eichelberger, of Frederick Street, alone survive of this once large family. Deceased was ill from the infirmities of age for a number of months. He was until recently a director in the Gettysburg Gas Company, and was one of the heaviest stockholders in it and in the Gettysburg National Bank. Up to its sale to the Western Maryland he was a Director in the Hanover Branch and H. J., H. & G. Railroad Companies. Years ago, he conducted an extensive store business at Abbottstown, but for over thirty years had lived at Gettysburg, retired from active business. He leaves a widow but no children.

The funeral took place on Thursday afternoon, the remains being brought here on the 2.37 train, after services at Gettysburg. The funeral cortege proceeded from the depot to Mount Olivet Cemetery where the interment was made on the family lot of decedent, the services being conducted by his pastor, Rev. L. S. Black, of the College Lutheran Church, at Gettysburg. Rev. Dr. Hay, his former pastor, was also in attendance. Several years ago the deceased had erected on his burial lot a magnificent granite monument which marks his last resting place.

JACOB EICHELBERGER.

Jacob, the next son, was born, as were all of these children, in Hanover. The following sketch of his life was clipped from the Hanover Spectator of Nov. 9th, 1881 :

Death of a Former Resident.

On Saturday a telegram was received by the Messrs. Eichelberger, from Oxford, Calhoun County, Alabama, conveying the sad intelligence of the death of their brother, Mr. Jacob Eichelberger, at his residence near that place, very suddenly on Friday last, Nov. 4th. The deceased was the second son of the late Jacob Eichelberger, Esq., one of our oldest and most esteemed citizens, who was prominently identified with the earlier history of our town, and senior brother to Captain A. W., Henry and Rufus A. Eichelberger, and junior brother of Matthew Eichelberger, Esq., of Gettysburg. He was born August 28th, 1811, in the old Central Hotel building, on the corner of Frederick Street and the Square, and during his youth passed one term at Dickinson College, Carlisle. Before attaining his majority in 1828 he removed to New Lisbon, Ohio, where he learned the tanning business under Mr. Daniel Hostetter, remaining two years. In 1830 he returned East, and after working two years at his trade in New York City, his health failed, and in 1832 he removed to Edgefield, South Carolina, where he engaged in tanning and merchandising until 1836, when he again returned East, locating at Abbottstown, Adams County, where he was engaged for about a year in the tanning business. In 1840 he again removed South, locating in Troup County, Georgia, where he remained until 1843, when he removed to Wehadkee, Randolph County, Alabama, where he remained until 1866, when he removed to Oxford, Calhoun County, Alabama, retaining his interest in the extensive flouring mills and cotton mills located at Wehadkee and Rock Mills, that State. During the continuance of the troublous times in the South during the Rebellion, Mr. Eichelberger maintained his unswerving loyalty to the cause of the Union, and his devotion to the old flag commanded the admiration and respect of his Confederate neighbors. At the close of the war he devoted much attention to the amelioration of the suffering freedmen. He was of a genial and kindly disposition, and esteemed by all who had the pleasure of his acquaintance. He leaves a widow and six children, two sons and four daughters, all grown. He was in his 71st year.

Jacob married Assenath Scoggins in 1840, in Troup County, Ga. She died in Randolph County, Alabama, in 1870. The following year he married Mrs. Charlotte Allen, of Calhoun County, Alabama. In nearly all the places where he made a sojourn, he had bought a plantation, so after his death there were farms for each of the six children who survived him, Elizabeth, Charles Wirt, Catherine, Mary, Martha and George W. Those who had died young were Anna Maria, John W. and Jacob.

Elizabeth Eichelberger, oldest child of Jacob, married Jesse Garrett; they had two girls, Mary Kate and Sarah Jane. The Garrett family moved to Texas in 1882, where Jesse breathed his last in 1891. His widow married A. B. Mullins Jan. 26, 1893; he died in 1895, and she is still living. Mary Kate Garrett, born in Alabama, married W. B. DeArman, in Texas; they have seven children, none yet married but residing at home. Sarah Jane, her sister, also born in Alabama, married C. L. Cunningham in Texas, by whom she had nine children, three of whom, Jesse H., Kate S. and Mattie, are dead. George Eichelberger, Louis B., Abdiel W., Charles L., Mary E. and Elma R., are young folks, living at home and pursuing their studies.

Charles W. Eichelberger, the second child of Jacob and Assenath, lives in Randolph County, Ala. In 1865, he was married to Nancy Thomas Brooks, by whom he had four children, Stella B., (deceased,) Pauline, Jacob and Maggie, all living. Their mother dying in 1880, Charles W. in 1881 married Irene Taylor, by whom he has two children, Katherine and Charles H.

Catherine Eichelberger, the second daughter of Jacob, was in 1866 married to John M. Sudduth, of Alabama. They too took the Texas fever and in 1880 moved there. Mrs. Sudduth died in 1882. Her children were Anna M., John W., Charles V., Ora A., Mary C., Estelle and Jacob L. Of these only Charles, Ora, Anna and Estelle are living. The father died in 1889. Anna M. Sudduth is married to H. R. Mullins, M. D., of Wise County, Texas. She has five living children, the eldest under fifteen, all at their books. Ora M. Sudduth married R. F. Forrester, of Oklahoma; they had two children, Maggie L., who died in 1893, and George W., who is still living.

Mary, the third daughter of Jacob, lives at Rock Mills, Alabama. She was married while very young to Thomas Holly, of that place, a large-hearted and jovial man, who had an extensive cotton ginning plant, which was a good business in the South. He died in 1890; his widow and seven children are still living. Mary Ida Holly married Dr. Glove M. Truitt, a physician with a fast-growing practice; they have three little ones. Carro-Belle Holly in 1891 married William White, son of one of the oldest planters and best beloved physicians in all that country. George W. Holly, who is becoming a thriving merchant, married, and has a little daughter, Irene Holly. Charles Wirt Holly, a new beginner, but one who bids fair to outstrip all the older planters, was married lately to Anna M. Green. The three remaining daughters, Martha, Kate and Amelia E., live with and for their dear mother. One or two of these girls have fine positions as young business women, these brave girls of 1900.

Martha, youngest daughter of Jacob, in 1879 married George Cunningham, of Alabama, a genial Southern planter of the new school. She died in 1886, but her husband and three children still survive, Newton Eichelberger, James Pratt and Mary Katherine, young people living at home.

George W. Eichelberger, youngest child of Jacob and Assenath, was the son with or near whom the father spent his declining years ; he married, a few years after his father's marriage to the mother, a daughter of Mrs. Charlotte Allen, of Alabama, Emma French Allen. He has been since boyhood a progressive business man. Soon after his marriage he became proprietor of large clay moulding works, in New Oxford, Alabama, and also ran a large plantation near there. His children were all born in that State, but last year he sold out all of his interests in Alabama, and bought a large plantation in Georgia, near Savannah, where he now resides. His children are, Paul M., aged 19, Annie R., the only one not living with her parents, having in 1899 married a Mr. Turner, of New Oxford, Ala.; the next son died in infancy ; George R., a fine manly boy who died last Summer ; Sallie Mae, John Abdiel, Amanda B., a twin with little Amelia B., who died when but one year old ; Augustus L., Albert Wirt and Rufus Alton, all of whom reside in the new home in Georgia.

HENRY EICHELBERGER.

No more can be said, or rather the life of Henry Eichelberger can be no more truthfully told, than in the notice of his death, as published in the Hanover Spectator below. But of his kindness of heart, his plain but pleasant ways, his many endearing qualities, none but his family can know or remember. With him, as with the other brothers of this family, one can only tell those who are proud of the family name for integrity and business principles as well as true charity and religious feeling, there is none of the race who have done more to uphold it in these respects. As did his brother Matthew, Henry Eichelberger did much for the cause of true charity, and many of Hanover's poor to-day have cause to bless his name.

Death of Henry Eichelberger.

We regret to be called upon this issue to chronicle the death of another of our oldest and most prominent citizens, in the person of Mr. Henry Eichelberger, who died at an early hour on Friday morning last, February 28th, 1890, at his residence on Frederick Street, after a brief illness of pneumonia, in his 77th year. Deceased was a son of Jacob Eichelberger, a well-known merchant and hotel keeper of our town half a century ago, and a brother of Capt. A. W. Eichelberger, President of the Baltimore & Hanover Railroad. He was a tanner by trade, and engaged in that business in Hanover and Abbottstown some 45 years ago, since which time he had been living retired. He was one of the largest real estate holders in the community, owning eight valuable farms, including a fine mill property near New Oxford, all within a radius of some six miles of this place, and leaves an estate estimated at $150,000. Mr. Eichelberger was a prominent man in the community, and enjoyed the high esteem of all who knew him for his unswerving integrity of character and steadfastness of purpose. As a business man he was most successful, being possessed of a high order of intelligence and judgment, and invested the greater portion of his money in real estate in preference to all other investments, as the most profitable and secure, never indulging in wild or rash speculations, no matter how alluring the temptation might be. His judgment in financial matters was never at fault, and he was frequently consulted in matters of this kind by friends and acquaintances who desired his opinion regarding investments. Notwithstanding his great wealth he was plain and unpretentious in his habits, and was easy of approach by the poorest and most humble. He was never married.

His funeral took place at half-past 2 o'clock on Monday afternoon in the presence of a large funeral concourse, Rev. Charles M. Stock, pastor of St. Mark's Lutheran Church, officiating.

The following article from the Lutheran Observer, of March 14th, 1890, is from the pen of his pastor, Rev. Dr. Stock :—

Henry Eichelberger—A Faithful Steward.

Entered into rest, February 28th, 1890, Henry Eichelberger, of St. Mark's church, Hanover, Pa., aged 76 years, 4 months and 1 day.

As the pastor of the deceased, I want to add a few words to this brief announcement. Under the circumstances it is befitting that I should do so. Every pastor has a few men in his congregation whom he regards as especially faithful and eminently useful. Very prominent among this circle in St. Mark's church was Henry Eichelberger. Although the disparity in years precluded close intimacy, yet I regarded the deceased with feelings of warm affection. He was one of those men who are liable to be misunderstood in a community, or rather perhaps, of not being properly appreciated. Modest and retiring, one had to know him well to understand his sterling traits of character and apprehend his worth. He did his duty so quietly and unostentatiously as not to attract special attention.

Therefore, as one who knows, I feel it my duty to announce that the church at large has sustained the loss of a noble man and devoted servant—one whose superior it would have been difficult to find. This is not the proper place to speak of his success in business, of his ability as a financier, of his sterling honesty, of his great kindness and helpfulness toward those who were in his employ in the tilling of his thousands of acres, for he was the largest landholder in this part of the State.

It is of his religious faithfulness as steward, of his devotion to duty and to God, that I would say a few words of commendation, for the learning and imitation of us all. His religious life may be summed up in one expressive word, faithfulness. Henry Eichelberger was a remarkably faithful man. In looking over the church records, I cannot see that he ever held office; the only instance in which his name is mentioned in connection with official position being twenty-five years ago when St. Mark's Church was organized. A note is made of contributions being gathered for the erection of a building, and his name is emphasized as the treasurer of that fund.

There is another and better method which pastors have of judging of devotion to the church and the church's dear Lord. A record is kept of the communion seasons—those precious times of refreshing when the Saviour's redeemed ones show forth their remembrance of Him. A good idea of a church member's religious life may be gained from this record. I see from it that the deceased, during the period which covered one-third of his life-time, was absent but once, and then I have no doubt he was indisposed or absent from home. Probably not another name upon the church book, for the same period of time, shows such faithfulness in attendance upon the sacrament of the Holy Communion.

During my pastorate, when Henry Eichelberger was absent from his accustomed place in his pew, I knew that he was not well. His faithfulness in church attendance was really remarkable, when we bear in mind how he suffered from the infirmities of an accident and of age. How often have I been encouraged in preaching the word when I saw this frail-appearing man earnestly giving attention and with kindly sympathy lighting up every feature of his wan countenance.

He was also most faithful in the support of the church at home and abroad. Shortly after assuming charge, meeting me on the street one day, he remarked that he was accustomed to give at stated times to the support of our missionary operations, and inquired whether I would send his offering. He then handed me a large sum of money, (as much and more than is given by many churches yearly,) naming the objects to which he desired it applied. This is but an instance of his way of giving. I could mention many, many more. It may be said, "He could well afford it." Yes, but it is a very rare thing for those who can afford it to give in this way—unasked, unsolicited. I have introduced in St. Mark's church the Lord's Treasury method of collecting the beneficent offerings. By that method the Scripture direction (I Cor. xvi. 2) may be observed in letter and in spirit. From last year's report I learn that pew No. 17—the one occupied by the deceased and his brother—is credited with $328. From my heart of hearts I pray: "Would God there were more like Henry Eichelberger!"

A. C. Embelberger

But his works do follow him. Yesterday his last will and testament was read. After remembering a number of local objects liberally, he directs that $5,000 shall be given to the Lutheran Board of Home Missions, $5,000 to the Board of Foreign Missions, and $5,000 to the Board of Church Extension—in all $15,000 to the church at large. I suppose that he reckoned that this amount, with what he gave to local objects, rightly belonged to the Lord, as it constitutes about the one-tenth of his estate. Will you not agree with me, dear reader, that this man tried to be faithful to his trust?

May his spirit made perfect have heard the commendation of faithfulness spoken by the Master: "Well done, thou good and faithful servant; enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."

CHARLES M. STOCK.

ABDIEL W. EICHELBERGER.

The next brother is he who so kindly gives to the Eichelbergers of to-day, this opportunity to hear and know of the doings of their ancestors,—Abdiel Wirt Eichelberger. He was born in Hanover, December 6th, 1819. When last Summer, he presented his fellow-townsmen with that beautiful building that stands on a hill before the town to mark for the coming years his generosity, the EICHELBERGER HIGH SCHOOL, we who heard the speech of presentation delivered by his pastor, Rev. Dr. Charles M. Stock, wished that description could have been given here. Mr. Stock said: "Captain A. W. Eichelberger is a large man, large in frame, in heart, and soul. His the broadest charity, his the kindest heart, and his the deepest sympathy of any man I know." Of course all will know that this inadequate sketch was not written by himself. The following was clipped from the handsome 1896 Christmas edition of the Baltimore American :—

"Captain A. W. Eichelberger received the best advantages in education which his native town afforded. He was apprenticed to learn the carpenter's trade in 1838, and remained until 1841. In 1843 he traveled overland to the State of Georgia, to visit his brother Jacob. While there he arranged for the shipment of carriages and damask coverlids to that State, which he continued for several years, and subsequently purchased, jointly with his brother, the Wehadkee Flour and Saw Mills, in the State of Alabama, and has since held his interest in the same, except during the Civil War, when the property was confiscated by the Confederate Government and returned to him after the war.

"From 1843 to 1852, he spent his Winters in the South looking after his interests, and his Summers in Hanover, farming his own and his mother's land, making purchases for shipments South, and drilling an infantry company of citizen soldiers called the United Blues, and afterwards a cavalry company known as the Fourth Dragoons. As a military officer he was a universal favorite. In his early life he was a devout Whig, taking the stump as a speaker in the political campaigns of 1844 and 1852. He is now a Republican. He has never married.

"In the year 1872 he, with three other public-spirited citizens, presented the beautiful Fountain which now adorns the Centre Square, of Hanover, and adds so much to the attractiveness of the town. He is a regular attendant of St. Mark's Lutheran Church, and a liberal contributor to all objects of benevolence and charity ; takes a lively interest in the public welfare of his native town, and is universally popular among his neighbors and fellow-citizens.

"Successful in his own business, he sought to advance the welfare of the community, and engaged in all well-conceived enterprises designed to develop its agricultural and manufacturing industries. As soon as railroads had demonstrated their practicability and value, he became deeply interested in them, and early advocated the construction of one through his section, abounding in wealth and attractions of every kind. He became immediately and prominently connected with railroad affairs in 1853, and was elected that year on account of his executive and administrative ability President of the Hanover Branch Railroad. In this position he was enabled to appreciate what his section needed to bring out its possibilities and resources, and he secured the construction of several important branch roads, running through rich localities, facilitating the shipment of the products of the farms, the Littlestown Extension, Berlin Branch, Bachman Valley, and latterly the Baltimore and Hanover Railroad.

"He advocated the purchase of the Gettysburg Railroad, thus giving Baltimore a continuous rail connection with that historic town, its famous battlefield and its productive region. By the above purchase, the railroad known as the 'Old Tape Worm,' in building which Thaddeus Stevens figured conspicuously, running from Gettysburg, to the Western Maryland, on the Blue Ridge Summit, although unfinished, came into possession of the above company. The Gettysburg Railroad has been consolidated with the Hanover Branch, and is known as the Western Extension of the Baltimore and Harrisburg Railroad.

"Captain Eichelberger has given an exhibition of that high-spiritedness which ought to actuate every man holding public and representative positions. In very many ways he has manifested his desire to advance public interests and arouse the people to acts of self-elevation.

"He has also sought to encourage education and higher culture by personal influence and expenditure of means, having within the last year contributed over $3,000 toward the support of the Academy at Glenville, and has also just completed the erection of an Academy building at Hanover, costing $24,000, exclusive of the ground. He has also purchased for the benefit of the town a handsome grove of natural trees for a public park."

Captain Eichelberger has received two severe injuries, the first by a fall in the year 1891, the other by being thrown from a carriage in 1893. These accidents so hurt him as to unfit him for any active work ; he has therefore severed his connection with many business interests, but still is President of three railroads, making him yet the oldest living Railroad President. The Academy building he has since turned over to his native town for a High School, having become convinced that the era of the Public School is at hand, and that the education "for the people and by the people," will be accomplished through them. On his 81st birthday he also presented to the school, his portrait, for which they had asked that the scholars of the coming years might see for themselves, this man who had so generously furnished such a building for use in their education. The picture taken for that occasion is given as a frontispiece to this volume.

The following account of the presentation of the Academy property to the Hanover School District, is from the Evening Herald, of June 9th, 1900 :—

CAPT. EICHELBERGER'S MAGNIFICENT GIFT.

Eichelberg Academy for Use as a High School—Surprise at the Commencement—Successful Commencement Exercises of the High School Made Memorable by the Gift.

The Commencement exercises of the High School in the Opera House last evening mark beyond a doubt one of the most interesting epochs not only in the history of the Hanover public schools, but in the history of the town itself.

The notable incident in connection with these exercises was nothing less than the presentation by Capt. A. W. Eichelberger, of Eichelberg Academy, with its beautiful campus, covering three acres of ground, to the Hanover School District, for the use of the High School, the only condition being that it be used for public school purposes forever. The Opera House was crowded with people and great was the applause awarded each young lady and gentleman as essay or oration was completed ; but still greater was the applause which greeted the mention of the name of the absent actor in the evening's exercises—Capt. A. W. Eichelberger.

The valedictory was spoken, the High School bell several hundred feet away, had tolled for the Senior Class, the diplomas were awarded and the address to the graduates by the Supervising Principal was over. The programme was about to close with the pronouncing of the benediction, when without invitation or announcement, Rev. Dr. C. M. Stock, pastor of St. Mark's Lutheran Church, arose from his seat at the rear of the platform, and began to address the chairman.

He said he was not on the programme to speak and he did not know that any one had invited him on the platform, but he was here for a particular purpose. The tolling of the High School bell by some mischievous Freshman may have been meant for a joke on the class of 1900, but that bell has tolled the death knell of the old order of things in the Hanover schools. When it rings again, it will ring for joy. One of the speakers has mentioned three things which the class of 1900 would like to have for the improvement of Hanover, a public library, a public park, and a new High School building. I wish to say that the public library is on the way, (Applause,) and I believe that the public park will come, (Applause,) but the new High School building is here. (Long continued applause.)

I represent to-night a large man in every way, a representative product of a family of five generations of Hanover citizens, one of the most lovable, broadminded, great-hearted, public-spirited men I have ever met—Captain A. W. Eichelberger. (Tremendous applause.) In his name, I come to present to the School Board a princely gift. He will soon have attained the age of 81 years. During all these it seems he has been devising some means by which he might do good to the people of Hanover. His life motto has been the motto of the class of 1900, Non Sibi sed Omnibus. Four years ago, he built Eichelberg Academy. Builders tell me that it is one of the finest buildings in this community. After its erection, he conveyed it by deed to an association, to be utilized as an academy; but after a test it has been thought by the donor that the edifice would serve a better purpose as a public school building and as the representative of the Academy, Capt. Eichelberger, and my fellow members of the association, I present to the Board of Directors the deed of this building and three acres of land, the only condition being that it be used for public school purposes forever. If it is worth one cent it is worth $30,000.

The speaker then handed to Dr. O. T. Everhart, Secretary of the School Board, two deeds, one from A. W. Eichelberger to the Eichelberg Academy Association, dated Oct. 29th, 1896, and the other from Eichelberg Academy to the Hanover School District, dated May 16th, 1900. The price of the deeds, was stated as $1, and was greeted with great applause.

Dr. O. T. Everhart, saying one present deserves another, handed Dr. Stock a one dollar note, which he said was one of Uncle Sam's promises to pay. Dr. Stock handed the note to Prof. Chrostwaite as a donation to the library fund.

Dr. Everhart then in an able address accepted the generous gift. He said the building will stand as a monument to Capt. Eichelberger, and long after his mortal remains are mouldering in the grave children will rise up and call him blessed.

He gave a brief account of the visit of Dr. Stock to the School Board meeting on May 5th, and the surprise and delight of the members when they were informed of Capt. Eichelberger's intentions, and said we must not forget to give at least one grateful thought to Dr. Stock, who had so well wrought out the generous donor's plan.

Rev. George B. Resser, who was sitting in the audience, arose and said that although he was not asked to speak any more than Dr. Stock, yet he thought it would be improper if the thanks of the audience were not returned to Captain Eichelberger for his princely gift. He therefore asked Dr. Stock to convey the thanks of the audience to the captain. The great applause which greeted these remarks showed the deep feeling of those present and their hearty thanks to their generous fellow citizen.

The exercises were then closed with the benediction by Rev. J. Emory Weeks.

The extract from the Baltimore American gives Captain Eichelberger in his business life very well, but does not tell of him as he is in other relations,—a loyal citizen, so loyal with such perfect trust in the strength and ultimate triumph of the United States Government, that when he was advised to part with his Southern property, for fear it would be a dead loss to him, he felt so safe in reposing his trust in his own government that he refused to take the advice, and the end justified his faith, for after the surrender it was all returned to him.

Better yet was the loyalty which upheld his countrymen when rumors of divers alarming kinds kept pouring in upon them, until they almost uprose in riots; then who so calm, so reassuring as the Captain? When just before the Battle of Gettysburg, a few stragglers from the Confederate Army came through Hanover, and gave the people a touch of the awfulness of war, so that whenever afterwards a soldier hove in sight there was almost a panic, who calmed every fear, unless the Captain?

At the outbreak of the Civil War an order was sent here for the arrest of Major Jenifer, of the United States Army, on sight, as a deserter. One day, soon after, Captain Eichelberger seeing him in the hotel, told a friend that there was the Major. They immediately arrested him, Major Jenifer protesting that he had resigned his commission, but the Captain acting under the orders received, left his companion in charge of the prisoner, and went to the telegraph office to ask the Governor of Pennsylvania what should be done with the Major; receiving the reply to send him down to York to prison. Captain Eichelberger was delayed quite a while, and upon his return was surprised to find Centre Square filled with people. Inquiring the reason, he received no coherent reply for some moments, but finally discovered that during his absence the rumor had gotten out that crowds of rebel rowdies were coming from Baltimore to burn the town, and the cry had been raised,—“To arms! to arms! the rebels are coming to burn us out!” This had brought the people in from the outskirts, armed in every conceivable way, with anything in the shape of a weapon they could lay their hands upon. Report also had it that this Major was to lead the Baltimore rioters in their pillage and conflagration, and the consequent feeling against him was exceedingly revengeful and bitter.

Captain Eichelberger immediately made a speech to the people near enough to be able to hear him, and fully explained the situation. He then went over to the hotel where he had left the prisoner and found him in chains. These he ordered taken off, and when the crowd attempted to take the prisoner out and kill him, the Captain placed himself in the doorway and tried with all the eloquence in his power to make them listen to reason; but they would not, and he saw the prisoner was in terrible danger. He drew his grand and massive figure to its full height, and placing a hand upon either door jamb, cried at the top of his voice, “Only over my dead body shall you take him!” His personal danger brought several of the more prominent citizens to his side, and thus protecting the prisoner, he explained to the crowd more fully the whole matter and promised them that he with two other men would watch Baltimore Street that night. So wrought up was the crowd almost to frenzy, in such terror for their homes and dear ones, that almost any other man, nay I think any other man but Captain Eichelberger, would have been, if not killed outright, at least badly injured when standing in that doorway, but who of his fellow-citizens but loved and honored, yea more, and trusted him and his word to see that they should be protected? There was not one among them but knew that if it should become necessary, he would protect them and theirs with his very life, even as he had offered to do for that poor prisoner.

Major Jenifer it turned out had really resigned ; but the Captain had only acted under express orders in arresting him. The crowd dispersed and those of them who are alive to-day are thankful indeed that the Captain's bravery kept off that which would have come to be a reproach to Hanover as long as memory lasted.

The news of the story of the coming rioters reached Baltimore, and the citizens there were sorry that the people of Hanover would believe this of them, or would even believe that their rabble would have been allowed to come here on such fiendish purposes. One of their most important citizens, a man then filling one of the city's most important offices, wrote here that he had heard that the coolest-headed, most purposeful, and most influential citizen of the town was a Captain Eichelberger, who was President of a railroad, that was all he knew ; so he directed his letter to " Captain George Eichelberger, President of the Hanover & Junction Railroad, Hanover, Pennsylvania." The letter lies before me now, having resurrected it out from an old desk of the Captain's, where it had lain neglected and forgotten, for thirty-nine years. This gentleman assures the Captain that no such attack is to be feared ; that municipal authority would prevent it, if nothing else would, and that he begs him to so assure his fellow-citizens. He goes on to bestow many complimentary expressions of his personal regard, and complete confidence in the Captain, and remains sure that in writing and placing the truth of the story before him, he has done the best possible to satisfy and quiet the alarm of Hanoverians. He remains also with high respect and assurances of warm friendship towards him of whom he had heard so highly, but whom he regrets to only have known by report. Signed, "I. J. P——."

Not one word of all this was written with even the knowledge of Captain Eichelberger, but I who have been able to do much of this latter work for him, feel that I must share with you, not the affection and grateful respect which I shall ever feel for him, but the knowledge, as well as my poor words can give it you, of what manner of man this is, who has done so much that you and your children shall know and enjoy the inheritance of a highly respected and untarnished name, that name which none who have ever borne it, have worn with more modesty, honesty and integrity than he of whom I have been writing. The moral lies herein.

RUFUS A. EICHELBERGER.

Rufus, the youngest son of Jacob and Maria Eichelberger, is better described in a notice published below, and written at the time of his death, August 3d, 1885, than I could give it. But one must bear witness that he too like his brothers, was not only an active business man and a generous citizen, but also in his family relations he was the most gentle, sympathetic and considerate of men. His lovable ways endeared him to a host of friends, but in the home he was best known and best appreciated. His sudden death brought sorrow to that home, where his sympathetic ways were more than ever missed. Of these five brothers, Jacob and Matthew were the only ones who married; Jacob, the only one who left sons to bear his name, and they are all living in the South.

Death of a Prominent Citizen.

About 7 o'clock on Monday morning last, our community was greatly shocked to learn of the death of Rufus A. Eichelberger, Esq., President of the Hanover Saving Fund Society, whose spirit quietly passed away from the scenes of earth during the early morning hours at his residence on Frederick Street, after a brief illness of gastric fever. Mr. Eichelberger had been complaining for several weeks and was confined to the house, but no serious result was apprehended by the family until a few days previous to his demise, when a sudden alarming change for the worse took place, which developed into gastric fever, and despite the best medical skill and unremitting attentions of his family, progressed unchecked until a fatal termination was reached.

Mr. Eichelberger was one of our most widely known citizens, having been for many years connected with the Hanover Saving Fund Society as its Treasurer after the resignation of the late F. E. Metzger, and some six or eight years ago upon the resignation of the Presidency of that institution by Henry Wirt, Esq., was unanimously chosen by the Board of Directors his successor. He was also Treasurer of the Hanover Junction, Hanover & Gettysburg Railroad Company, and a Director in the Hanover & Berlin and Hanover & Maryland Line Turnpike Companies. As a careful and successful financier he was without a peer, and his opinion was always consulted and respected by the patrons of the bank and business public, his judgment very rarely proving at fault.

He was a quiet and unassuming gentleman, of unimpeachable integrity and great purity of character, and although possessed of great wealth was exceedingly plain and unassuming in his habits and manners. His death is a serious loss to our community. He was the youngest son of Jacob Eichelberger, Esq., one of our most prominent citizens a half century ago, and was in his 64th year. He was unmarried.

His remains were interred at 9 o'clock on Wednesday morning at Mount Olivet Cemetery in the presence of an unusually large funeral concourse, Rev. Dr. Scholl, pastor of St. Mark's Lutheran Church, officiating. The funeral was attended by the Bank, Railroad and Turnpike officials in a body, and a number of intimate personal friends and acquaintances were present from Baltimore, York, Gettysburg, New Oxford and other places.

Tributes of Respect.

Office of the Hanover Saving Fund Society, Hanover, Aug. 4th, 1885.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors held this day, the following action was taken :—

WHEREAS, It has pleased Divine Providence to remove from our midst by death after a short illness, Rufus A. Eichelberger, the President of this Institution, and our fellow member :

AND WHEREAS, In consideration of his long and faithful services in the furtherance of the best interests of our Society, it is but meet and right that this Board give some formal expression of the deep sense of their loss, and also add their sincere tribute of respect to his memory ; therefore, be it

Resolved, That in the death of Rufus A. Eichelberger, this Board has sustained the loss of a valuable, tried and faithful member and officer of thirty-five years service, and whose absence from the councils of the Board will long be felt by all its members.

Resolved, That we shall ever cherish in our memories a sincere appreciation of his fidelity and zeal in the affairs of the Bank, and bear testimony to the unbounded confidence in his integrity that has always been shown by the members of the Board, the stockholders of the Institution, and the patrons of the Bank generally.

Resolved, That as a mark of respect, we attend the funeral in a body.

Resolved, That these resolutions be entered on the minutes of the Board and published in the papers of the town.

R. M. WIRT,
Secretary to the Board.

At the meeting of the Board of Directors of the Hanover Junction, Hanover & Gettysburg Railroad Company, held at the office of the Company on Tuesday evening, August 4th, 1885, the following proceedings were had :—

This Board of Directors has heard with profound regret and sorrow of the unexpected death of its Treasurer, Rufus A. Eichelberger, and, as a well-merited tribute to his memory, hereby order the following to be entered upon its minutes and published in the papers of the town :—

Rufus A. Eichelberger died in ripe, vigorous manhood, in the midst of active business, in the town which gave him birth and where he had spent his whole life in the enjoyment of the confidence of all his fellow-citizens.

Thirty-one years ago he was elected Treasurer of the Hanover Branch Railroad Company, then in its infancy, and afterwards consolidated under the present name of the Hanover Junction, Hanover & Gettysburg Railroad Company, and was the Treasurer continuously until his death. He was courteous, attentive to his duties, a scrupulously honest man, and in his death the Railroad Company has lost a faithful officer, the community a good citizen, and the family a kind and confiding brother.

Extract from the minutes.

R. M. WIRT, Secretary.

CATHERINE EICHELBERGER McCOSH.

The daughters of Jacob and Maria were, Catherine, Amanda and Amelia. Catherine married Samuel Alexander McCosh, of Gettysburg. They moved to that place after their marriage, but soon left for Petersburg, Pa. Here their two oldest children were born, Mary Wirt and James Eichelberger. While this son was an infant they moved to LaGrange, Georgia, and ran a large hotel. Soon afterwards, Mr. Samuel A. McCosh bought a large plantation on the Chatahoochee river, in Troup County, Ga. Here the family resided until the call "To Arms," which meant to those living in the South, "Protect your families and your homes." Mr. McCosh went to join the Confederate troops in 1861, and his eldest son followed him. This was a terrible time for the wife and mother, whose family then consisted of Louisa D., who the year before had come to Hanover to stay with her grandmother, and complete her studies. She was North the whole time of the war, virtually as much a prisoner, as far as being able to go home was concerned, as any soldier lad. Mary W., Samuel Alexander, Jr., Cornelius R. and Catherine M. were with their mother during the time of the war. The youngest son of Mrs. McCosh, was Henry Clay, the little son whom she had brought North a few years before on coming to see her invalid and fast-aging mother. The child died during that visit, and was buried in Hanover.

Among the older residents of Troup County, Mrs. Catherine McCosh is still remembered for her lovely and gracious manner, her exemplary and kindly patience, and her Christian grace and fortitude, especially through the trying days of war and sorrow. She was tried to the limit of such grace and fortitude, for when the news of the surrender was an old story, when the neighborhood had been gladdened by the sight of the return of those who were living, when the names of the honored dead had all been made known, there came no word of her husband; not a message, not a line. Months went by; nothing ever came to tell of the manner of his death, nothing. Finally, on a beautiful Sunday morning, this gentle, lovely woman was taken ill and soon passed away; where now so many of her children have gone to meet her.

Her oldest daughter married, after the mother's death, Nathaniel E. Baker, a planter, of Alabama; they had four children, Mary Louise, who was married last winter to W. B. Gilham, of Roanoke, Va.; James H., Cornelius Edwin and Silas Whitton Baker, still living at or near the home of their father, their mother having died in 1896. She and her next sister, Louisa D., both inherited their lovely qualities from their mother. Gentle, lovely and lovable Christian women, both.

Louisa D. McCosh was married to James H. Hines, by whom she had seven children, Nancy Katherine, married to Dr. Hilt, of Standing Rock, Alabama, a young physician with a good practice and doing well; they have two little ones. Elmer Hines is also married and has two young children. He is engaged in the mercantile business, with his father. Mr. Hines, Sr. is a genial, open-handed, open-hearted Southerner, who has the true sympathy of all who knew his dearly beloved partner, who after over twenty years beside him, was called to her Heavenly home but a short time since. The rest of their children,—James A., Sarah Louise, Annie D. and Mary Wirt Hines, are still at home.

The youngest daughter of Catherine McCosh, nee Eichelberger, was North some time during her girlhood, but returned South while still quite young. She married a master mechanic, James A. Ware, by whom she had four children,—Alexander Ware, a noble boy, who was cut off from these scenes of earthly conflict at an early age, dying in 1894; James Melville, John Matthew and Cornelius Ware, all living in Alabama, among friends and relatives, their parents both being deceased.

James Eichelberger McCosh married Mary E. Birdsong, and lives in Alabama; he runs a plantation near his home and also a large mill, in which he is a partner with Captain Eichelberger, of Hanover. James E. McCosh is a very devout member of the Baptist Church, and resembles his mother in many ways. He has four children, Samuel Abdiel, Anna Rebecca, John Birdsong and Ruth, none of whom are yet married.

His brother, Samuel Alexander, while still quite young decided to study medicine, and after a short course at Pennsylvania College, Gettysburg, graduated at Jefferson Medical College, in Philadelphia. Soon after he located in Stewartsville, New Jersey. Here he married Louise W. Kellogg in 1879. The doctor was a true son of his genial, jolly father and gentle mother; a more popular physician never practiced medicine. He removed to a beautiful suburb of Atlanta, Georgia, Edgewood. Here his four children were born, and here the doctor died in 1890. His widow and children survive him, James Nathaniel, Rufus Eichelberger, Marshall Kellogg and Louise Alice, all still at home.

The youngest living son of Samuel A. McCosh and his wife Catherine, is Cornelius R., now residing in Hanover. He, in 1879, married Nancy E. Baugher, by whom he has four children,—Irma Kathryn, Henry Eichelberger, Robert Alexander and Louise Baugher. These are also living at home with the exception of the son, Henry E. who is engaged as a traveling salesman, but regards Hanover as his home. Cornelius McCosh was destined for a civil engineer, and he was for a time engaged in that work, but after his marriage went to Emory Grove, Md., where he lived for several years, in the employ of the railroads. About eight years ago he brought his family to Hanover, where he is now engaged in the manufacture of ice. His family are members of St. Mark's Lutheran Church.

AMANDA EICHELBERGER GITT.

The next daughter of Jacob and Maria Eichelberger, was Amanda, who married Abdiel F. Gitt, of Adams County, Pa. Mr. Gitt was a farmer on a very extensive scale and also ran a large grain mill. They only had two children. Mary F. in 1872 was married to Paul Hersh, of New Oxford, who soon after his marriage obtained a position in Washington, D. C., in the Treasury Department, where he remained for many years, once losing it through a change of administration, but has held it for a long time, and is there now. His accomplished and popular wife died about two years ago, much to the sorrow of her many friends as well as to that of her near relatives. She had no children.

Catherine W. Gitt was married in 1877 to William A. Himes, of New Oxford. Mrs. Himes has resided since her marriage at the homestead of her husband's family, which she, with her true Christian hospitality, has made delightful to so many. She has a family of four—all living in New Oxford, Pa. Anna Katherine, Amelia Eichelberger, Helen Lanius and William D. Himes, are all pleasant and lively young people. Their father is President of the bank in New Oxford, and also connected with many business enterprises in York and in his native town, beside taking a watchful care of several farms in Adams County.

AMELIA HENRIETTA EICHELBERGER.

Amelia Henrietta Eichelberger, youngest child of Jacob and Maria, was born, as were all of their family, in Hanover. Just as she grew to womanhood her mother became a complete invalid, and fortunate it was for her that she had one daughter left to her, and until the close of that mother's life, her daughter's devotion was marked and beautiful. Since then she has been the one who has not only kept the house, but has given the home that feminine homeliness, so needed, and has made it home indeed for her brothers. Like them she is a member of St. Mark's Lutheran Church, in this place.

From Jacob Eichelberger, Sr., and his wife Anna Maria down, the whole of this family of the name who have died, lie in Mt. Olivet Cemetery, at Hanover, or rather all, with the exception of Jacob, who died in Alabama, and whose children preferred to have his grave where they might attend it.

Thus the line of Jacob, the second son of Philip Frederick Eichelberger and his wife, Anna Maria Reinacker. In closing this line, I feel that I would like very much to share with you all the many interesting papers disclosed to the light of day after years of darkness, papers containing hotel licenses as granted to Jacob Eichelberger, Sr., by the first Governor of the State of Pennsylvania. Old fashioned licenses these, with many a name of men who have been laid in their graves these years past. Then Provincial papers, grants made when this State was still a province. Tax receipts for the taxation of a "two-wheel carry-all, now commonly called a Gig." Receipts for the money paid out by the two elder Jacobs, Sr., and Jr., given by loved ones dead and gone. Jacob, the elder, settled up his mother's estate, and some of the funeral costs read very strangely now, as :

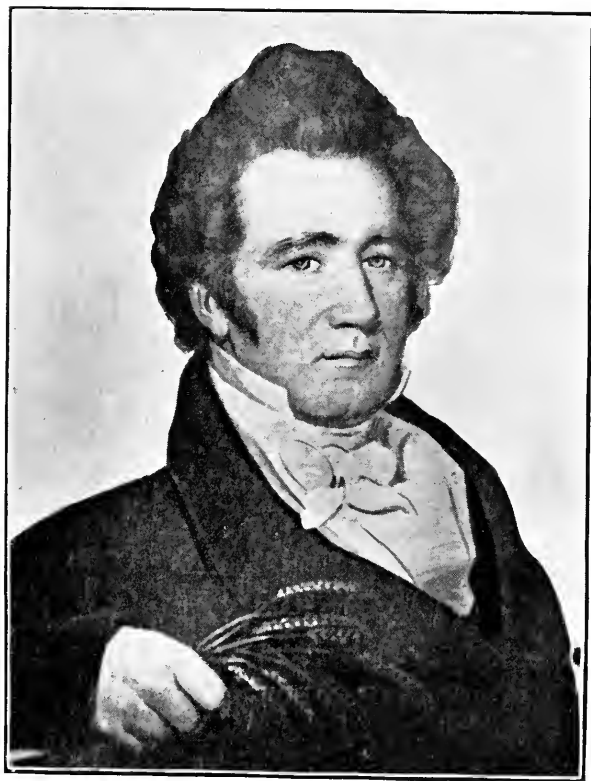

Cash paid Gobrecht for the Funeral Cermon,	7 ^s h. 5 ^p cn.
Paid Nich Shaefer, Schoolmaster, for singing at the Funeral,	5 ^s h.

For all the old time funerals there was just such an amount of wine ordered and drank. These are things that were of the utmost importance then ; now they are done in other ways. The old parchment deeds are too, in their way, curiosities.

Leonard Eichelberger.

Third son of Philip Frederick and his second Wife, Magdalene.

Leonard, the third son of Philip Frederick Eichelberger and his second wife, Magdalene, was born August 12th, 1750, at the first large home place or farm owned by his father in this country, the 175 acres which he had obtained from the Penns, the Proprietaries of Pennsylvania, and which was situated in Manheim Township, Lancaster County, Pa. But Leonard was only four years old when they moved to York County, to the new home place on the York road, near Hanover, Pa., that 225 acres which have been in the possession of the Eichelbergers ever since. Here Leonard lived and thrived, for we are told that he, like most of his race, was tall and strong; here he grew to manhood and it was from here he went to marry, in 1772, Elizabeth Smyser, of York. With his father's help he bought a farm along Piney Creek, in Frederick (now Carroll) County, Md. At this place their ten children were born—Jacob, Mary M., Lydia, Sarah, Frederick, George M., John, Susan, Catherine and Elizabeth. Later Leonard and his family moved to Dillsburg, Pa. He was by trade a wagon builder, but like his brothers before and his sons after him, Leonard's services were always at the disposal of his country or his State. In the years while our land was still in a state of turmoil as the result of our war with England, he was twice chosen to serve for the public good. Once he was appointed a member of a company to preserve law and order, no slight task in those turbulent times; again when suffering was reported from real want in those cities nearest the seat of war, he was chosen to collect funds in his own township to send to the relief of the sufferers. And, as you may remember, it was sent by the hand of his brother's son, George. In September, 1800, the first political conventions were held in Adams County, just erected, meeting at Gettysburg. To the Republican county convention Leonard and Frederick Christian Eichelberger were delegates.

COL. FREDERICK EICHELBERGER.

These same old papers and receipts are as interesting in the case of Leonard, of course, as of any of the rest. There is one receipt which he has signed in German, another as Lenhart Eichelberger, both yellow with age. I have a deed given to my grandfather for a lot in Hanover, so beautifully written by hand, with the flourishes and old time spelling, a relic to satisfy the most loving antiquity hunter. Not but there may be many such, but this one between these two brothers certainly is of interest to us. It seems that Leonard owned the place, and as he was about to marry he wanted his money, for he was going to take his bride to what was then known as Frederick County, but is now Carroll County, Maryland. The deed is written upon the "eleventh day of March, in the year of our Lord one thousand and seven hundred and seventy-two." It designates Leonard as a "wheelwright" and Jacob as a "joiner." The lot sold is on York and "Pigeon" Streets, (now Abbottstown Street,) and was numbered 195, costing £100. From about 1780 until the time of his death, he paid taxes on property in Hanover; as by his father's will we see, "I leave to my beloved wife Magdalene, etc., etc., by article of agreement with my son, Leonard Eichelberger," referring to the house in Hanover, which leads us to think that he had made an agreement with Leonard that he should have this house after his mother had ended her days there.

Leonard was several times chosen Road Commissioner, and was once Justice of the Peace, this in the latter part of his life. He died at his home in Dillsburg, at the age of 60, November 8th, 1811. His good wife Elizabeth survived him but six years, dying January 26th, 1817. They were both consistent members of the Lutheran Church, and lie buried side by side in the old Franklin graveyard, three miles south of Dillsburg.

JACOB EICHELBERGER.

Jacob, oldest child of Leonard and Elizabeth, was born in 1774, and very early in the new century, about one hundred years ago, he married the widow Musser, maiden name Elizabeth Dinkle, granddaughter of the Baron Johanne Daniel Dinkle, of whom I have spoken before. They had only three children, all daughters, Elizabeth, Catherine and Maria. Jacob, as all the sons of Leonard, was a public-spirited man. His first home after marrying, was in York. In 1804 he served as Sheriff of York County, was elected to the State Assembly in 1825, and made a Justice in 1829. He moved to Dillsburg a short time before 1830, and June 17, 1831, when only 57 years of age, he was called to his fathers, leaving his widow and three daughters to survive him. He lies buried in the cemetery at Dillsburg,

ELIZABETH EICHELBERGER SHEARER.

Elizabeth, his oldest daughter, married Dr. George L. Shearer, of Dillsburg, March 8th. 1827. After her marriage she left the church of her forefathers, and entered the Presbyterian Church. But there she carried out the traditions of her family, for she raised two sons to minister to minds diseased, while the other three, and even one daughter, made it the study and labor of their lives to minister to suffering bodies. They had ten children. Jacob Eichelberger and Susannah, the two eldest, as well as Catherine, the second daughter, all died in early childhood. Dr. George and his wife Elizabeth are both buried in Dillsburg.

The oldest son to attain years of manhood, James Mitchell Shearer, followed in his father's footsteps and became a physician. He graduated first at Dickinson College, then at Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia. He was a surgeon in the Pennsylvania Volunteers, during the Civil War; the rest of his life he practised in Dillsburg. He was married to Miss Georgia Cowen, but had no children, and died just before attaining his 48th year.

George Lewis Shearer graduated at Lafayette College, then at Princeton Theological Seminary, was ordained to the ministry in 1865, and entered the service of the American Tract Society, where in different positions, he has been ever since. He has been their head Secretary since 1872. He married Mary Ketchum, some time since; they have a bright and interesting family, all living in New York City. He received the degree of Doctor of Divinity from his Alma Mater, Lafayette, of which College he is also a Trustee.

MRS. CATHARINE EICHELBERGER YOUNG.

Frederick Eichelberger Shearer, like this brother, entered the ministry, graduating at Princeton, from both the College and Seminary. During the Civil War, he was in the United States Christian Commission work, with the Ninth Army Corps; was at battles from the Rapidan and Wilderness to Petersburg, Va. Ordained in 1866, in different services of his chosen calling he spent many years in the West; was editor of the Occident in San Francisco, until 1890, when he removed with his wife, whose maiden name was Kate B. Russell, and his five charming young people, to New York City. He received the degree of Doctor of Divinity from Highland University, in Kansas.

Henrietta Shearer married a Mr. Dyson, and had one son, Logan, who has since studied pharmacy and is now in that business. Mr. Dyson, Sr., died young, and Henrietta married a Mr. Wagoner; they had one daughter, Maria. Mrs. Henrietta Wagoner died in 1882.

Niles Harrison Shearer is now living in the city of York, Pa., where he has a large drug store. Several years ago he married Mary Keyworth, and they have two little children, George and Juliette.

Juliette Shearer, who never married, studied medicine, and resides in Washington, D. C.

Edgar Shearer, the youngest of this family, is also single, and is living at York, where he is connected with his brother Niles, in the drug business.

CATHERINE EICHELBERGER YOUNG.

Catherine Eichelberger, second daughter of Jacob and Elizabeth, married Enoch Young, of Carlisle, Pa., where they spent most of their married life. He died long before reaching old age, and Mrs. Young was a widow many years. She was a wonderful woman. Had she lived in this day when every calling is open to her sex, she might have graced the bench or Senatorial halls. There was none of her race more fitted to public life—her legal mind solved every problem ; her wonderful memory retained every noted date or deed. It was largely her enthusiastic sympathy, her keen penetration, raveling all knotty points, as well as to her ready remembrance of all the old family fables, that led me to undertake this work, in which her interest never flagged, for which she took many a long tramp and made many a visit. She died in 1885 and is buried beside her husband in Churchtown, Pa.

MARIA EICHELBERGER McCOSH.

Maria, third and youngest child of Jacob Eichelberger, married James McCosh, of Gettysburg, where they resided for many years, finally making their home at St. Louis, Missouri. Here their two children now reside, George, the eldest, being a practicing physician. Mr. McCosh and wife have been dead these many years. Their daughter, Lida, married a Mr. Clark, of St. Louis, where they with their two living little ones now reside, one son having died a short time since. The doctor, like so many of our emigrant's descendants who went West to "grow up with the country," returned to York, Pa., when in that "Springtime when a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love," or in other words when ready to marry, he came back to the old home place to get a good wife ; for in York several years ago he was married to a Miss Shearer. They have one little daughter, Genevieve. And with the mention of this little one we close the history of her great-grandfather, Jacob Eichelberger.

FREDERICK EICHELBERGER.

The next son of Leonard bore the family name and bore it right worthily. Frederick was born August 24th, 1783, and as he came to years of early manhood was distinguished for his pleasant and courteous manners and for his stylish mode of dress, which earned for him among his associates the name of "Gentleman Frederick." About the year 1808, he married Catherine Baker, of Piqua, Lancaster County, Pa. He was a member of the State Militia, a Captain who formed his own company, but was soon promoted to a Coloneley, which he easily graced with his soldierly bearing and distinguished manners. Although a Colonel, he was more of a statesman than a soldier. He began his political life by filling the unexpired term of a Justice of the Peace who died in office. In 1815-16-17, he served his district as Assemblyman at the State Capital, while in 1819, 1823 and in 1829, he was State Senator. At the age of 53 years Colonel Frederick Eichelberger died. He is buried at Dillsburg. They had no children, but his widow survived him thirty-three years.

GEORGE M. EICHELBERGER, Son of Leonard.

We give a picture of the Colonel, which certainly shows a well-preserved and handsome man. We also give one of his next brother, George M., which shows so well that predisposition to legal ability which made him as well as his son and grandson powers in their chosen profession.

GEORGE M. EICHELBERGER.

George M. Eichelberger, born February 11th, 1784, did not follow the rest of his family, but chose a home for himself in Frederick City, Md., where he married Jane Grayson. He was for twenty years Register of Wills for Frederick County, Md., and was one of the original Vice Presidents of the Frederick County Agricultural Society on its organization in 1821. At various times he was on the boards of the different educational institutions of Frederick. In 1842 he was one of the memorialists to the Grand Lodge of Masons of Maryland praying for a renewal of the charter of Columbia Lodge; he was a prominent Mason and held various offices high in the Order. He died at Frederick, January 16th, 1854. His children were: Lydia, (died unmarried,) Ann Eliza, Margaret and Mary Jane, daughters; Niles, Grayson, Allen and Harvey, sons.

ANN ELIZA GAMBRILL.

In 1836 Ann Eliza married Charles A. Gambrill, the well-known flour merchant of Baltimore, by whom she had the following children: M. Louisa, married to P. H. Macgill, of the C. A. Gambrill Mfg. Co., of Baltimore, she dying childless in March, 1892; Richard A., now deceased, who married Anna Van Nest, of New York, by whom he had one child, a son, now living in New York City; Albert Gambrill, married to Laura Webb and living in Baltimore, to which marriage there were born five children, Ethel and Mary, (died in infancy,) Albert, Laura and Louise, all living in Baltimore ; Janie, married to Robert Tyson, and long since deceased childless ; Mary, long since deceased, unmarried.

MARY JANE BOONE.

Mary Jane, daughter of George, married Dr. Jermingham Boone, of Frederick, Md., and died many years ago, leaving surviving her husband and the following children: Janie, Margaret and Catherine, all unmarried and living in Frederick County, Md. ; Jermingham, unmarried, and living in St. Louis, Mo. ; and Robert, who died some years ago, unmarried.

MARGARET WOODSIDE.

Margaret, daughter of George, married John Woodside, of Baltimore, and survives him as his widow. They had five children,—Daniel, George and Grace, all of whom died in infancy ; William, married and living in Baltimore, and Margaret S., living in Baltimore and married to A. J. Corning, by whom she has four children.

NILES EICHELBERGER.

Niles, the oldest son of George, died unmarried many years ago.

GRAYSON EICHELBERGER.

Grayson, the next son, was one of the most prominent lawyers of his day in his County and State. He was a staunch Union man and by his work as Secretary of State of Maryland, under Governor Hicks, and as State Senator in 1861, did good service for the cause of loyalty. At one time during the war a reward was put upon his head by one of the Rebel brigadiers. He was identified with almost all the public and literary enterprises of Frederick. He graduated at St. Joseph's at Emmitsburg, and was the valedictorian of his class. May, 1844, Grayson Eichelberger was married to Amanda Baugher, (now deceased) daughter of Isaac Baugher, of Emmitsburg, Md. Mourned alike by his family and fellow citizens, Grayson Eichelberger died July 24th, 1885, having just passed his 63d birthday.

There were born to this couple the following children : Edmund, Charles and J. Willie, all dying in infancy ; Frances M., married to C. H. Hill, dying in 1875, without issue ; Ella and Effie G., both unmarried and living in Frederick ; Byrd Gambrill, married in January, 1900, Lorella Dangerfield Faunt-Le-Roy ; he is clerking for the publishing house of Cushing & Co., in Baltimore ; Edward S., still a young man, who is swiftly following in the illustrious footsteps of his father and grandfather, as he is practicing law and is now serving his second term as State's Attorney for Frederick County. He is a graduate of Princeton University. In 1894, he was married to Miriam Gray, a bright and pretty young New Englander ; they have two children, Margaret Grayson and Edward Gray.

HARVEY EICHELBERGER.

Harvey, third son of George, was born with the true restlessness of a natural pioneer. His motto truly seemed to be to "go West and grow up with the country." Neither the discomforts nor the loneliness of the life seemed to daunt him ; he went to California in 1849, stayed there until the population became too numerous to suit him, then went to Oregon where he remained, living in the mountains of that State with only one man for company for nearly twenty years. At the end of that time he made a visit home, then went to Texas, staying there but a short while (comparatively.) Then he returned to Frederick, where in a few years he died, in 1893. He never married.

WILLIAM ALLEN EICHELBERGER.

The youngest son, William Allen, who was but a little over 30 when he became enthused with that loyalty to the Union which, as in so many other cases, cost him his life. Allen first enlisted as a sailor, and was on board the San Jacinto, when Captain Wilkes captured Mason and Slidell, the Confederate Commissioners.—Afterward he enlisted in the regular army, and at the second battle of Bull Run, in August, 1862, he was killed, having had both legs shot away.

JOHN EICHELBERGER.

John, the youngest son of Leonard and Elizabeth, attained to manhood just about the time of his father's death. Like his brothers he became quite a politician, ran for the Legislature in York County in 1821 and in 1823 on the ticket called the "Winster," which was against the regular party ticket. There were many in the State who thought party reform was needed, hence the new or "Winster" party. The last time his name was so used he ran against his brother-in-law, Daniel Bailey. The bitterness thus engendered (party, not personal,) so disgusted John, that although urged to be on the next ticket, he would not consent. But in 1825 and in 1826 he was elected Assemblyman, on what ticket I cannot say. In 1833 John Eichelberger died, being but a little over 37 years of age. He too lies buried in the Franklin graveyard.

JOHN EICHELBERGER, JR.

John had two sons, both his namesakes, John and John Alexander. Of the elder we know nothing, except that he lived in Monaghan Township, York County, and was called "Monaghan John," to distinguish him from his brother. He served as a representative in the State Assembly and was also a Justice of the Peace; but of his private life we know nothing.

JOHN ALEXANDER EICHELBERGER.

The younger son, John Alexander, left Dillsburg in his boyhood and went to Philadelphia. In 1855 he went to Eugene, Indiana, where he was employed in the dry goods trade. He inherited the paternal patriotism and in the Civil War enlisted in Co. K, 97th Regiment of Indiana Volunteers, but was not accepted, being over age. In 1864 he moved to Terre Haute, Indiana, where he lived until his death in 1870, being over 80 years of age. He had, while in Dillsburg in 1838, married Elenora Tolbert Chambus, and they had eight children. She is still living in Terre Haute, where three of her sons reside.

The military spirit exists in this family as a whole, three of the sons having served gallantly in the Civil War. William Chambus, the oldest, gives us this slight sketch of his service: "Served in Medical Department of the United States Army as a Medical Cadet from September, 1861, to September, 1863; on duty for one month with the 16th Regiment, New York Volunteer Infantry, being transferred to that regiment from Fairfax Street Hospital, then transferred to the Mansion House Hospital, thence back to the Fairfax Street Hospital, all in Alexandria, Virginia. Entire service was in connection with Army of the Potomac. At the expiration of service entered into general practice at Eugene, Indiana, now in special practice in Terre Haute." The doctor is a noted specialist in Indiana, his treatment being confined especially to the eye and ear. He married Octavia Burnett, of Terre Haute, in January, 1877, and had only one son, Harry Burnett, who died in 1888.

John Stephens, second son of John Alexander, was born in 1843 and died three years ago. He was married in 1869, soon after the close of the war, to Georgiana Monroe. They had three children, William Chambus, Jr., died when only seven years old, Frank and Hallie, living with their widowed mother in Terre Haute. John S. Eichelberger was also in the Civil War, and as a soldier won as much recognition as his medical brother, for he was a brave man.

James A., the next brother in this trio of patriots, is now in the Military Home, in Danville, Illinois. He was in the 33d Indiana Volunteer Infantry, and his whole record was a fine one. He never married.

The fourth son of John Alexander, Charles Stansbery, was born in Eugene, Indiana. He was married to Mary Grace and was accidentally killed in 1896. He left no children, and his widow soon followed him to the better land, dying in 1897.

Eugene M. died at the age of two, and Clarence, the youngest, before his first birthday. Margaret June, the only daughter, was born in Philadelphia, and lived to be just 20 years of age. Arnold, the youngest to live through his childhood, was married to a Miss Clark, and has a son, Clark S.

Thus the history of the four sons of Leonard and Elizabeth Eichelberger.

DAUGHTERS OF LEONARD.

Their six daughters married, most of them around Dillsburg, Pa., or to residents just outside that pretty country town. The very farm and home place, "Wheatfield," bought and built upon by Leonard Eichelberger, is now owned and occupied by one of their descendants.

MARY AND SARAH WELTY.

The oldest daughter, Mary M., married Bernard Welty, and her sister Sarah, his brother, Frederick; both had good-sized families, most of whom have or had beautiful homes in the near vicinity of Dillsburg. Mary M. and Bernard had seven children, two being girls, the rest sons, Daniel, Jacob, William, Joseph and James. Sarah and Frederick Welty had six children, Jeremiah, Eliza, Kezia, Caroline, Lydia and Levi. This last son was after the death of his cousin Frederick Eichelberger Bailey, married to his widow, and they resided in the ancestral home of Leonard's. Both are dead now. To Mr. Levi Welty we are indebted for much of this information of his grandfather and uncles.

LYDIA EICHELBERGER BAILEY.

Lydia, third daughter of Leonard, married Daniel Bailey, also of Dillsburg. Mr. Bailey was quite a politician, and in notes taken from those who remembered the time, he figures principally as the choice of the regular ticket for the Legislature in 1825 as against the "Winster." Mr. Bailey was defeated, but as the young party was instituted for the purpose of reforms thought necessary, the defeat was for the party ticket, not for the candidate.

Lydia and Daniel had only two children, the first an infant daughter who was laid away with those great grandparents who were buried so near her earthly home, while the son, Frederick Eichelberger Bailey, was a great pride and comfort to his parents. He graduated at Gettysburg College, then became a lawyer in York of some note for so young a man, for he died before he was thirty. In 1845 he had married Matilda Doudel, of York, and they had two children, Daniel and Sarah Lydia. This promising young son died also when only in his 20th year. He served during the Civil War in Co. G, 12th Regiment Pennsylvania Reserves, and was wounded in the battle of Gaines' Mills, before Richmond, Va., from the effects of which he died six weeks later, in August, 1862. True to the example of his forefathers, "his life for his country."

Miss S. Lydia Bailey is living, and she is the only living representative of Leonard and Elizabeth Eichelberger to be found in or near Dillsburg, that place which was a home to so many of the line.

SUSAN EICHELBERGER SHEARER.

Susan, fourth daughter of Leonard, married Lewis Shearer, of York, and they to-day have descendants living in that city.

CATHERINE EICHELBERGER.

Catherine, a lovely young girl in the early dawn of womanhood, was accidentally drowned, near East Berlin, Pa., just four months after her fifteenth birthday.

ELIZABETH EICHELBERGER RICHENBACH.

Elizabeth, Leonard's youngest daughter and child, survived her mother just one year, dying very shortly after her marriage to Henry Richenbach, when she was but 20 years of age.

This closes the history of Leonard and Elizabeth and their descendants.

Lewis Eichelberger.

Fourth son of Philip Frederick and his second Wife, Magdalene.

Lewis was born in 1752, and was really the sixth son and ninth child of our ancestor, but only the fourth son of Magdalene. He was never as active in the American struggle for independence as the rest of his family, but there may have been reasons for this of which we know nothing. He is described as being a man of medium height, heavy and of great strength; he was of a ruddy complexion and of a combative disposition, but good-natured withal. Up to the time of his marriage and a short time after, he resided with his parents. About 1773 or '74, he married Elizabeth Bair, of Littlestown, Pa., who made him a good wife and a fond and faithful mother to the eleven children that she bore him. The five daughters were named, Martelina, Elizabeth, Hannah, Sally and Lovis. The last two were twins and deaf mutes.

One of the saddest things connected with having homes in a new and war-invaded country is related of these two little ones and their mother. Having had a "mixed army" quartered around them so long, in which the smallpox had been a most dreaded scourge, the people had become over cautious. There was a law (or order) that "all persons having contagious diseases must go from home to some house or place provided by the county." Lewis, the father, is reported to have died suddenly at a sale, in 1801. The following year these little twins were taken ill with the measles, became delirious, and were ordered to the only place "provided by the county,"—the county almshouse. Here they were taken, here their mother followed, and on the journey they took severe colds and in a few days died. This sad little history made such an impression upon the entire family, and especially upon a nephew of Lewis's, a first cousin to these little girls, George M. Eichelberger, that as soon as he came to years of manhood and influence, he put forth every effort to have a home for such unfortunate children in his chosen home, Frederick, Maryland. And it was due to his efforts, mainly, that there was established a home of this kind in that city. So these two little ones did not live nor die in vain.

Martelina, second daughter, was spending some time in Littletown, Pa., when she was taken suddenly ill and died in a few days, aged only 16 years. Hannah, too, died in girlhood.

ELIZABETH EICHELBERGER DOTTERER.

Elizabeth, the only daughter of Lewis who married, was at the age of twenty married to Michael Dotterer, whose home was then in Pennsylvania. But the father of Michael, Conrad Dotterer, was interested very much in the proclamation made by President Thomas Jefferson, offering land to settlers in Columbus County, Ohio. Conrad Dotterer went first with his wife and younger children, and when Michael had won the girl of his heart, Elizabeth Eichelberger, and had married her, he took her out there, and when the young couple arrived at the home the father had made for his family, they found a deed of land in Beaver Township, Columbus County, Ohio, made out in their name for a tract of land from the President of the United States, and bearing the signature of Secretary Staunton. This deed is now considered a family heirloom among their descendants. Here this young couple then made their home, here their children were born, and now they long since deceased, their descendants have descendants in the States of Ohio and Indiana.

Their family consisted of six sons and four daughters. Frederick, the oldest, was simple-minded, remained single, and died before he was 40 years of age. John and George, both married and had children; Jacob died while yet a mere lad, and David, who had large cotton mills at Liberty Mills, Wabash County, Indiana, also married. Michael Eichelberger Dotterer married Elizabeth Werne and established a fine business and built a pretty home for his family at Lowellville, Ohio.

The daughters born to Elizabeth and Michael, all married. Lydia, the first, to a Mr. Miller, of Cincinnati; Eliza, to Henry Wayne, of Indiana; Sallie, to Jacob Coblentz, of North Lind, Washington County, Indiana; while Anna Maria, whom it was my great pleasure to meet, married Henry Smith, of Lowellville, Ohio. She was early left a widow with four children, a son, Henry D., and three daughters. Mrs. Jacob Mohr and Mrs. Robert Erskine, reside in Lowellville, as does their brother, who is Postmaster there, while Martha, the youngest, is married to J. L. Stewart, and resides in Cleveland, Ohio.

Several years ago Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Stewart came East on a visit, and knowing that I was engaged upon the work which has since developed into this present Record, came to see me. They were the only representatives of my father's cousin, Elizabeth, that I had ever seen; and I was glad to welcome two such pleasant and congenial descendants of my great-uncle, Lewis Eichelberger. Mrs. Smith has since died, but I must here make mention that to her I am indebted for almost all the knowledge we have of the descendants of Elizabeth Eichelberger, who married Michael Dotterer. All their daughters had families, I am told, but as I did not learn their names, I could not mention them in this Record.

FREDERICK EICHELBERGER.

Frederick, namesake of that grandparent whose death came the same year as his own birth, was the oldest son of Lewis and Elizabeth. He married and had children, but we only know the name of one,—Joseph. The reason for this is : Frederick went West soon after his marriage, and while his children still were young. His nephew, Adam L. Eichelberger, who assisted me with most of the knowledge I have of his father and uncles, was quite young also, when his uncle Frederick went West. He remembers only his cousin Joseph.

ADAM EICHELBERGER.

Adam, second son of Lewis, moved early in 1800 to Frederick County, Md. There he married, brought up his family and died. He married Polly Koontz ; their children were,—Adam Lewis, Greenbury, Henry Martin, Lewis, Sarah, Mary, Rebecca, and Susan. Polly Eichelberger was a good woman, whose plain ways and helpful manner made her loved and remembered by her neighbors for many a long day after her death. She died about 1837, and two years after Adam married a widow, Mrs. Hannah Leppold. By this wife he had a family of five children, Peter, Neil, Josephine Catherine, Clementine and Hannah. Shortly after these little ones were born, Adam died, in 1849. Then Mrs. Hannah Eichelberger took her five children and went to Springfield, Ohio. There she probably made her home, but no inquiries have enabled us to find trace of any of them since. The daughters of Adam all lived in Frederick County, Md. There all but one, Susan, the youngest, married Marylanders, and raised their children in that State ; Sarah married a Mr. Abrecht, Mary a Mr. Beall, and Rebecca a Mr. Smith.

ADAM LEWIS EICHELBERGER.

Adam Lewis, their oldest brother, was raised like themselves in Frederick County. He was a plain man, but a good husband and father, a loyal citizen, and a practical farmer. He had a pleasant farm just outside of Frederick City, and here he took his wife, Sarah Elizabeth Hahn, of Littlestown, Pa., to live. Their children were, William H., Francis, Marian and Abraham. These, I suppose, are living in parts of Maryland to-day, but I could find no trace of them. Adam, his wife Polly, their son, Adam L., and his wife Sarah, are all sleeping in the Lutheran Church yard at Frederick. This family were all Lutherans so far.

When Lewis took the farm in Adams County, Pa., the church records give this: "Lewis and his wife Elizabeth communed July 24th, 1785." Jacob, Sarah, Michael, George and Hannah, were all baptized there in St. John's Church, Littlestown, Pa. Elizabeth Dotterer communed there first time August 15th, 1798, just after her marriage. John and Elizabeth (Eichelberger yet) communed October 29th, 1787; Martelina in 1796.

GREENBURY EICHELBERGER.

Greenbury, the second son of Adam and Polly, was not as fond of home life and farming as his brother, Adam L., he was more of a disciple of Isaac Walton. He married Mary Elizabeth Barnds in 1836. They had eight children, Elenora Catherine, who married a Mr. Smoot and lives out at Pine Ridge Agency, South Dakota. She has two children. James Weldon, first son of Greenbury, was born in 1838, and enlisted in the Civil War as a private. He was killed in the battle of the Wilderness, in Virginia. Laura Madaline, born in 1841, died when only 22. Daniel Greenbury, born in 1844, is married and living with his wife in Washington, D. C. They have no children. Lewis Cass, third son of Greenbury, died in 1872 at just the age when life looks fairest, 21. Mary Elizabeth and Mary Elenora were twins who died in their childhood. Eliza Barnds Eichelberger, youngest of this family, is living now at Point of Rocks, Maryland. She has never married. The wife of Greenbury having died in 1854, he in 1867 married Mary Elizabeth Knouffe, who survives him with one son, John Franklin Eichelberger, who lives with his mother in Baltimore, and is not yet married.

Henry Martin and Lewis, younger son of Adam, Sr., never married, indeed Henry M. died while but yet a boy, and Lewis lived to be not much more.

LUDWIG AND MICHAEL EICHELBERGER.

Ludwig or Lewis, as we would call him now, but then the real German name was Ludwig, which he was called also to distinguish him from his father, was the third son of Lewis and Elizabeth. He was in the War of 1812; we find his name in the list of Pennsylvania Volunteers for that war, as a private. He was afterwards killed near Gettysburg, Pa., but not during that war. He never married; nor did his next brother, Michael, who was killed in a harvest field near Littlestown, whether by sunstroke or by machinery we cannot say.

JACOB EICHELBERGER.

Jacob, the fifth brother, or Johanne Jacob, as the church record calls him, was born in March, 1786, and about 1814 married Catherine Koontz, a sister to the wife of his brother, Adam. He lived first in Adams County, Pa. His oldest children were Anna Maria, Loudan, Samuel and Catherine. When these were still little folk, Jacob emigrated to North Lima, Ohio. Here Anna Savilla, William Lewis, George Henry. Mary Lovina and Nancy Margaret were born. The family, all dead now except George Henry and Mary Lovina, lived for many years in North Lima, and then moved to DeKalb, Indiana, where he bought a farm and where he and his good wife Catherine, breathed their last.

ANNA MARIA KRONK.

Their oldest daughter, Anna Maria, married Anthony Kronk; they lived first in Ohio, later in Elkhart, Ind., and had a family of ten children. The oldest son, Loudan Kronk, is married and lives in St. Louis, Mich., with his family, while the rest have married and scattered over the Central Western States. It was at the home in Elkhart that the elder Kronks held, not many years ago, their golden wedding, a scene of family rejoicing that none enjoyed more than Mrs. Kronk, but a very short time after she was taken seriously ill, and soon died. Thus joy and sorrow, hand in hand.

LOUDAN EICHELBERGER.

Loudan, the eldest son of Jacob and Catherine, was born in Adams County, Pa., and as a child was taken West with his parents. He grew to manhood on the Ohio farm, married in that State and later moved to Waterloo, Indiana, where he spent the remainder of his days, dying when in his 79th year. Of his family of five daughters and two sons, there are no grandchildren bearing the family name, as his two sons died single; his daughters all have descendants of other names.

SAMUEL EICHELBERGER.

Samuel, second son of Jacob, never married, but lived a plain, uneventful life, and died at the home of his brother, William Lewis, over twenty years ago.

WILLIAM LEWIS EICHELBERGER.

Of this brother who comes next in the line, William Lewis, we have more history. He was a patriotic, public-spirited citizen, and when the Civil War broke out, was among the first to offer his services; he joined a company, but was twice rejected on account of the physical examination finding him unfit for the service. He was a consistent member of the church where he served faithfully until his death in Northwood, Iowa, on Thanksgiving Day, fourteen years ago. When about 25 years old he left Ohio, for Iowa, where he met and married Jane Newton, who bore him seven children, three of whom died while yet babes. His wife died in August, 1887. The surviving children are, Edward F., still single, living in Woodstock, Illinois, where he has a fine position connected with the railroad works there. When President McKinley called for volunteers in 1898, he enlisted in the company formed by his brother, went with them to the State rendezvous at Springfield, but was rejected on physical examination. Like his father, his heart responded to the call of his country.

The daughters of William L. have both married in Iowa. Mary E. married Andrew Walser, and they live on their fine farm near Northwood, where beside the far-famed Iowa corn and other grains they are raising two sturdy Iowa lads and lassies.

Mrs. Walser's sister, Ida May, married James Barker, another Iowain; they also have a farm in that State, where they with their children reside.

CAPT. WILLIAM C. EICHELBERGER.

The youngest son of William Lewis is William Carson, commonly called "Captain." He was born in 1869, lived with his parents until after their death, entered a law office in 1885 where he made a special study of Abstracts, and in a short time began the work of the kind which has since led to his being Director, Manager and Treasurer in the McHenry County Abstract Company, which company he formed, and which has its office in Woodstock, where the Captain lives. He is married to Edith Boutelle, by whom he has three little children, Leslie E., Bessie E. and Glen Bennitt. We have in this history the names of soldiers in every war which America has carried on, but to Captain Carson Eichelberger belongs the distinction of being the only one of the name, of whom we can hear, who served in the late Spanish-American War. He enlisted about ten years ago as a private in the Minnesota National Guard, where he served two years, during which he saw three days of active service in suppressing a riot in the lumber camps in Cloquet. He was Corporal in the Illinois National Guard, November, 1892, was elected Captain of Co. G, Third Infantry, September, 1893, and twice re-elected. Served as Corporal six days active service in Lamont, Illinois, July, 1893, suppressing a riot on the Grand Drainage Canal. Commanded his company during three weeks active service in Chicago during the great Railroad strike of 1894; volunteered with his company for the war with Spain; left Woodstock for Springfield, Ill., in April, and was there mustered into the United States service. This company was known in the United States service as Co. G, Third Illinois Volunteer Infantry. They left Springfield in May, for Chickamauga Park, Georgia, from which place they sailed in July, for Porto Rico, on the Auxiliary Cruiser St. Louis. As the Captain himself tells us: "Our Regiment was honored by Major General John R. Brooke, Commander of the expedition, selecting it as his escort. We first touched at Ponce, where we found General Miles, who had arrived there from Cuba a few days before, and were directed to Arroya, landing there August 2d ; remained on the island two months. But little can be said of our service there, as there was no fighting except that for health, against the tropical fevers, poor food, etc. Personally, I enjoyed excellent health, gaining in flesh nearly every day, but from my company we buried two brave fellows on the island, one died on the way home and was buried at sea, and two more died after reaching home. It was a happy day, October 2d, when we sailed for home on the Roumanian, but none were more eager than I to reach there, having just received news of the birth of a little son, on September 27th. Colonel Fred. Bennitt was our Regimental Commander, hence baby's middle name. We landed in New York, November 9th, and reached home on the 11th. Were given a two months furlough and were mustered out at Woodstock, Illinois, January 14th, 1899. I am still in the Illinois National Guard, where I am now serving as Major." After giving this solely at my request, the Captain says: "This matter is given you in a rambling shape, but I hope you may be able to cull something from it if you still wish." We considered that the whole story as told by the Captain was of sufficient interest to be given entire.

DAUGHTERS OF JACOB EICHELBERGER.

Catherine, second daughter of Jacob and Catherine, married John Heiserman, in Ohio, in 1844, and died in six months time. Ann Savilla married a Mr. Stambaugh ; and Mary Lovina, J. O. McEndafer, and at his death a Mr. Myers. These two sisters have both raised families and lived near each other in Michigan for some time. Mr. Myers died a few years ago. Nancy Margaret married James N. Kennedy, of Indiana, in 1858, and died in 1865—leaving two children surviving her.

Mrs. Lovina Myers and George Henry Eichelberger are the only survivors of this once large family. He, the youngest son, is now living with his youngest child; Harriet, at Pontiac, Illinois. He married in 1860, Lenora L. Lockwood, and had seven children. Three of these died young. Stephen L. married and has one child living in Ottawa, Illinois. Henry married and lives near his father in Pontiac ; has no children. George F. lives on a farm a short distance from Pontiac, single, and Harriet L. is keeping house and living at home. This estimable young lady has a nice position in the Telephone Union Office of her home city. Her father is now 70 years of age, her mother having died while she was but yet a babe.

This closes the line of Jacob and Catherine Koontz Eichelberger—he being next to the youngest son of Lewis, who was the youngest also of his father's sons. Jacob died in Ohio, September 6th, 1855, aged 69 years ; and Catherine, March 19th, 1847, aged 52 years, 2 months and 27 days.

With Jacob we close the history of those sons of Lewis and Elizabeth who married. There was only one more son, George, who died in childhood ; and with the mention of him we complete this line. Of the exact date of the death of Lewis Eichelberger we can only give a surmise, but it is as nearly correct as we could make it. Of his wife Elizabeth, who was a gentle and lovely Christian woman, we have often been told the story of her living to that great age of a century and more. This has been confirmed many times, but without our ever being able to find the exact date of her death.

As shown by the copied records of the church at Ittlingen, Germany, there were many cousins and relatives of our name in that place up to the year 1732. The surmise by my reverend friend, that Johanne George was a first cousin of Philip Frederick is most probably correct, as he was born about the beginning of the eighteenth century ; while the other relative, in what degree a relative we are unable to discover, who came to this country, must have been the son of either a brother or cousin of our ancestor.

The cousin, (as I take him to be,) most likely left Ittlingen before 1720, went to some other town or city, to try that before going so far from home. At any rate, Christopher was not born in Ittlingen, but in Baden ; but as there is no other place traceable for the family birthplace, we have come to the conclusion that his father moved away from there early in 1700. We must give credence to the report so rife among us, that three "brothers," so say some, or "cousins," as others believe them to have been, left the old homeplace at nearly the same time, and finally came, they, or two of them and the descendant of one, to America. We know very little of them, and still less of their descendants. Several times we have come across very interesting people of our name, whom we would have been pleased to claim as of our direct line, but in tracing them back we found them to be descended directly from either Johanne George or Christopher.

Christopher Eichelberger, born in Baden, Germany, March 20th, 1720, came to America when not more than 18 years of age. He settled first near Lancaster, married there and has descendants living in that region now. He then moved to near Shiremans-town, Pa. He belonged to the vestry of the Lutheran Church there, spoken of as "Friedens Kirche," or Salem's church, in 1807. Probably the same church near which he is buried. He and his seem to have fully imbibed the same loyalty toward this country as they bore the beloved Faderland, and which is such a strong family characteristic.

Among the several of his line whom it has been our good fortune to discover, and disappointment to surrender to him, we must mention an interesting veteran, a soldier bearing the name of John Eichelberger, now located at the Soldiers' Home in Los Angeles, California. Thinking him belonging to our immediate connection, we wrote to him, and received in return a reply in interest and information surpassed by none. His account of the adventures encountered by the two different regiments to which he belonged in the Civil War, makes historical reading of the brightest kind. We take this opportunity to thank him for his prompt courtesy and lively interest, and are glad to think that he is a connection, if only a distant one, and are sorry that time and space do not allow of our giving his story in full. He has traveled much, has met many of our name, and has the different lineages pretty correct.

"Johanne George Eichelberger came from Ittlingen," says I. D. Rupp, in his History, "August 28th, 1733, on the Ship Hope, Daniel Reid Master, from London first, then Rotterdam, last from Cowes, with 309 Palatinates." "This settlement of Germans came from Schoria, New York, where they had, some of them, settled in 1710, through the Mohawk Valley, where a number remained, and so down to Lebanon County, Pa." Here it was likely that George was, when Christopher first came over, and was probably the reason of his settling there, or near there. "In 1743, George was a member of the Tulpehooken Church (Reformed and Lutheran combined,) in Lebanon County, Pa. He only remained a member there until 1746." This George is reported to have then removed to the southern part of Virginia or South Carolina. The stories about them differ; but we cling to the opinion that he was the George who settled in the South. Among his descendants we found that well-known Adam Eichelberger, who is called "The King of Orange Growers," and whose children's children live in that part of the country to-day. Also a Rev. John Eichelberger, a minister in the Lutheran church, who preached in South Carolina. He was so beloved, so talented, and had such true Christian grace that his people almost worshiped him, and during his decline, for he died young from that dread foe, consumption, one and all nursed him with tender love and gentleness, and after his death his coffin was carried two miles on the shoulders of his parishioners.

There was also another Captain Adam Eichelberger, who belonged to this branch, noted for personal bravery and strategic leadership in the War of the Revolution. There were many more in this family of whom we have heard, who were men of note in their day and generation.

There was also a George Bastian Eichelberger, who came to Pennsylvania, and has descendants all over our State, of none of whom we know enough to quote their actions, but we feel assured that they must have been good men and true, for we have heard nothing to their discredit.

This name we bear is a plain name, one which has never graced a Gubernatorial chair, nor yet the Presidential, but which has never fallen, either, to any depth of baseness.

ERRATA.

Since the manuscript of this work has been placed in the hands of the printer, we have been informed of some interesting data concerning the Eichelbergers in Ittlingen, early in 1600, and also have received some corrections as to statements made in the History. That data and those corrections we gladly give here :

First, the device on the cover is a fac simile of the seal of the Barony of Gemmingen.

On page 14 of the history you will see that I have given Ittlingen as in the Barony of Benning ; thus it was given to me by the gentleman who translated the Certificate for me. To procure a copy of this seal, I, in March, 1901, wrote to the Burgess of Ittlingen, who kindly sent me several copies and in his letter called the Barony, Gemmingen.—Whether the difference is due to an early error, or whether a change has been made in the ensuing 170 years, I cannot say. But Ittlingen is now evidently situated in the Barony of Gemmingen.

In his reply, written April, 1901, the Burgess says that in the old town records he has found vouchers given to Eichelbergers, early in 1600, for quantities of wood delivered to the town ; making one think that the ancestral home was out upon the wooded mountains, as given in our translation of the name on page 9. The Burgess also says that there are none of our name living at this time in Ittlingen.

Now for errors of which we have lately been informed : On page 40 we have stated that Sarah, daughter of Barnitz, married Abraham Baumgartner, that they had no children, and Mr. Baumgartner soon died. They, however, had two daughters and one son, and Mr. Baumgartner lived many years after their marriage. After his death, his wife did finally make her home with her own family.

In the Colonial history of John, son of John Frederick, as given on page 57, we were told of well-authenticated reports, among his descendants, that he fought in the battles of Bunker Hill and of Lexington ; but we could find no record of it and we have tried to be historically correct in all of our military statements : so fearing we might be questioned if we gave the story as fact of a Marylander participating in battles which history says were fought by New England farmers alone, on the Colonial side, we determined to only mention the report here. John was a member of two Pennsylvania companies, the first a body of riflemen under Captain Michael Doudel, and later of Col. Samuel Miles' Rifle Regiment of Pennsylvania Volunteers, not Niles, of Maryland, as stated on page 57. Most likely John was visiting, or learning a trade among his numerous cousins in York, when the Revolutionary ardor reached its height, and thus joined a Pennsylvania Regiment.

On page 64, the word "Urbaba" as the home of Joseph, is a typographical error; it should be Urbana.

On page 100 we have given the only daughter of Andrew and Isabella as a widow; her husband, the Rev. A. M. Buchanan, is living and doing good work in the Christian ministry. We have also spoken of the two sons of Andrew as dying young; the eldest, Jonathan Newton, lived to be twenty-one, dying in California.

On page 142, giving the family of Maria, daughter of Jacob, of the line of Leonard, we made several mistakes: Mrs. Maria McCosh and her husband both died within the last ten years and their only daughter, Mrs. Arthur Clark, is now a widow, with two children.

We fear there are many other errors, but the statements were printed as given to us.

I would like to state that I have the inventory of the estate of Captain Caspar Reinacker, taken after his decease, and judging from the great number of items, which embrace houses, lands, slaves, &c., down to the smallest article of domestic industry, we would suppose him to have been a man of affairs.

GENEALOGICAL RECORD

OF

PHILIP FRED'K EICHELBERGER

AND

Anna Barbara Dorners, First Wife, and Mary Magdalene, Second Wife.

Genealogical Record

OF

Philip Frederick Eichelberger and His First Wife, Anna Barbara Dorners, and Mary Magdalene ———, His Second Wife.

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
Nov. 11, 1714.	I	Philip Fred'k Eichelberger, }	Germany and Pa.	Apr. 17, 1693
	II	Anna Barbara Dorners }	"	Nov 16 1716
		John Martin,	"	Mar. 2, 1720
		Anna Margretta,	"	Feb. 18, 1722
		John Frederick,	"	Sept. 9, 1724
		Margretta Barbara,	"	Feb. 7, 1727
		Anna Barbara or Elizabeth,
March, 1736.	I	Philip Fred'k Eichelberger, }	York Co., and Hanover, Pa.	Apr. 17, 1693	Sept. 19, 1776
	II	Mary Magdalene — }			1809
		Adam,		May 9, 1738
		Jacob,		Sept. 26, 1746
		Leonard,		Aug 12, 1750
		Lewis,		1752
DAUGHTERS OF
Philip Frederick Eichelberger and Anna Barbara Dorners.
July, 1738	II	Anna Margretta, }	Germany and York Co., Pa.	Mar. 2, 1720	1770
		Vincent Keefer, }
	III	Barbara,		1739
		Catherine,		1742
		Sabina,		1744
		Valentine,		Feb. 22, 1749
March, 1743.	II	Margretta Barbara, }	Ger. and York Co. Pa.	Sept. 9, 1724	Unknown.
		Andrew Hoke, }	York Co, Pa., and
	III	Michael and others,	South Carolina.
	II	Anna Barbara or Elizabeth,	Germany and Pa.	Feb. 7, 1727	"
		Jacob Smyser,
		Issue unknown.

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
DESCENDANTS OF
1738.	II	Martin Eichelberger, }	Germany and York, Pa.	Nov. 16, 1716	1781
		Anna Maria, }			1790
Single	III	George, Frederick Christian, Jacob,		June 23, 1739 Nov. 17, 1744 Mar. 12, 1743	About 1780
		Bernard or Barnet, Martin, Jr., Susannah, Marv, Lydia,		1746 Jan. 7, 1759 Feb. 6, 1756 1749 1754
"					Died young
Mar. 24, 1761.	III	George Eichelberger }	York, Pa.	June 23, 1739	Aug. 30, 1780
		Lydia Worley, }	"
	IV	Jacob, John, Martin, George, James, Mary, Lydia S.	York, Pa.	1762 1764 1766 1768 1770 1772 1774	Died young
1785.	IV	Jacob Eichelberger, }	York, Pa., and Balti- more, Md.	1762	1833
		Elizabeth Burnetson, }
Single.	V	Charles, George Steyer, William, Samuel, Nelson, Baker,	Baltimore.	1786 May 27, 1788 June 30, 1791 Aug. 30, 1795 1797 May 13, 1799	Died in inf'y
"			Baltimore.		"
			"
1809.	V	George S Eichelberger, }	Baltimore.	May 27, 1788
Single		Mary Rutter, }
"	VI	William George, Lawrence, Jonathan, Elizabeth M., Frances Harriet, Mary Ann, Hester Dysart, Isaac Burnetson, Nelson Read,	" " " " " " " " "	1810 1812 1815 1817 1819 1822 1824 1825 1827	Dead. " " " " " " " "
1831.	V	George S Eichelberger, }	Baltimore.		1860
2d Wife.		Eliza Ann Boyle, }
Single.	VI	James, Emma Lawrence, Thomas Speer,	" " "		Died young
"
	VI	Elizabeth M. Eichel- berger, }	Baltimore.	1817
		John Curlett, }	"
	VII	Mary Eugenia, (Mr. Martine) Ida, (G. B. Kent) Thomas S.	" " "

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
Single. Single.	VI	Mary Ann Eichelberg- er, Thomas Speer, Jr., No issue.	Baltimore, Md , "		Deceased
	VI	Thomas S. Eichelberg- er, Mary Lee,	Baltimore, Md.
	VII	Nelson, Bessie, Mary,	" "
	VII	Nelson Eichelberger, } Josephine Hoffacker, }	Baltimore, Md. "
Single. Single. Single.	VIII	Helen, Thomas, Mary,	" " "
1827	V	William Eichelberger, } Mrs. Henrietta Luke— nee Brown, }	Baltimore, Md. "	June 30, 1791	1860
	VI	Maria Louise, Nannie Read, William, Helen Ward, William, Henrietta, Alice, Henrietta, Samuel Eccleston, Laura S., John Carroll, Frank T., Lewis,	" " " " " " " " " " " " "	Jan. 20, 1828 1830 1831 1827 1829 1832 1834 1835 Nov. 29, 1836 1840 1838 1842 1844	Died in inf'y " " "
Single.					Deceased
Jan. 29, 1844.	VI	Maria Louisa, daughter of William,	Baltimore, Md.	Jan. 20, 1828
Married. Single.	VII	Oliver B. Wight, Henrietta Maria, William S, Oliver J., (Ella J. Ray.) Chas. Bernard, (Lizzie Spencer.) Nannie, (James Bucks, M. D.) Maria Louisa, (J. F Ringnold.) Laura Helen, John A ,	" " " " " " " " "	Oct. 25, 1845 Jan. 20, 1847 June 2, 1848 1852 1854 1856 1859 1861	June 16, 1889 June 30, 1889 Dec. 11, 1887
Single. Single.	VI	Nannie Read, daughter of William, — Keenan, M. D., No issue.	Baltimore, Md.	1830
	VI	Helen W., daughter of William, Wm Burt, M. D.	South Carolina	1827
	VII	Dola,	"

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
	VI	William Eichelberger, {	Baltimore, Md.		Aug.30, 1879
	VII	Harry L., _____ _____ _____
1864. 1st wife.	VI	Samuel E. Eichelberger, {	Baltimore, Md.	Nov.27, 1836	Nov.10, 1900 1880
	VII	Sophia B. Andrews, {
		Charles A.,		1865
		Henrietta M.,		1867
Single.		Caroline A.,	Baltimore, Md.	1868
Single.		Nannie R.,
		Sophia B.,
Single.		Samuel Eccleston, Jr.	Baltimore, Md.	1878
		Dwight E.,	"	1879
Single.		Maria,	"
Single.		Joseph L	"
Single.		Maedlene,	"
1881 2d wife	VI	Samuel E Eichelberger, {	Baltimore, Md.	Nov.27, 1836	Nov.10, 1900
		Louise E. Turner, {
Single	VII	Eugene T.,		1862	1892
Single.		Bernard T.,		1884	1894
Single.		William E.,		1886
Single.		George,		1889
Single.		Marion,		1892
	VII	Chas. A, son of Sam'l {	State of Washing- ton.
	VIII	_____
	VII	Henrietta M, daughter {	Baltimore, Md. of Samuel,
	VIII	Sidney Haywood, {

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
	VII	Sophia B., daughter of { Samuel, Thomas Howard	Baltimore, Md.
	VIII	_____
Apr. 1900	VII	Dwight E. Eichelberger } _____	Baltimore, Md.	1878
	VIII	_____
	VI	Nannie R. Eichelberger } Thomas Keenan, M. D. } No issue.	Baltimore, Md.	1830
	VI	Laura G., daughter of { William, William Adi,	Harford Co., Md.
	VII	_____

	VI	John Carroll, son of { William,	Harford Co., Md.
	VII	_____
	VI	Frank T., son of Wm. } _____	Washington, D C.
	VII	_____
1790	IV	John Eichelberger, { Sarah Dinkle,	York, Pa.	1762
	V	Eliza, Maria; Daniel, Henrietta, Mary, George, William,		1792 1795 May 26, 1798 1800 1806 Nov. 7, 1810 1812
Single.	V	Eliza Eichelberger, } Jacob Lingenfelter, }	Texas. York, Pa. Baltimore, Md.
	VI	Issue unknown.		1792

Deceased.
Deceased.
Deceased.
Deceased.
Deceased.

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
	V	Maria Eichelberger, } —— McCardell, } If issue, unknown.	York, Pa.	1795	Unknown.
1820.	V	Daniel Eichelberger, } Rebecca Smyser, }	York, Pa.	May 26, 1798	June 20, 1852
		John, Mary Jane, (Ed Epley)	York, Pa.	Jan. 29, 1821 1828
		Elizabeth, (L. Rosen- miller)	"	1832
		Georgiana, (J. A. Weis- er.)	"	1834
Single.		Martin S.,	"	Jan. 27, 1836	July 12, 1892
1852.	VI	John Eichelberger, }	York, Pa., Ohio and	Jan. 29, 1821	Feb. 16, 1896
		Amanda McIntyre, }	Richland Center,	June 1, 1829	Oct., 1892.
	VII	Norman M., Catherine Rebecca, John Ferguson,	Wisconsin.	Sept., 1853 Nov. 4, 1855
Single.		Henry Martin,	Los Angeles, Cal.	Sept. 1, 1869
June 9, 1881	VII	Norman M. Eichelberg- } er, Cora Bartlett, }	Mansfield, Ohio.	Sept., 1853
		No issue	Towanda, Pa.
June 9, 1880.	VII	Catherine R Eichel- } berger, }	Mansfield, Ohio.	Nov. 4, 1855
		H B Dirlam, }	"
	VIII	Howard Kenneth, Jay Neil, Catherine, Robert York,	" " " "	1881 1883 1885 1889
1892.	VII	John F. Eichelberger, }	Mansfield, Ohio.	May 2, 1863
		Elizabeth Lawlor, }	"
	VIII	Helen, Margaretta,	" "
	VI	Mary Jane Eichelberger } Edward Epley, }	York, Pa.	1828	Unknown.
	VII	Jabez, Edward D., Francis M.	" " New York City.		" "
Single.	VI	Elizabeth Eichelberger } Leon Rosenmiller, }	York, Pa.		Unknown.
Single.	VII	Juliana Annie,	"		"
Single.		Edwin William,	"		"
Single.		Joseph Elias,	"		"
Single.		Josiah Frederick,	"		"

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
	VI	Georgiana Eichelberger } John A. Weiser, }	York, Pa.	1834
	VII	Henry Weiser,	"	Mar. 10, 1852
	V	Henrietta Eichelberger } — Myers, }	York, Pa.	1798
	VI	Issue unknown.
	V	Mary Eichelberger, } John Eichelberger, }	near Baltimore, Md	1806
		Issue given elsewhere.	"
	V	George Eichelberger,) M D.)	York, Pa. and St	Nov. 15, 1810	Dec. 4, 1851
		Maria G Spangler,)	Louis, Mo.	Oct. 13, 1813	June 3, 1890
Single	VI	Adolphus Spangler,) Albert Peter,)		Mar. 12, 1833	Nov. 2, 1891
Single.		George Gardner,	East St. Louis, Mo.	Mar. 31, 1834	Drowned in Single.		Jessie Amanda,	"	Feb. 28, 1836	the Mississip
		Sallie Dinkle,		Nov. 10, 1837	pi, May, 1844
		John,		Apr. 13, 1839
		Maria Gordon,		Oct. 2, 1840	Aug., 1841
		Ophelia,		June 4, 1843
		Kate,		Nov. 17, 1844	Oct. 1, 1891
		Gardner Spangler,		June 9, 1846
		Mattie,		Aug. 18, 1848
				Dec. 18, 1850
Feb. 7, 1855.	VI	Adolphus S. Eichel- } berger, }	East St. Louis, Mo.	Mar. 12, 1833
	VII	Josephine Givin, }
		Alice,	"	Aug 7, 1857
		George M.,	"	Oct 25, 1859	Dec. 19, 1898
		Harry,	"	Dec 17, 1864
		Belle,	"	Feb 10, 1868
		Robert,	"	June 25, 1871	Oct. 17, 1888
		Willie,	"	Mar. 1, 1874
Oct. 1, 1880.	VII	Alice Eichelberger,)	St. Paul, Minn.
	VIII	Lewis B. Givin, }	"
		Harry,	"
		Andrean,	"
		Alice,	"

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth	Death.
Jan. 12, 1892.	VII VIII	Belle Eichelberger, } Moses Goyetta, } Belle, Blanche,	St. Paul, Minn. " "	Nov 2, 1892 Jan. 20, 1898
April 15, 1896.	VII VIII	Harry Eichelberger, } Annie Hagerman, } Edwin P.	East St. Louis, Mo.	Jan 19, 1898
April 10, 1896.	VII VIII	Willie Eichelberger, } Lillie Vogel, } Freddie, Clara,	Taylorville, Ill. " "	June 6, 1897 May 11, 1899
Oct. 15, 1863. Married.	VI VII	Albert P. Eichelberger, } Mary Barada, } Albert, Fannie, Helen, Edward, Isabel, Elizabeth, Lewis, William, Raymond, Maud,	S. St. Louis, Mo. De Soto, Mo.	Mar. 31, 1834 May 6, 1844 Sept. 25, 1864 June 28, '866 Sept. 5, 1869 Nov. 19, 1867 Mar. 6, 1872 Aug. 5, 1874 June 16, 1879 Nov. 1, 1881 July 5, 1884 Sept. 27, 1876	Nov. 2, 1891 June 13, 1887 Aug. 26, 1879 Dec. 3, 1889 Jan. 20, 1894

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
1873. 1st wife.	VI VII	Gardner S Eichelberg- er, Mary F. Hickey, John, William,	S. St. Louis, Mo.	Aug. 17, 1849 May 10, 1854 June 9, 1880 May 6, 1883	June 5, 1883
June 8, 1886. 2d wife.	VI VII	Gardner S. Eichelberg- er, Jennie Marshall, Walter, Ophelia, Harvey, Sylvester, Bertha,	St. Louis. " " " Memphis. St. Louis.	Sep. 10, 1858 Mar. 31, 1884 Nov 5, 1890 Sep. 17, 1892 May 30, 1895 Jan. 23, 1899
Dec. 7, 1887.	VII VIII	Fannie Eichelberger, } Baker Evans, Howard A., Paulena, Lottie J., Maud E.	S. St. Louis, Mo. De Soto, Mo. " " " "	Jan 22, 1857 Dec 15, 1888 Apr. 3, 1891 Aug 2, 1893 June 6, 1896
April 28, 1899.	VII VIII	Ed. Eichelberger, } Rose Campbell, } Blanche,	S. St. Louis, Mo. Williamsville, Mo. De Soto, Mo.	July 2, 1900
Feb. 22, 1891.	VII VIII	Albert Eichelberger, } Jr. Fannie Jackson, Edward, Bessie, Raymond, Dewey,	Louisville, Ky. Evansville, Ind. De Soto, Mo. " "	Oct. 22, 1872 Mar 14, 1892 Nov. 21, 1893 Apr 28, 1896 Dec 21, 1898

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth	Death.
Sept. 22, 1898.	VII	Isabel Eichelberger, } Samuel Menefee, }	Pilot Grove, Mo.
Feb. 28, 1900	VII	Maud Eichelberger, } Martin McDermott, }	Piedmont, W. Va.
unknown	IV	Martin Eichelberger, }	Baltimore, Md., and York Co., Pa.	1766	Unknown.
	V	Mary Welsh, }			"
		Catherine,		1787	"
		Lydia,			"
		John,		1791	"
		William,			1815
		George,		1789	Unknown.
		Samuel,			"
		Mary,			"
		Ellen,			"
		Charles,			"
		Jacob,			"
	V	John Eichelberger, }	Anne Arundel Co. Md.	1791	1824
		Mary ———, }
	VI	Frederick William,		Unknown.	Unknown.
		James Francis,		"
		Eliza,		"
		John Myers,		"
1811		Emmanuel W.,	Lancaster, Pa.	"
		Charles Wesley,		"
	V	George Eichelberger, }		1789	1825
		Elizabeth Schriener, }
	VI	Martin,		Feb. 1, 1813
		Elizabeth,		1814
		George,		1816

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
Oct. 28, 1840. Single	VI	Martin Eichelberger, }		Feb. 1, 1813	Sept. 20, 1885
	VII	Isabella G. Johnson, }		Mar. 23, 1822	Deceased
		Elizabeth,			"
Single.		Ellen,	near Lewistown.	July 28, 1845
		Irene,		May 10, 1848
Single.		Julia,	Sioux City, Iowa.	June 10, 1851
		Edwin,		May 30, 1864
		Agnes, M. D.,
Oct. 18, 1865	VII	Irene Eichelberger, }	Peoria, Ill.	July 28, 1845
	VIII	Alvah L. Howes, }	Sioux City, Iowa.	Jan. 26, 1872
Single.		Isabella Forbes, (Geo. A. Frey.)		Dec. 13, 1873
		Louis Alvah,
Dec. 14, 1872.	VII	Edwin Eichelberger, }	Lewistown, Ill.	June 10, 1857
	VIII	Ida C. Elliott, }		1875
		Winogene,		1879
		Edith,		1881
		Frank,		1888
		Helen,
	VIII	Winogene Eichelberger }	Sioux City, Iowa.	1875
		Will Palmer,
	VIII	Edith Eichelberger, }	Havana, Ill.	1879
		Charles Tacey,

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death
1832.	VI	Elizabeth Eichelberger, }	Lancaster, Pa.	1814	1886
	VII	Adam F. Hambright, }
		Charles R.,	Omaha, Neb.
		Mary, (Dr. Fahnestock)	Walhalla, S. C.
		George M. P. H. D.	Chicago, Ill.
		Emma A., (Rev. Wil-	Manchester, Md.
		liam Roop.)
		Matilda A.,	Council Bluffs, Iowa.
		John J.,	Oakland, Cal.
		William F.,	Lancaster, Pa.
		Alice, (Jerome Vonder-	"
		smith)
		Sallie, (Henry Hoff-	" man.)
		Harry A.	New York City.
	VI	George Eichelberger, }		1816	1875
	VII	(Unknown,) }			Deceased.
Single.		Marcus,			"
Single.		Mary,			"
		Margaret,
		End of line of Martin, son of George and
		Lydia.
	IV	Geo. Eichelberger, 4th }		1768 son of Geo. and Lydia }
unknown	V	Eleanor H. Uling,
"		John,
		William,
	IV	Marv Eichelberger, dau. } of George and Lydia, }
	V	Adam Welsh,
		Jacob,
		Lydia,
		Thomas,
		Eliza,
		William,
		Washington,
		John Wesley.
	IV	Lydia S. Eichelberger, }	York, Pa.
		2d dau. Geo. and Lydia }	"
	V	William Dull,	"
		Henry,	"
		George,	"
		Lydia, (Thos. Bethgal.)	"

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
1767.	III	Frederick C. Eichelberg } er, 2d son, Martin, Sr. }	Near York, Pa.	Nov. 16, 1744	Oct. 18, 1824
	IV	Eva Myers, } John, } Thomas, } Daniel, } George, } Bernard, } William, } Charles, } Sarah, }	"	1767 1770 1768 1800 Apr. 20, 1779 1798
	IV	John Eichelberger, }	Baltimore, Md.,	1767
	V	Mary Eichelberger }	"
Single.		Harriet, (Mr. Musser.)	"
Single.		Catherine,	"
		Mary,	"
	IV	Thomas Eichelberger, }	Near York, Pa.	1770
		Elizabeth Welsh, }	"	Jan. 13, 1779	June 21, 1819
	V	Samuel,	"	July 21, 1799
1797	IV	Daniel Eichelberger, }	York, Pa.	1775	Aug. 15, 1811
		Susannah Barnitz, }	"	Nov. 17, 1775	Jan. 29, 1850
	V	Eve Catherine,	"	Jan. 17, 1798
		Juliana,	"	Nov. 17, 1799
Single.		Henrietta,	"	Feb. 13, 1802	Mar. 7, 1885
		Barnitz,	"	Jan. 20, 1804
	V	Eve Catherine Eichel- }	York, Pa.
		berger, }	"
Single.	VI	William Nes,
		William Frederick,
		Jefferson,
		Alexander Hamilton,
	VI	Alex. Hamilton Nes, }	York, Pa.
		Eliza Brillinger, }
	VII	William Jefferson,
		Leah Kate,
	VII	William Jefferson Nes, }	York, Pa.
		Julietta Sullivan, }
	VIII	William Hamilton,

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
	VII VIII	Leah K. Nes,) Wm. C. Warner,) Mary Cadwallader, Alexander Nes, William, Frederick, Edith,	Titusville, Pa.
1821.	V	Juliana Eichelberger,) Charles Kurtz,)	York, Pa.	Nov. 7. 1799 Aug. 30, 1791	1928
1851.	VI	William H., Katherine S., (Henry G. Sidle,)	Minneapolis, Minn.	Mar. 8, 1825
Sept. 22, 1833 Single.	V VI	Juliana Eichelberger,) Jacob Emmit,) Jacob, Jr., Sophia, Henrietta,	Baltimore, Md. York, Pa., and Min- neapolis, Minn.	1787 Aug 20, 1834 Apr. 15, 1841 Dec 2, 1838	1865 Mar. 1, 1831 Nov., 1849
	VI VII	William H. Kurtz,) Mary Baugher,) Charles F., (1st wife, _____, 2d wife, Deliah Gemmill.) Julia B., (King Got walt,)
Aug. 27, 1868.	VI VII	Sophia Emmit,) H. W. Wagner,) Has issue.	Minneapolis, Minn.
	V VI	Barnitz Eichelberger,) Henrietta Danner,) Edward Charles, Frederick Augustus, Martin D.	York, Pa. " " "	Jan. 20, 1804 Apr 16, 1813 July 9, 1832 Jan. 22, 1834 Mar 23, 1836	Mar 18, 1848 Apr. 16, 1838 Nov. 10, 1866
Mar. 10, 1864.	VI	Edw. C. Eichelberger,) Georgiana Rebecca) Earle Codwise,)	York, Pa. Norfolk, Va.	July 9, 1832	Nov. 13 1873
Single. Sept. 1899	VII	George Barnitz, Henrietta Virginia, (S. H. Daly.)	York, Pa. "	Dec. 23, 1864 Mar. 26, 1865
Single.		Edward Codwise,	"	Jan. 23, 1867
Single.		Charles Martin,	"	June 10, 1870
Single.		Susan Earle,	"	Aug. 3, 1872

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
Apr. 26, 1893.	VII VIII	Chas M. Eichelberger, } Maria Elizabeth Witmer, } Maria Earle, Charles Witmer,	York, Pa. Niagara Falls, N. Y. York, Pa.	June 10, 1870 June 14, 1894 Mar. 15, 1898
June 10, 1862.	VI	Fred. Augustus Eichel- } berger, } Cath. Victoria Upp, }	York, Pa. "	Jan. 22, 1834	Oct. 24, 1881
Single.	VII	Katie, Eliza Ann, Henry Martin,		May 22, 1863 May 22, 1869 July 5, 1867	July 14, 1871
Nov. 21, 1895.	VII VIII	Henry M. Eichelberger } Laura Wolf, } George Wolf, Catherine Upp,	Mount Wolf, York Co., Pa.	Mar. 3, 1897 May 29, 1899
1820.	V VI	George Eichelberger, } Swope, } Abraham,	York, Pa., and Balti more, Md. "	1800	1823
Single.	IV V	Barnet or Barnitz } Eichelberger, } Elizabeth Ebert, } Philip, Sarah, (Abr'm Baum- gardner.)		Apr. 20, 1779 Sept. 23, 1786 June 4, 1806 May 13, 1809	Oct. 23, 1814 Mar. 12, 1858 Dec. 4, 1877 July 30, 1895
Single.		Henry, Daniel, Frederick, Susanna,	York, Pa. Ottawa, Ill. York, Pa. Ottawa, Ill. York, Pa.	Mar. 8, 1808 Aug 14, 1811 Feb. 22, 1813 July 25, 1815	Feb. 8, 1896 Mar. 16, 1891 Apr. 16, 1879 Jan. 22, 1888

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
	V	Henry Eichelberger, }		Mar. 8, 1808	Feb. 8, 1896
	VI	Harriet Lowe, }	Baltimore, Md	July 18, 1820	Oct. 9, 1875
		Emily A., (1st, Wash- ington Lloyd; 2d William Presbry.)	Winchester, Ohio.	Feb. 26, 1841	Jan. 15, 1896
		Harriet Elizabeth, (Jno. Gilman.)	"	Sep. 20, 1842
		Daniel F.,	Ottawa, Ill.
		Mary J., (Albert Honey)	Ravenswood, Ill.	Nov. 5, 1844
		Henrietta (Frank Hack- ney.)	Tacoma, Wash.	Dec. 20, 1846
		George, twin of Hen- rietta.	Chicago, Ill.	July 19, 1850
		Rosanna, (Amon Love joy.)	"		July 7, 1889
			Puyallup, Wash.
	V	Daniel Eichelberger, }		Aug. 15, 1811	Mar. 16, 1891
	VI	Mary H. Hosford, }	Thetford, Vt	Feb. 18, 1824
		Mary Elizabeth,	Ottawa, Ill.	Aug. 17, 1846
		Sarah A.,	"	Aug. 24, 1851
		Fannie M.,	"	Nov. 4, 1858
		Georgiana May,	"	Mar. 7, 1861
	V	Frederick Eichelberger }	Ottawa, Ill.	Feb. 22, 1813	Apr. 16, 1879
	VI	Eliza Rumble, }		Dec. 4, 1821
		Ellen A., (Wm. Lewis)	Grand Rapids Twp. Ill.	July 8, 1846
		John H.,	Harvey, Ill.	Jan. 18, 1848
		Susan E. (Wm. Trumbo)	Marseilles, Ill.	June 27, 1849
		Frances I., (Charles Poundstone.)	St. Louis, Mo.	July 19, 1851
		William Bernard,	Ottawa, Ill.	July 21, 1856
		Louisa M., (William Milligan.)	"	Apr. 20, 1858
		Frederick M.	Grand Ridge, Ill.	May 4, 1860
Single.		Charles Philip,		May 23, 1862	Jan. 20, 1886
	VI	Daniel F. Eichelberger, }		Nov. 5, 1844
	VII	Mary Smith, }	Ravenswood, Ill.	Dec. 25, 1886	Jan. 14, 1887
		Roy Sydney,	"	Apr. 8, 1878
		Henry,		Aug. 1, 1879	Aug. 1, 1879
		Evelyn,
	VI	George Eichelberger, }	Tacoma, Wash.	July 19, 1850	July 7, 1889
		(I) Emma McPherson, }
		(II) Mrs. A. Roberts. }
	VII	Ralph, (son 1st wife)	"	Jan. 24, 1877
		Edna, (dau 1st wife.)		June 12, 1879
Jan. 25, 1875.	VI	John H. Eichelberger, }	Harvey, Ill.	Jan. 18, 1848
	VII	Mary Miller, }		June 15, 1856
		Fred Miller,		Dec. 18, 1875
		Pearl R.,		Sept. 5, 1878

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
Sept. 5, 1881.	VI VII	Wm B. Eichelberger, } Ella Sessler, } Susie Ethelyne, Charles Clifford,	Ottawa, Ill. " "	July 21, 1856 Jan. 23, 1858 Nov. 21, 1882 Oct. 29, 1891
	VI VII	Fred'k M Eichelberger } Alice Butterfield, } Leola E, M Marie,	Grand Ridge, Ill.	May 4, 1860 Oct 29, 1867 Sept. 5, 1890 Jan. 8, 1898	Jan. 31, 1898
	IV V	William Eichelberger, } Margaret A Gustweed, } Frederick Augustus, George, Maria, Elenora,	near York, Pa. "	Feb. 18, 1810 1812 1815 1820	182- Died young.
Nov. 5, 1837	V VI	Fred'k A. Eichelberger } Caroline Day, } Jane Elizabeth, Maria Elenora, Catherine Amanda, Charles Augustus, Emma Margaret, Alice Irene, William Kurtz,	York, Pa. " " " " " "	Feb. 18, 1810 Mar. 3, 1821 Mar. 6, 1839 Sept. 7, 1841 Mar. 16, 1843 Mar 16, 1845 Sept 23, 1848 Nov. 5, 1850 Mar. 2, 1852	July 15, 1867 Unknown. May 19, 1900 May 17, 1847 Sept 23, 1867
Single.
Single
Sept. 23, 1860.	VI VII	Jane E Eichelberger, } Daniel Smyser, } William, Luther, Herbert, Harry, Edward, Jennie,	York Co , Pa.	Mar. 6, 1839	Dec. 4, 1872
Apr. 10, 1864.	VI VII	Maria E Eichelberger, } George P. Spangler, } Emma, Clayton, Elenora,
Jan. 25, 1875.	VI V	Alice I. Eichelberger, } Edward F. Wiest, } George Eichelberger, } No issue

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
	V	Maria Eichelberger, }	York, Pa.
	VI	Peter Loucks, }	"
		Caspar,	"		Apr., 1900
		Franklin,	"		1880
		Peter,	"		1877
		Mary M.	"
		Augustus,	"
1819.	IV	Charles Eichelberger, }	York Pa.—Ohio.	1788	1847
		Elizabeth Nace, }		1801	1868
	V	Mary Elizabeth,		1820
		Sarah Jane,	York, Pa., Ohio and	Mar. 23, 1822
		Amelia C.,	Maryland.	1825
Single		Elizabeth M.,	Edgerton, Ohio.	1827
		Ohio George Walter,		1829
	V	Mary E. Eichelberger, }	Milford, now Hicks-	1820
		Jackson Hootman, }	ville, Ohio.	1819	1897
	VI	Benton, (Jeanette Bar-	Milford, Ohio.
		ney; has issue.)	"
		George, (Miss Bier-	"
Single.		bower; no issue.)	"
		Mary,	"
Sept. 2,	V	Sarah J. Eichelberger, }	Hector, Ind.	Mar. 23, 1822	Mar. 19, 1898
1842.		Joseph H. Coder, }	"	Oct. 9, 1813	Nov. 2, 1897
	VI	Cornelius E., (Kather-	"	June 14, 1843
		ine Wisel; no issue.)
		Elizabeth A., (Emanuel	Portland, Ind.	1845
		Hartzel; has issue.)
		Lewis C., (Mary	Hector, Ind.	Feb. 10, 1848
		Schneider; four sons)
Single.		Sarah Jane,	"	Feb. 24, 1856	Mar. 28, 1856
"		Adeline,	"	Apr. 5, 1857	Mar. 25, 1862
"		Ohio G. W.,	"	Jan. 20, 1861	May 24, 1861
"		Laura A.,	"	Mar. 10, 1862	Jan. 21, 1873
"		Ira J.,	"	Jan. 25, 1851	Nov. 24, 1876
"		Mary T.,	"	Aug. 30, 1853
1844	V	Amelia C. Eichelberger }	New Pittsburg, Ohio	1825
		Daniel Beckley, }			1852
	VI	Alice,
	VI	Alice Beckley, }	Brecksville, Ohio.
		Rev. J. Zook, }	Madisonburg, Ohio.
Single.	VII	Kathryne,		1889
	V	Ohio G. W. Eichelberger }	Wooster, O.—Idaho.	1829
		Kate Miller, }
		No issue.

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
Single. unknown	V	Ohio G. W. Eichelberger } Arneal Spangler, } No issue.	Ohio; Pocatello, Idaho, Edgerton, O.		Oct. 29, 1899
	IV	Sarah Eichelberger, }	York, Pa.
	V	Jacob Lutman, }
		Levi, Charlotte, (Thos. Jami- son.) Aaron, Jane, (Geo. Carmen.)
1764.	III	Jacob Eichelberger, }	Baltimore and Reisterstown, Md.	Oct., 1743	Oct., 1832
	IV	Susan Beard, }			Died in infancy
Single.	III	Bernard Eichelberger,	York, Pa. and Baltimore, Md.	1746	1781
May 10, 1781. Single.	III	Martin Eichelberger, Jr } Elizabeth Welsh, }	York, Pa. and Baltimore, Md.	Jan. 7, 1759 1762	Oct. 9, 1841 Feb. 7, 1855
"		Jesse,	"	Oct. 10, 1782
"		Eliza,	"	Dec. 6, 1783
"		Maria,	"	Nov. 6, 1785
"		Juliana,	"	1787	Feb. 28, 1853
"		Otho Martin,	"	Apr. 8, 1789	Sept. 20, 1793
"		Louis,	"	Oct. 9, 1791	Nov., 1836
"		William Otterbein,	"	May 11, 1793	Dec. 30, 1860
"		Elenora Sophia,	"	Apr. 22, 1785	Dec. 28, 1880
"		Emelia Augusta,	"	Aug. 10, 1797	1813
"		Otho Welsh,	"	Oct. 17, 1799	Jan. 30, 1879
"		Henrietta Matilda,	"	Sept. 12, 1801	June 27, 1876
July 30, 1801.	IV	Eliza Eichelberger,) Nicholas Greenbury) Ridgely.	Baltimore, Md.	Dec. 6, 1783	Feb. 10, 1803
	V	Eliza Eichelberger,		Feb. 10, 1803
Jan. 8, 1828.	V	Eliza E. Ridgely, }	Hampton, Md.	Feb. 10, 1803	Dec. 20, 1867
	VI	John Ridgely, }	"	Jan. 7, 1790	July 16, 1867
		Eliza,	"	Oct. 28, 1828
		Charles,	"	Mar. 22, 1830
		Pruecilla,	"	Dec. 21, 1831	Jan. 19, 1833
		Nicholas Greenbury,	"	June 17, 1834	Mar. 12, 1835
		Julia Maria,	"	Mar. 16, 1841	Aug. 4, 1844
June 5, 1849.	VI	Eliza Ridgely, }	Baltimore, Md.	Oct. 28, 1828	Mar. 13, 1894
	VII	John Campbell White, }	"		Feb. 6, 1853
		Henry,	"	Mar. 29, 1850
		John Ridgely,	"	Mar. 16, 1852	May 7, 1852
		Julian LeRoy,	"	Mar. 26, 1853

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
Nov. 21, 1865	VI	Mrs. Eliza Ridgely White, }	Baltimore, Md.
	VII	Thos. H. Buckler, M D. } William Hepburn,	"	Feb. 1, 1867
Dec 3, 1879.	VII	Henry White, }	London, England.	Mar. 29, 1850
	VIII	Margaret Stuyvesant } Rutherford, Margaret Muriel, } John Campbell,	"	Oct 12, 1880 Mar. 7, 1884
March 29, 1894.	VII	Julian LeRoy White, } Sophia Elizabeth Bey- } lard, No issue.	Baltimore, Md. Normandy, France	Mar. 26, 1853
	VII	William H. Buckler, }	Baltimore, Md.
	VIII	Georgiana G. Waldron, } Lucy Ridgely, } Victor Ridgely,	"		Deceased.
		Close of Eliza Ridgely's line.
Feb 27, 1851.	VI	Charles Ridgely, }	Baltimore, Md.
	VII	Margaret Sophia How- } ard, John,		Dec. 22, 1851
Single.		Charles,		July 19, 1853	May 10, 1873
		Howard,		Jan. 7, 1855
		Otho Eichelberger,		Jan. 30, 1856
"		Eliza,		May 29, 1858
"		Juliana E. H.,	Baltimore, Md ,	May 30, 1862
"		Edgar,	"	Oct. 11, 1860	Aug. 13, 1864
"		Margretta Sophia,	"	May 2, 1869
Sept. 11, 1873.	VII	John Ridgely, }	Baltimore, Md.	Dec. 23, 1851
	VIII	Helen West Stewart, }	"
		Leonice Josephine,	"	June 25, 1874
		Margaret Howard,	"	Jan. 2. 1876
		Helen,	"	July 27, 1877
		Charles,	"	Sept. 20, 1876	Oct. 14, 1882
		John Stewart,	"	May 13, 1881	Sept. 7, 1882
		John,	"	Sept. 28, 1882
		David Stewart,	"	Apr. 12, 1884
		Julian White,		Feb. 9, 1887
Oct 19, 1881.	VII	Howard Ridgely, }	Maryland.	Jan. 7, 1855	Sept. 25, 1900
		Helen Morris Tucker, } No issue.

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
Feb. 6, 1878.	VII VIII	Otho E. Ridgely, } Henrietta S. Thomas, } Ellen Frances, Margretta S. H. Charles Ridgely How- ard, Otho Eichelberger, Alice Garrett,	Maryland. " " " " "	Dec. 25, 1878
Oct. 1, 1884.	VII VIII	Juliana E. H. Ridgely, } John Southgate Yeaton } Margaret Howard, Mary Frances,	Maryland. " "	July 1, 1885	Died in inf'y
1810.	IV V V VI VI VII III IV	Maria Eichelberger, } John Clemm, Sergeant } U. S. A., Elizabeth, Johanna, Johanna Clemm, } Daniel B. Ridgely, Com- } modore U. S. N., Nicholas G., Nicholas G. Ridgely, } M. D., Ida Deshon, } Martin Eichelberger. Johanna, Henrietta, Elizabeth, Mary, Daniel, Susannah Eichelberger } Daniel Barnitz, } Jacob, (Mary Etzler.) George, (Miss McClin- tock,)	Baltimore, Md. " " " Baltimore, Md. " Baltimore, Md. " York, Pa. York Co., Pa. "	Nov. 6, 1785 1811 1813 1813 1756 1755 Apr. 6, 1777 Dec. 22, 1778	July 4, 1864 Sept. 14, 1814 1831 1843 Deceased. Feb. 3, 1806 Dec. 13, 1827 1841
Single		Deborah, Wilhelm, Elizabeth, (Charles Young.) Charles, (Rebecca Swope.) Daniel, (1st Miss Judy, 2d Elizabeth Forney)	" " " "	Aug. 4, 1780 Jan. 29, 1781 Jan. 25, 1803 Feb. 1, 1784 Oct. 28, 1785	Nov. 4, 1781
Single.		Louvina, Susannah, Helen Catherine, (Geo. Himes.) John, (1st Elizabeth Scholl, 2d Maria Bently.)	" " " "	Dec. 23, 1787 Dec. 21, 1789 July 15, 1792 Apr. 7, 1795	Sept. 1, 1799

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
1768.	IV	Michael, (Eliza Eichelberger.)	York Co., Pa.	Jan. 8, 1797	Unknown.
	III	Mary Eichelberger, } William T. Coale, } If issue, unknown.	York Pa. and Md.	1749

Line of John Frederick Eichelberger, Second Son of the Emigrant.

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
Jan 4, 1743	II	John Frederick Eichelberger, }	Germ'y, York Co, Pa. and Maryland.	Feb. 18, 1722	1783
	III	Anna Maria Kintz John Jacob, John Frederick,		Sept 23, 1743 1749	Apr. 14, 1803 1823
1781	III	John Frederick Eichelberger, }	Near Martinsburg. Reading, Pa.	1749	1823
	IV	Mary Leonard, John, Jacob, Peter, Henry, Mary Ann, Catherine,		Oct 13, 1783 Mar. 9, 1785 Mar. 3, 1787 Apr. 30, 1789 Aug. 7, 1792 Aug. 14, 1798
	IV	John Eichelberger, }		Oct. 13, 1783	Dec. 26, 1847
	V	Katherine Zimmerman } Henrietta, Samuel, William, Daniel,		Nov. 12, 1778 Oct 30, 1804 Dec. 20, 1806 May 19, 1809 July 4, 1811	Apr. 20, 1871

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
	V	Henry, Joseph, Susan. John Thomas,		July 9, 1814 Sept. 9, 1816 Apr. 20, 1822 1818
	V	Henrietta Eichelber-	Maryland and Ohio.	Oct. 30, 1804	Unknown.
	VI	ger, Benj. Davidson, Five Children. Orin,
			Dayton, Ohio.	1825
2d marriage.	V	Mrs. Henrietta E. Dav	Findlay, Ohio.	Oct. 30, 1804	Apr. 20, 1857
	VI	idson, Hall. Son,
Jan. 3, 1839.	V	Samuel Eichelberger,	Chicago, Ill Nat'l. Military Home, Dayton, Ohio. Chicago, Ill. Dayton, Ohio.	Dec. 20, 1806	May 27, 1872 Feb. 2, 1890
	VI	Eliza Dewer, 2d marriage, Mr Booher. George W., Luther, Wilson S., Samuel,
Single.				Mar. 12, 1840 Dec. 6, 1841
"				Mar. 12, 1844 Oct. 30, 1846
Jan. 1, 1868.	VI	Geo. W. Eichelberger, } Mattie E. Jack, No issue.	Chicago, Ill.	Mar. 12, 1840
unknown	VI	Wilson S. Eichelberger, } Ruby Eichelberger, No issue.	Chicago, Ill.	Mar. 12, 1844
1834.	V	William Eichelberger, }	Md and Dayton. O. Germantown, Ohio. Dayton, Ohio Franklin, Ohio. " " Saint Wayne, Ohio. " " San Pedro, Cal.	May 19, 1809 Aug., 1815	Mar. 20, 1864 Mar. 25, 1881
Single.	VI	Sarah Conway, Sarah Bell, Francis Marion, Marietta, Adolphus, Elenora, William C., J. Edward,
Single.				1835 1836 1839 1842 1849	1836 1842 1851
Single				Aug., 1857 Oct. 23, 1853	Unknown.

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth	Death.
1861.	VI	Francis M. Eichelberger, }	Dayton, Ohio.	1836
	VII	Elizabeth Jack, }	Texas.	1862
		John Norvil,	Chicago, Ill.	1864
		Eugenia, (Mr. Crim)		1866	Unknown.
		Franklin,
1864.	VI	Elenora Eichelberger, }	Dayton, Ohio.	1849	1870
	VII	Jacob S. Miller,		Unknown.	Unknown.
		Two children,
1874.	VI	Elenora Eichelberger, }	Indianapolis, Ill.	1849	Unknown.
	VII	Miller,
		T. E. Dawson,
		Issue.
June 3, 1875.	VI	J. Edw. Eichelberger, }	Ohio, San Pedro, Cal.	Oct. 23, 1853	Oct. 25, 1887
	VII	Julia E. Miller,	"
		Grey Dudley,	San Pedro, Cal.	Jan. 14, 1877
		Lida,	Ft. Smith, Ark.	Oct. 20, 1887
July 28, 1836. Single.	V	Daniel Eichelberger, }	Dayton, Ohio.	July 4, 1811	June 2, 1853
	VI	Eliza Ann Rouzer, }	"	Nov. 18, 1812	Sept. 17, 1895
		Martin VanBuren,	"	Apr. 6, 1837
		Thomas Benton,	"	Mar. 12, 1839
		Daniel Arthur,	"	May 30, 1851
		Isabella,	"	Jan. 31, 1841
		Laura Rebecca,	"	Mar. 6, 1843
"		Jackson Rouzer,	"	Nov. 18, 1845	Apr. 2, 1846
Feb. 14, 1869.	VI	Thos. B. Eichelberger, }		Mar. 12, 1839	Aug. 1, 1897
		Eugenia E. Wildex, }
		No issue,
June 27, 1872.	VI	Danl. A. Eichelberger, }	Dayton, Ohio,	May 30, 1851	Mar. 7, 1899
		Anna Neal Crum,	"	June 30, 1874
	VII	Fanny Lou,		Oct. 30, 1880
		Lucy Belle,		Aug. 3, 1883
		Frederick Otho,
March 7, 1867.	VI	Isabella Eichelberger, }	Dayton, Ohio.	Jan. 31, 1841	May 9, 1893
	VII	Frederick Wm. Braun, }	"	Aug. 23, 1827	All three died while quite young.
		Frederick,
		Bessie,
		Blanche,

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
Jan. 8, 1863	VI VII	Laura R. Eichelberger, } Henry Clay Coffenbury } Leone Avon,	Dayton, Ohio.	Mar. 6, 1843 July 25, 1834 July 24, 1879
May 27, 1899.	VII VIII	Fanny Lou Eichelber- } ger, } Henry H. Fritch, Daniel Frederick,		July 24, 1879 Aug 16, 1900
Jan. 8, 1900.	VII	Leone Avon Coffen- } bury, } Leslie Sever,	Dayton, Ohio.	July 24, 1879
Sept 1, 1832	V	Henry Eichelberger, }	Middletown, Ohio.	July 9, 1814
Single	VI	Sarah Rouzer, } John Thomas, Charles Henry, Mary Jane, Wesley, Washington,	Springfield, Ohio. Dayton, Ohio Xenia, Ohio Miamisburg, Ohio.	Mar 23, 1814 May 23, 1833 Jan. 3, 1836 Jan. 10, 1839 Sept 9, 1842 Oct 26, 1847	Dec. 6, 1892 May 5, 1851 Mar. 15, 1839 Apr. 28, 1848
May 26. 1853.	VI VII	John T. Eichelberger. } Elizabeth Drayer, (1st } wife) Kate, Thomas Oliver,	Dayton, Ohio. Miamisburg, Ohio.	May 23, 1833 Nov 24, 1854 May 7, 1856	Jan. 4, 1890 Feb 10, 1857
Single.	VI VII	John T. Eichelberger, } Mary Deborah Duncan } (2d wife.) Robert Dudley, Harry Duncan, Laura Mildred, Charles Carroll,	Dayton, Ohio. Piqua, Ohio. Denver, Colorado	May 23, 1833 1865 Sept, 21, 1866 July. 1869 1870
Nov 14, 1872.	VII VIII	Kate Eichelberger. } M. D. Wood, } Bernice Elizabeth, Jessie Edna, Oliver Amsburg, Bessie Evelyn, Charles Frederick,	Dunkirk, Indiana. " " " "	Nov. 24, 1854 Nov 28, 1873 Sept. 2, 1875 Feb 2, 1878 Jan. 25, 1887 Dec. 9, 1889	Jan. 3, 1876

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
	VII	Thomas Oliver Eich- elberger, }	Middletown, O.	May 7, 1856
	VIII	Sarah E. Routzong. }	Bradford, Ohio.	Apr. 23, 1857
		Charles Marcus,	Middletown, O.	Jan. 18, 1879
		Edna,	"	Apr. 5, 1880
		Kirk Wood.	"	Oct. 23, 1881
unknown	VII	Robert Dudley Eich- berger, }	San Francisco, Cal.	1865
		Bessie Lucas,	Kansas City, Mo.
	VII	Harry Duncan Eich- berger, }	Richmond, Va.	Aug. 21, 1866
	VIII	Lillian Morris, }	Kansas City, Mo.
		Helen,	Richmond, Va.
		Mary,	"
		Thomas.	"
		Harry,	"
1897	VII	Charles C. Eichelber- ger, }	Denver, Col.	1870
	VIII	Alma May Hunt,	"
		Infant Son,	"	Apr. 30, 1899	Oct 29, 1899
Dec. 16, 1892.	VIII	Bernice Elizabeth } Wood,	Dunkirk, Ind.
	IX	Florence Fees, }	"
		Amber Ladona,	"	Nov. 10, 1893
		Marcus Wood,	"	Sept 29, 1895
		Thomas Clifford,	"	Sept. 28, 1897
Jan. 2, 1866.	VI	Wesley Eichelberger, }	Piqua, Ohio.	Sept. 9, 1842
	VII	Lsura Belle Day,	"
		Harry Wilbur,	"	Mar. 22, 1869
June 3, 1891.	VII	Harry Wilbur Eich- berger, }	Piqua, Ohio.	Mar. 22, 1869
		Ida Maud Palmer,	"

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
Jan. 1843.	V	Joseph Eichelberger, }	Maryland and Ur-	Sept. 9, 1876
	VI	Mary Eliza Maley, }	bana, Ohio.	Mar. 4, 1831
		George M.	Ohio.	Dec. 16, 1843
		Sylvester,	"	1846
		William,	"	1851
		J. Frank,	"	1856
		Isabelle,	"	Feb. 22, 1853
Single.		Robert A., (Artist.)	Munich—N. Y. City.	1864	1891
		Kate,			Died young.
Oct. 1872.	VI	Geo. M. Eichelberger, }	Urbana, Ohio.	Dec. 16, 1843
	VII	Emma Ping, }	Balto. Md., Urbana, O	Mar. 21, 1851
		Gertrude M,	Urbana, Ohio.	Jan. 14, 1874	1882
		Susan P,	"	Oct. 8, 1875
		George H.,	"	Jan. 24, 1877
		Frederick B.,	"	July 8, 1880
		Frank,	"	Jan. 5, 1885
		Robert L.,	"	Mar. 9, 1886
1873.	VI	Wm. A. Eichelberger, }		1851	1886
	VII	Elizabeth Jones, }	Springfield, Ohio.	1849
Single		Jeanette,	"	Sept., 1874
"		Isabelle,	"	1876
		Frances,	"	1879
		Walter,	"	1881
	VI	Sylvester Eichelberger }	Urbana, Ohio.	1846	1876
		Emma Straw, }	Carey, Ohio.
		No issue.
	VI	J. Frank Eichelberger, }	Urbana, Ohio.	1856	1892
		Mrs. Sarah Mumma, }	"
		No issue.
1882	VI	Isabelle Eichelberger, }	Urbana, Ohio.	Feb. 22, 1853
		Edgar M. Ward, }	New York City.
		Edgar S.,	Paris, France, and	Feb., 1887
			New York City.
1895.	VII	Jeanette Eichelberger, }	Urbana, Ohio.	Feb., 1874
	VIII	Edwin M. S. Houston, }		1872
		Oella,		1897
1899.	VII	Frances Eichelberger, }		1879
		Roger Staley,

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
1846.	V	John Eichelberger, Jr., }	Germantown, Ohio.	1818	May 8, 1853
	VI	Julia Sweaty, }	"
		Addie,
	VI	Addie Eichelberger, }	Germantown, Ohio,	1848
		Ireland, }	"
	VII	Issue—8 children.
Jan. 31, 1841.	V	Susan Eichelberger, }	Maryland and Day-	Apr. 20, 1822	Jan. 31, 1898
	VI	Jacob Hoff Boyer, }	ton, Ohio.		June 11, 1852
		Edward C.,		June 3, 1844
		Addie,	Germantown, Ohio.	Nov. 21, 1841
Single.		Francis,	Dayton, Ohio.	May 24, 1846
"		Anna-Belle,	"	Nov. 27, 1849	June 9, 1851
"		Sallie,	"	Aug 16, 1852
	VI	Edward C Boyer, }	Dayton, Ohio.	June 3, 1844
	VII	Has issue.
	VI	Addie Boyer, }	Germantown, Ohio.	Nov. 21, 1841
	VII	Lewis Taylor, }
		Has issue.
1823.	V	Henrietta Eichelberger }	Maryland.	Oct. 30, 1804	Apr 20, 1857
	VI	Benjamin Davidson, }	.		1835
		Orin,
		Four others.	Dayton, Ohio.
1838.	V	Henrietta Eichelberger }
		Davidson, }
	VI	Mr. Hall,	Findlay, Ohio.
		One son.
	IV	Jacob Eichelberger, }	Maryland.	Mar. 9, 1785
	V	John,	"	1812
		William,
		Jacob,
		Leonard,
1840.	V	John Eichelberger, }	Md., Bloomfield, Ia.	1812	1887
	VI	Christiana B. Winters, }	Dayton, Ohio.
		Frank W.,		1841
		Thomas W.,		1843
		Laura B.,		1846
		William G ,		1848
Single		Charles S.,		1858	1884

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
Sept. 1900	VI	Frank W. Eichelberger }	Bloomfield, Iowa.	1869	1878
	VII	Ella A. Pratt, Mary,	"
	VI	Thos. W. Eichelberger }	Des Moines, Iowa.	1843	1879
		Ella B. Runack, No issue.	Chicago, Ill.
	VI	Laura B. Eichelberger, }	Davenport, Iowa.	1846	1878
		Captain W. B. Brunton U. S. A.
	VII	Mary, John,	California. Nome, Alaska.
	VI	Wm. G. Eichelberger, }	Bloomfield, Iowa.	1848
		Ellen Botts,
	VII	Charles,		1879
Single. " " " "	VII	Charles Eichelberger, }		1877
		Clyde Sturdevant,
	V	William Eichelberger, }	Lawrenceburg, Ind.	1815
		(Unknown)
	VI	Anna Belle,
	VI	Anna B. Eichelberger, }	Arkansas.
		Green,
	VII	Has issue.
	V	Jacob Eichelberger, }	Md. and Bellbrook, O	1820	Deceased.
		Matilda Brewster,
Single. " " " "	VI	Son, Daughter,			" " "
	V	Leonard Eichelberger, }	Davenport, Iowa.	1822	1857
		Violet Kidder,
	VI	Jennie,
	VI	Jennie Eichelberger, }	"	1856
		James Preston,
	VII	James,	"	1887
		Pearl,	"	1889
		Leonard,	"	1893

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
Single.	IV	Peter Eichelberger, }	Frederick Co., Md.	Mar. 13, 1787	Apr. 19, 1875
	V	Deitrick, } Mahala,	"		Unknown. "
1812.	IV	Peter Eichelberger, }	Hagerstown, Md.	Mar. 13, 1787	Apr. 19, 1875
Single.	V	Sallie Kertchner, } Ari, Augustus, M. D., Maria, Peter,	"	1813 1816 1820 Oct. 22, 1818
1836.	V	Ari Eichelberger, }	Hagerstown, Md.	1813	1858
Single	VI	Sarah Smith, } Augustus C., Sarah, Henry, Catherine, Indiana, Dorsey, Scott, Wesley, Elizabeth, Barbara,	" " " " " Altoona, Pa. " " " Miller City, Ohio.	1838 1842 Sept. 8, 1841 Jan. 23, 1843 Aug. 16, 1846 1848 Jan. 1, 1845 1854 1850
"
"
	VI	Henry Eichelberger, }	Hagerstown, Md.
	VII	Louisa Snell, } Has a family.	"
	VI	Sarah Eichelberger, }	Hagerstown, Md.	1842	Deceased.
		I. James Shively, }	"		"
		II. John McGonigle, }	"		"
		III Wm. Chrissinger }
	VI	Catherine Eichelberger }	Hagerstown, Md.	Jan. 23, 1843
	VII	F. Marion Hale, }
	VI	Indiana Eichelberger, }	Hagerstown, Md.	Apr. 16, 1846
	VII	John Monias, }
	VI	Barbara Eichelberger, }	Hagerstown, Md.
	VII	William McCoy, }
	VI	Elizabeth Eichelberger }	Altoona, Pa.
	VII	— Franks, }
		Issue.

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
Single.	V	Peter Eichelberger, }	Quincy, Pa.	Oct. 22, 1818	Aug. 26, 1853
	VI	Mary Fockler, } Lucius F., Virginia, Peter,	Maryland. New York City. Urbana, Ohio.	Apr. 7, 1844 Jan. 17, 1850 Dec. 16, 1846
Single.	VI	Lucius F. Eichelberger }	New York City.	Apr. 17, 1844	1870 1872
	VII	Fanny Reamer, } Wilton, Mary Catherine,	Virginia. New York. "
Dec. 13, 1873.	VI	Peter Eichelberger, }	Urbana, Ohio.	Dec. 16, 1846	Oct. 20, 1881
	VII	Clara B. Shyrick, } Mary E., Virginia A., Otelia B., Frank J., John S., Robert L.,	Cavetown, Md.	Sept. 4, 1877 Mar. 28, 1879 Dec. 7, 1880 Oct. 31, 1882 Feb. 26, 1887 Mar. 2, 1889
	IV	Henry Eichelberger, }	Maryland and Zanes- ville, Ohio.	Apr. 20, 1789
	V	Maria Louisa ——— } Dau.—name unknown. " "
1816.	IV	Catherine Eichelberger }	Hagerstown, Md.	Aug. 14, 1798	Aug. 25, 1848
	V	Adam Kinkle, } Ann Catherine, (W. K. Tice,) " Eliza, " Mary Amanda, (R. " Curtes,) " James Clinton, M. D. Charles,	" " " Baltimore, Md. Hagerstown, Md.	Mar. 21, 1818 Oct. 22, 1819 Aug. 21, 1821 Oct. 20, 1825 Oct. 22, 1830
July 25, 1811.	IV	Mary Ann Eichelberg- }	Hagerstown, Md.	Aug. 7, 1792	Sept. 29, 1879
Single.	V	er, } Thomas Phillips, }	near Hagerstown. St. Thomas, Pa.	June 18, 1812	July 18, 1812
		Mary Ann, Thomas, M. D., William, Rev., Israel, Mary, John, Samuel,		Sept. 25, 1813 Aug. 19, 1815 Oct. 3, 1817 Oct. 23, 1819 Feb. 17, 1821 June 14, 1823	Nov. 25, 1841 Apr. 7, 1820

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
Apr. 1842	V	William Phillips, } Martha Worthington }	St. Josephs, Mo. Carroll Co., Md.	Aug. 19, 1815	Jan. 23, 1892
Married.	VI	Thomas, William, Mary Belle, (Geo. Ma- guire.) Minnie, (Mr. Rose.) Fannie, (Mr. Conrad.)	Omaha, Nebraska. " Kansas City, Mo.		1900
	V	Israel Phillips, }	Lewisburg, Md.	Oct. 3, 1817	Dec. 29, 1845
	VI	— Lambert, } Louise, (J. A. Layton.) Thomas,	Montrose, Col.		Deceased.
Sept. 14, 1848.	V	John Phillips, }	Waynesboro, Pa.	Feb. 17, 1821	May 6, 1898
	VI	Susan Clayton, } Sallie, William D , Mary B., Clayton, (Helen M. Brotherton.) Myrtle, Grace E. A.,	" " " " " "	June 19, 1850 Dec. 13, 1854 July 3, 1856 Feb. 5, 1859 July 31, 1861 July 4, 1864	July 4, 1864 May 25, 1855 Jan. 6, 1863 Feb. 6, 1863
Oct. 12, 1848.	V	Samuel Phillips, }	Philadelphia.	June 14, 1823	Sept. 1, 1892
Single.	VI	Rebecca Kay, }	"	Oct. 12, 1823	Apr. 23, 1892
"		George B. Kay,	"	Aug. 11, 1849	Aug., 1849
"		Samuel K.,	"	Oct. 2, 1850	Aug. 23, 1855
		Pierre,	"	Sept. 14, 1854	Jan. 14, 1855
		Olivia, (Charles L. Hamilton.)	"	July 13, 1852
		Samuel L.,	"	Jan. 12, 1856	Mar. 8, 1889
		Mary A.,	"	Feb. 3, 1858	Sept. 5, 1859
		William J.,	"	Sept. 27, 1859	Dec. 16, 1859
		James K.,		Aug. 5, 1861
		Melville, (Gertrude F. Tunk)		Mar. 6, 1863
		Ida, (Edwin E. Hamil- ton.)		June 13, 1865

Line of Capt. Adam Eichelberger,

Eldest Son of Philip Frederick Eichelberger and His Second Wife, Magdalene.

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
1736 or 1738.	I	Philip Frederick Eichelberger, }	Germany and Pa.	Apr. 17, 1693	Sept. 18, 1776
	II	Magdalene ——— } Adam, Jacob, Leonard, Lewis or Ludwig,	" York Co., Pa. Hanover, Pa. York Co. Pa. and Md York Co., Pa., and Adams Co.	1699 May 12, 1739 Sept. 26, 1746 Aug. 12, 1750 Dec. 1, 1752	1788
1761.	II	Adam Eichelberger, }	Manheim Township, York Co., Pa.	May 12, 1739	Dec. 9, 1787
	III	Magdalene Bechtel, } Frederick, Michael, Samuel, Adam, Jr., Elizabeth, Susannah, Joseph, Salome,		Dec. 6, 1743 Aug. 10, 1763 May 17, 1765 Jan. 5, 1769 Nov. 26, 1771 Dec. 11, 1770 Aug. 14, 1778 Jan. 15, 1781 Aug. 11, 1783	Dec. 30, 1821 Sept. 21, 1804
Aug. 17, 1784.	III	Frederick Eichelberger } Anna Frena Motter, }	Frederick Co., Md.	Aug. 10, 1763 Oct. 14, 1763	Aug. 7, 1838 Nov. 17, 1815
Single.	IV	George, Catherine, Adam, Elizabeth, Joseph, } twins. Susan, } Martin Luther, Mary or Maria, Frederick, Jr., Lewis Frederick, Magdalene, Sophia,		Mar. 8, 1790 Nov. 3, 1793 Feb. 17, 1792 Nov. 26, 1786 Oct. 10, 1795 Nov. 17, 1797 July 18, 1798 1801 Aug. 15, 1803 July 24, 1785 Oct. 23, 1800	1799 1804
"	III	Michael Eichelberger, }	Manheim Township, York Co., Pa.	May 17, 1765	May 30, 1801
	IV	Catherine Smyser, } Adam, Polly, Elizabeth, Michael, George,		Oct. 24, 1791 Jan., 1793 Apr. 10, 1795 Oct. 2, 1797 Feb. 22, 1800

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
Aug. 2, 1790.	III	Samuel Eichelberger, }	York Co., Pa.	Jan. 5, 1769	Apr. 22, 1828
		Catherine Smyser, }	"	Feb. 27, 1772	Feb. 6, 1842
Single.	IV	John Adam,		Nov. 26, 1791
"		Magdalene,		Dec. 14, 1793	Mar. 1, 1863
"		Maria Catherine,		Nov. 19, 1796	Feb. 25, 1798
		Louisa S.,		Dec. 5, 1798	June 9, 1802
		Samuel S.,		Mar. 6, 1801
		Susannah,		Oct. 9, 1803
		Elizabeth,		Jan. 8, 1806
		Jacob S.,		May 9, 1808
		Anna Catherine,		Oct. 2, 1810
		Lida,		Jan. 20, 1814
1794	III	Adam Eichelberger, Jr. }	York Co. and Cum-	Nov. 26, 1771	Jan. 2, 1818
Single		Susannah Schmeizer, }	berland Co., Pa.		1810
	IV	John Michael,	Cumberland Co., Pa.	Feb. 7, 1796
		George,		Nov. 2, 1797
		Adam,		Oct. 5, 1801
		Samuel,		1795
		Henry,		1800
		Elizabeth,		1799
		Susannah,		1808
		Sarah,		1804
		Mary,		1806
1812. 2d wife.	III	Adam Eichelberger, Jr. }	Cumberland Co., Pa.	Nov. 26, 1771	Jan. 2, 1818
		Mrs. Mary Forney, }
	IV	Joseph,
		Isabella,
		Hetty,
		Susai,
	III	Elizabeth Eichelberger }	York Co., Pa., moved	Dec. 11, 1770	Aug. 20, 1833
		Michael Hoke, }	to North Carolina.	Aug. 14, 1763	Nov. 15, 1846
	IV	George,		July 17, 1789	June 13, 1851
		Adam, (Susan Eichel-		Jan. 17, 1792
		berger,)
Single.		John,		Dec. 30, 1796	Aug. 12, 1822
		Jacob,		Nov. 12, 1799
		Michael,		Oct. 19, 1808
		William,		Feb. 21, 1812
		Sarah,		July 29, 1795
		Magdalene,		July 29, 1802
		Elizabeth,		Dec. 23, 1804
Aug. 18, 1803.	III	Joseph Eichelberger, }	Greencastle.	Jan. 15, 1781	Apr. 19, 1811
		Martha Dicks, }	Berlin, Pa.	Dec. 14, 1784	Dec. 7, 1827
	IV	James M.,		June 17, 1804
		Jeanna,		Sept 13, 1806
		Job Dicks,		Oct. 23, 1808
		Josephine,		Apr. 5, 1810

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
1810.	III	Salome Eichelberger, }	York, Co., Pa.	Aug. 11, 1783	Apr. 8, 1856
	IV	Henry Cramer, } Joseph E., Charles,		Jan. 19, 1813 July, 1815
		LINE OF "Owen's Creek" Freder- ick.
Apr. 11, 1816.	IV	George Eichelberger, }	Md., and Charles- town, W. Va. Wyoming Valley, Pa.	Mar. 8, 1790	1853
	V	Catherine Myers, } Frederick, George William, Lewis Smith, Ann Elizabeth,		1817 Oct 27, 1819 Sept. 28, 1824 1823
	V	Fred'k Eichelberger, }	W. Va. and Texas. Penna. and Texas.	1817	1866
Single.	VI	Harriet Myers, } Virginia, John, Lilly, Two infants,
Mar. 23, 1848.	V	George William Eich- elberger, }	West Virginia.	Oct. 27, 1819	Oct. 22, 1881
	VI	Anna Maria Wirt, } Blanche,		Aug. 30, 1823 Dec. 15, 1850	Aug. 22, 1854
June 15, 1856. 2d wife.	V	George William Eich- elberger, }	Charleston, W. Va. " Capon Springs, W. Va.	Oct. 27, 1819	Oct. 22, 1881
	VI	Maria L Eichelberger, } Anna Maria,		Dec. 31, 1836	Oct. 13, 1895
	VI	Blanche Eichelberger, }	Staunton, Va.	Dec. 15, 1850	Nov. 12, 1891
	VII	Samuel S Smeltzer, } Anna, Wirt, Ella, John,		May 21, 1850 Sept. 8, 1878 Apr. 15, 1881 Sept. 19, 1883 Nov. 25, 1885	Dec. 7, 1882 Dec. 2, 1882
May 13, 1851.	V	Lewis Smith Eich- elberger, M. D. }	Jefferson Co., W. Va near Baltimore, Md. Hanover, Pa.	Sept. 28, 1824	Sept. 4, 1864
	VI	Sarah Wirt, } William Wirt,		Jan. 8, 1829 Feb 14, 1852	Apr. 6, 1864
1866.	V	Lewis Smith Eich- elberger, M D. } Elizabeth Richstine, } No issue.	Catonsville, Md.	Sep .28, 1824	Sept. 4, 1884

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
May 15, 1873	VI	William Wirt Eichel- berger, }	Balto., Washington and New England.	Feb. 14, 1852	Dec. 12, 1886
	VII	Helen Wheatley, Edith Wirt, Blanche Greenwood, William Wirt, Arthur Cary, Paul Wheatley,	Baltimore, Md. " " " "	May 7, 1874 Dec. 6, 1875 Jan. 25, 1878 Nov. 15, 1879 Apr. 8, 1881	Jan. 4, 1878 Feb. 13, 1892 Oct. 18, 1887
1846	V	Ann E. Eichelberger,) Lawrence Myers,)	Wilkes-Barre, Pa.	1823	1848
	VI	Georgianna,		1847	Unknown. 1867
Mar. 6, 1821.	IV	Adam Eichelberger,) Magdalene Hoke,)	Maryland and W. Va	Feb. 17, 1792	1834
Single.	V	James Milton, Eliza Ann, John Adam Hoke, Harvey S., Jacob H., Savanah,	Md., W. Va. and Ill Virginia. " "	1792 1822 1824 Mar. 21, 1831 Apr. 6, 1834 1829 1835	1861 1842 1826 1842
Dec. 31, 1857.	V	John Adam Hoke Eich- elberger, }	Virginia, Galesburg, and Pana, Illinois.	Mar. 31, 1831	1890
Single.	VI	Mary Adeline Honore,) Marian Honore, Alice Hoke, Charles Norman, James Henry, John Williard, William Henry, Jesse Lee,	South Carolina. Pana, Illinois. Galesburg, Illinois.	Sept. 1, 1834 Jan. 21, 1859 Apr. 6, 1861 May 26, 1863 Feb. 24, 1866 Oct. 3, 1870 Oct. 19, 1872 Nov. 15, 1875	July 22, 1892
1884.	VI	Alice H Eichelberger,) Ira Burlingham,)	Pana, Illinois.	Apr. 6, 1861
	VII	Catherine Honore, Ruth Lyons,	Washington, D. C. "	1885 1896
1893.	VI	J. Henry Eichelberger,) Margaret White,)	Pana, Illinois, "	1894 1898
	VII	Norman Jute, Chauncey Honore,

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
1898.	VI	John W. Eichelberger, }	Rosamond, Ill.	1900
	VII	Clara Hutchins, } Florence Esterbrook,
Mar. 1, 1855.	V	Harvey S. Eichelberger } Lizzie Shaffer, }	Virginia, and Gra- ham, Texas	Apr. 6, 1834
	VI	Edgar Milton, Martha Blanche, Caroline M., James Albert,		June 20, 1858 July 21, 1860 Mar. 10, 1864 June 10, 1868
Single.
June 6, 1899.	VI	Edgar M. Eichelberger } Susie Collins, }	Graham, Texas	June 20, 1858
	VII	Mary Elizabeth,		July 26, 1900
	VI	M. Blanche Eichelberg- } er,	Graham, Texas.	July 21, 1860
	VII	C. W. Johnson,
	VI	Caroline M. Eichelber- } ger,	Graham, Texas.	Mar. 10, 1864
	VII	C. O. Joline,
Nov. 27, 1810.	IV	Elizabeth Eichelberger } Lewis Smith, }	Georgetown, D. C.	Nov 26, 1786
	V	William, John, Lewis,		1812 1815 1817
Jan 29, 1826.	IV	Joseph Eichelberger, }	Maryland. Mercersburg, Pa.	Oct. 10, 1795
Single.	V	Elizabeth Hoke, } Harriet Ann, Mary, Michael, Virginia, Elizabeth, Susan, Martin, Grayson M., Marian,		Nov. 10, 1828 Apr. 10, 1830 Nov. 14, 1831 Jan. 12, 1833 Mar. 8, 1835 Dec. 21, 1836 July 16, 1839 Nov. 10, 1842 Apr. 16, 1845	Oct. 10, 1854 May 6, 1865 1837
"			"
"			"
"			Rocky Ridge, Md.

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
Nov. 25, 1852.	V	Mary Eichelberger, }	Frederick Co., Md.	Apr. 10, 1830	1854
Married	VI	John Seabrooks, }	In the West	1853	1898
"		Ella, (One child.)	Lincoln, Nebraska.	1855
"		William, (4 children.)	Dayton, Ohio.	1857
"		Minnie, (5 children.)		1860	Died young.
"		Elizabeth,	Vandalia, Ohio.	1862
"		Milton, (5 children.)	Dayton, Ohio.	1864
		Charles, (One child.)	Lincoln, Nebraska.	1867
		Martha,	Dayton, Ohio.	1870
		Guy,	"	1875
		Susan, (David Johnson)
Nov. 14, 1854.	V	Michael F. Eichelberg }	Maryland and Day-	Nov. 14, 1831	Sept. 28, 1892
		er,	ton, Ohio.
	VI	Isabelle Favorite,	"	Unknown.	Living.
		Clara Elizabeth,		Aug. 26, 1855	Sept. 28, 1860
		Olive May,		Mar. 5, 1857
Single		Virginia Montez,	Dayton, Ohio.	Sept. 14, 1863
		Allen Grant,		May 31, 1866
		Blanche Larue,		June 3, 1868
		Claude Favorite,		Oct. 24, 1871
Feb. 27, 1884	VI	Olive M. Eichelberger, }	Omaha, Nebraska.	Mar. 5, 1857
		Charles A. Grimes,
	VII	Anna F,	"	Feb. 17, 1885
		May Estelle,	"	Apr. 1, 1889
		George Favorite,	"	May 17, 1894
May 4, 1892.	VI	Virginia M Eichelber-		Sept. 14, 1863
		ger,
		William H. Anderson,	Akron, Ohio.
Sept. 12, 1892.	VI	Blanche L. Eichelber-	Dayton, Ohio	June 3, 1868
		ger,
	VII	Raymond T. Shuey,	"	Apr. 26, 1893
		Raymond S.
June 25, 1896.	VI	Claude F. Eichelberger,	Dayton, Ohio.	Oct. 24, 1871
		Alma Nora Kimmel,

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
Nov. 30, 1857. Single.	V VI	Susan Eichelberger, Geo. Zimmerman, M.D. } Clayton, Effie, Frank,	Maryland.	Dec. 21, 1836	1891
1891.	VI VII	Frank Zimmerman, } Mary G. Black, } Helen, Mary, Kathryn, Ruth, William,	Loys, Maryland. " " " " "	1892 1894 1896 1898 1900
Jan. 14, 1862. Single.	V VI	Martin J. Eichelberger, } Cassandra Favorite, } Joseph Greyson, Carrie Acton, George Clarence, E. Gregg, Marian Favorite,	Emmitsburg, Md. Maryland. " " " "	July 16, 1839 Unknown. May 25, 1862 Nov. 5, 1863 Oct 25, 1865 Feb. 28, 1867 Jan. 30, 1875	Oct. 22, 1896 Unknown. Jan. 9, 1863 Apr. 22, 1865 Aug. 20, 1897
Jan. 30, 1894.	VI VII	George C. Eichelberger } Effie A. Weant, } Ruth Weant, Clarence Earl,	Maryland. " "	Jan. 4, 1895 Dec. 6, 1896
Sept. 24, 1867.	V VI	Grayson M. Eichelberger, } Hannah M. Coyner, } Phoebe Nora, Maud Estelle, Lizzie Coyner, Sarah Marion, Meade Moore, Floyd Everett,	Maryland, and Jeffersonville, Ohio.	Nov. 10, 1842 July 10, 1868 Sept. 8, 1869 Sept. 15, 1871 Jan. 24, 1873 Dec. 27, 1878 Oct. 1, 1881	Oct. 27, 1870
May 26, 1896.	VI VII	Phoebe N. Eichelberger } Train Caldwell Kirk, } Williard Coyner,		July 10, 1868 Dec. 5, 1897

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
Mar. 4, 1817.	IV	Susan Eichelberger, }		Oct. 10, 1795	Oct. 14, 1830
	V	Adam Hoke, }		Jan. 17, 1792	June 6, 1869
		Ann Elizabeth,	Maryland.	1818	Dec 21, 1865
		Louisa, (Rev. Hofer-			Oct. 16, 1884 ditch.)
		Maria, (Rev. McCau-	Reading, Pa.	1825
		ley, D. D.)
		Caroline, (John Weber)	New York City.	1827
		Harriet, (Andrew	Mercersburg, Pa.	Feb. 25, 1830	Dec. 8, 1888
		Schnebly.)
Single.		Lewis W.,	Maryland.	Nov. 3, 1822	Sept. 17, 1825
	V	Ann Elizabeth Hoke, }	Mercersburg, Pa.
		Henry M. Eberly, D. D. S }
Apr. 13, 1826.	IV	Martin Luther Eichel-	Maryland and Shen-	Nov. 13, 1797	Sept. 20, 1855
	V	berger, }	andoah Valley, Va.
		Maria C. Zimmerman, }
		Joseph Luther,		Oct. 27, 1837
		Ann Eliza,		Sept. 2, 1829
Single.		Jane Elizabeth,	Charleston, S. C.	Oct. 8, 1831	May, 1893
		Maria Louisa, (Geo. W.	Virginia.	Dec. 31, 1836 Eichelberger.)
"		Webster,		Mar. 9, 1838
		George Frederick,	Washington, D. C.	Dec. 18, 1842
Oct. 3, 1854.	V	Joseph L. Eichelberger }	Maryland and Vir-	Oct. 22, 1827
	VI	Deborah Schaffer, }	ginia.		1862
		Deborah,		1855
		Millie,		1859	Died in inf'y
1865.	V	Joseph L. Eichelberger }	Maryland and Vir-	Oct. 22, 1827
	VI	Eliza Catherine Deest, }	ginia.	1841	1879
		Martin Luther,		Feb. 4, 1867
Single.		Mary Catherine,	Roanoke, Va.	Oct 28, 1868
		Nettie May,		Oct. 24, 1873
1883.	V	Joseph L. Eichelberger }	Maryland and Vir-	Oct. 22, 1827	Mar. 31, 1898
	VI	Sarah Jane Barrick, }	ginia.
		Charles Barrick,	Frederick Co., Md	Apr. 28, 1885
Nov. 1896	VI	Martin Luther Eichel-	Shepherdstown,	Feb. 4, 1867
	VII	berger, }	W. Va.
		Ada Brotherton,
		Luther Brotherton,			Died in inf'y

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
June 15, 1898.	VI VII	Nettie M. Eichelberger } J. Strider Moler, } Wallace McClure,	Kellar, W. Va. " "	Oct. 24, 1873 Apr. 23, 1900
June 17, 1851.	V VI	Ann Eliza Eichelberger } J. O. Smeltzer, } Samuel S., (Blanche Eichelberger.)	Roanoke, Virginia.	Sept. 2, 1829 May 21, 1850	Oct. 10, 1885 Nov. 12, 1891
Single.		Martin L.,		Apr. 12, 1852	Mar. 10, 1855
"		George F.,		Oct. 7, 1854	Oct. 13, 1854
"		Ella Harriet, (Frederick K Muller.)		Oct. 1, 1855
"		Morris Eichelberger,		Sept 5, 1857	July 18, 1862
"		Charles M.,		Oct. 5, 1859	Mar. 5, 1876
"		John B., (Angelina K. Booknight)		May 11, 1862	Mar. 2, 1893
"		Sarah Katherine, (Jacob L. Eargle.)		May 16, 1865
"		Ida Jane, (Timothy Seyle.)		June 19, 1867
Dec. 9, 1874.	V	Rev. Webster Eichelberger, D. D. }	Smithfield, Virginia.	Mar 9, 1838	Dec. 15, 1886
Single.	VI	Elizabeth Hobart, } Philip Frederick, } George Hobart,	Yellow Spr's, W. Va " "	1876 1875	July 6, 1877
May 26, 1812.	IV V	Maria Eichelberger, } Jacob Krise, } Anna F.,	Maryland. " "	July 18, 1788
	V	Anna F Krise. }
		George W Barrick. }	Rocky Ridge, Md.
	VI	Charles J., (Emma J. Eichelberger.)	" "	Oct. 26, 1846
		Sarah Jane, (Joseph L Eichelberger)	" "
Mar. 1, 1808.	IV V	Magdalene Eichelberger, } Henry Coppersmith, } John, } Lewis, } Mary,	Distriet of Columbia.	July 24, 1785 1810 1813 1815	Unknown 1854 " Unknown.

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
Apr. 21, 1825.	IV V	Sophia Eichelberger, } John P. Zimmerman, } Susan, George, Lewis, Jacob, Martin, John,	Maryland. Maryland and Kan- sas.	Oct. 23, 1800	Died young.
Feb. 7, 1830.	IV	Lewis Frederick Eich- elberger, D. D., }	Winchester, Va.	Sept. 21, 1803	Sept. 16, 1859
Single	V	Mary Miller, John Miller, Henry Samuel, Margretta, Charles Frederick,		1831 Aug. 12, 1832 1834 1836	Aug. 8, 1854
Mar. 14, 1839.	IV	Lewis F. Eichelberger, } D. D., LL. D. }	Winchester, Va.	Sept. 21, 1803	Sept. 16, 1859
Single.	V	Penelope Hay, William Hay, Civil En- gineer. Edward Cary,		July 20, 1848 Nov. 1, 1850
Oct. 26, 1859.	V	Henry S. Eichelberger, } M. D. }	Staunton, Va.	Aug. 12, 1832	Jan. 24, 1887
Single.	VI	Susan Catherine Baylor George Baylor, Hugh Gilbert, Henry Lewis, Mamie Bell, Charles Preston, M. D., Kate Edith,	" " " " New York City. Staunton, Va.	Feb. 27, 1861 Feb. 21, 1863 Dec. 14, 1864 Feb. 8, 1868 May 14, 1870 June 20, 1875	June 20, 1880 June 29, 1889
	VI	Hugh G. Eichelberger, }	Staunton, Va.
	VII	Sadie C. Crawford, Hugh Crawford, George Baylor, Henry Baxter,	" " "	1892 1896 1898
June 30, 1900.	VI	Henry Lewis Eichel- berger, Nannie Griffin Herring }	Staunton, Va.

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
1854.	V	Margretta Eichelberger } John W. Bushnell, }	Virginia.	1834	1868
	VI	Annie Lewis, Ella, John Miller,			Died young.
	VI	Ella Bushnell, }	Crawford, N. J.	1855
	VII	Joseph Sperry, }
	VI	Rev John M. Bushnell } D. D. }	Winchester, Va.	Oct. 11, 1856
	VII	Anna Terrill, Charles Eichelberger, George, Terrill, Sara, John E., Samuel, Margretta,	Salem, Va.
	V	Charles Frederick } Eichelberger, }	Virginia.	1836	May, 1895
		Charlotte Sperry, }	"	Unknown.	Unknown.
		No issue.
Oct. 10, 1879.	V	Edward C. Eichelberg- } er, }	Baltimore, Md.	Nov. 1, 1850
Single.	VI	Julia H. Sanderson, }	Baltimore Co., Md.
"		Julia P.,	Baltimore, Md,	Sept 29, 1880
"		Anna Lynn,	"	Mar. 4, 1882
"		Louis Hay,	"	Jan. 10, 1885
"		Edward Cary,	"	Aug. 7, 1889
"		Francis Maury,	"	Aug. 31, 1893
MICHAEL'S LINE.
1814.	IV	Adam Eichelberger, }	York Co., Pa., Ind.	Oct 12, 1791	May 13, 1847
		Sarah E. Wolf, }	Connersville, Ind.	Aug. 27, 1795	Aug. 11, 1841
	V	Anna M.,		Oct. 12, 1815
		Eliza,		Oct. 30, 1817
		Sarah,		Dec 9, 1819
Single.		Henry,	Indiana and Califor-	1824	Unknown.
		Louisa,	nia.	Apr. 1, 1830
		Rebecca,		Mar. 10, 1822
		Martin,		Dec. 1, 1828
		Susan,		Jan., 1833
"		Michael,		1834	1855
		Amanda,	"	Oct. 12, 1836

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
1835.	V	Anna M. Eichelberger, }	Centerville, Ind.	Oct. 12, 1875	Jan. 18, 1886
		Henry Beitzell, }
	VI	Sarah Eichelberger, (Mr. Gentry.)	"	1837
Single.		Benjamin F., (U. S. A.)	"	Jan., 1839	June 1, 1864
		Marcellus, (Fanny Henderson)	"	July, 1843
		Irene, (C. M. Walker.)	"	1841
		Mary Lantz, (Mr. Carroll.)	Mt. Vernon, Ill.	1845	1884
		Alice, (W. B. Commons.)	Richmond, Ind.	1847
		Flora, (Albert Vogel.)	Fort Wayne, Ind.	1850
1840.	V	Eliza Eichelberger, }	Indiana.	Oct. 30, 1817	May 18, 1886
		George Frybanger, }	Connersville, Ind.	Dec., 1797	Mar. 26, 1853
	VI	Mary Susan, (Mr. Ripper.)	"	Feb. 22, 1841
		John Tyler,	"	June 15, 1842	Sept. 19, 1842
		Sophia Alice, (Mr. Chitwood.)	"	Sept. 4, 1844
Married.		George,	"	Oct. 4, 1846
		Charles H.,	Carlton, Col.	July 24, 1848
		Franklin Pierce,	Connersville, Ind.	Feb. 26, 1852
	V	Sarah Eichelberger, }		Dec. 9, 1819
		John Reed, }
	VI	Josephine,	Ind. and Newton, Ia.		Oct. 10, 1885
		Mary Gertrude, (Mr. McCord)	California.
		Laura Jane, (Mr. Scott.)	Newton, Iowa.		Mar. 26, 1884
Single		Kate S ,
		Rebecca,
		Horace Mann,	Indiana.		June 28, 1878
		Walter Scott.	California.		Feb. 8, 1880
1850.	V	Louisa Eichelberger, }	Indiana.	Apr. 1, 1830
		Walter Crawford, }
	VI	Jennie, (Mr. Davis; one daughter.)		1852	1854
	V	Rebecca Eichelberger, }	Connersville, Ind	Mar. 10, 1822	July 13, 1872
		Jesse Holton, }		Nov. 6, 1814	July 10, 1866
	VI	Sarah Elizabeth,	Richmond, Ind.	Sept. 8, 1842	Mar. 15, 1856
		Augusta Jane,	"	Dec. 14, 1844	Feb. 5, 1861
		William Henry,	"	Jan. 27, 1848	Apr. 23, 1875
		Charles Payton,	"	Apr. 20, 1857
		Martin C.,	"	Feb. 20, 1854
		George W ,	"	Oct. 12, 1857
		Abraham Lincoln,	"	May 18, 1860

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
1856.	V	Martin Eichelberger, }	Oklahoma.	Dec. 1, 1831	1898
	VI	Henry, }	Kansas.	May 31, 1858	1866
1854	V	Susan Eichelberger, }	York, Pa.	1832	Unknown.
		Alfred Gartman, }	"		"
		No issue.
	V	Amanda Eichelberger, }	Connersville, Ind.	Oct. 12, 1836	1875
	VI	David Mount, }	"
		Mary, (Wm. McFarland)
	IV	Polly Eichelberger, }	York Co., Pa.	Jan., 1793	About 1866
		Martin Ebert, }	York, Pa.		" 1860
		No issue.
	IV	Elizabeth Eichelberger }	York Co., Pa.	Apr. 10, 1795
	V	— Crum, }	Penna. and Kansas.
		Issue unknown.
1920.	IV	Michael Eichelberger, }	York Co., Pa.	Oct. 2, 1796	1834
		Elizabeth ——— }
		No issue.
Jan. 18, 1822.	IV	George Eichelberger }	York Co., Pa.	Feb. 22, 1800	Mar. 10, 1869
	V	Sarah Diehl, }	"	Aug. 23, 1804	Jan. 11, 1865
Single.		Martin,		Mar. 25, 1823
"		Anna Maria,		May 5, 1825	Aug. 29, 1842
		Michael D.,		Mar. 20, 1827	May 14, 1863
		George W.,		Nov. 17, 1829	Feb. 28, 1838
		Franklin,		Mar. 10, 1832
		Charles F.,		July 2, 1834	Apr. 6, 1900
		Sarah,		Apr. 12, 1838	1842
		Louisa Catherine,		July 4, 1842
	V	Martin Eichelberger, }	York Co., Pa.	Mar. 25, 1823	May 26, 1889
	VI	Catherine Geiselman, }		1849	May 19, 1889
		George W.,			1878
		Michael E.,
		Mary A.,
		Emory K.,
	VI	Geo. W. Eichelberger, }		1849	1878
		Jr., }
	VII	Maggie Curry, }			1890
		Son,			1879

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
Single.	VI	Michael E. Eichelberger }
	VII	Ida Low, }
"		Martin Luther,
"		George E.,
		Sadie B.,
April 11, 1893.	VI	Mary A. Eichelberger, }	Hanover, Pa.	July 26, 1862
	VI I	Daniel M. Herbst, }	"
		Martin Alexander,		Oct. 22, 1896
		George Eichelberger,
	VI	Emory K. Eichelberger }	Hanover, Pa.
		Alverta Kindig, }	"
		No issue.
Married	V	Franklin Eichelberger, }	Adams Co., Pa.	Mar. 10, 1832	Deceased.
	VI	Louisa Hershey, }
"		Albert,
Single.		Sallie,
"		Elsie,			Died young.
Married.		Willie,			"
"		Hiram,	"
"		Riley,	"
"		Charles,	"
"		Howard,	"
"		Edward,	"
"		Cora,	"
"		George,	"
	V	Michael D. Eichelberg- }		Mar. 20, 1827	May 14, 1863
	VI	er, }
		Elizabeth Hershey,
		Heury,
		Edward,
	V	Charles F. Eichelberger }	York Co., Pa.	July 2, 1834	Apr. 6, 1900
	VI	Susan Menges, }
		Martin,	Hanover, Pa.
		Ira, (Miss Baumgart- }	York Co., Pa.
		ner.)
		George,	"
		William, (Ida Waters.)	"
		Ella, (Mr. Bollinger.)	"
		Clara, (Mr. Hershey.)	"
		Ada, (Mr. Raber.)	"
		Jennie, (Mr. Miller.)	"
	V	Louisa Catherine Eich- }	Hanover, Pa.
		elberger, }
		William Jacob Young, }	"
		(Given elsewhere.)

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
		SAMUEL'S LINE.
Mar. 25, 1815.	IV	John Adam Eichelberger, Rebecca Nace, No issue.	York Co, Pa. Maryland.	Nov. 26, 1791	Jan. 2, 1818
Dec. 5, 1822.	IV	Samuel S. Eichelberger } Elizabeth W. Rudisill, }	Pa. and Maryland. Carroll Co., Md.	Mar. 6, 1801	July 28, 1855
Single.	V	Andrew, Samuel C., Anna, Frederick Emanuel, Washington, Jacob H., Maria, Adam S.,	Maryland.	Dec. 26, 1823 June 6, 1826 Apr. 11, 1831 1834 Sept. 20, 1836 Feb. 8, 1839 Dec. 13, 1843 July 6, 1841	1848
Apr. 23, 1853.	V	Andrew Eichelberger, } Isabelle B. Keyser, }	Maryland and Pilot Grove, Mo.	Dec. 26, 1823	Apr. 3, 1900 May 25, 1892
Single.	VI	George W., James M., Andrew Hoke, Jonathan Newton. Charles E, Sarah Elizabeth,	California and Mo. Pilot Grove, Mo.	July 28, 1855 Feb. 20, 1858 Dec. 14, 1859 Jan. 14, 1854 Dec. 29, 1856 Apr. 20, 1862	Aug 30, 1875 Jan 4, 1861
1893	V	Andrew Eichelberger, } Mrs. S. L. Phillips, No issue.	Pilot Grove, Mo. "	Dec. 26, 1823	Apr. 3, 1900
Dec. 13, 1884.	VI	Rev. George Eichelberger, D. D., Anna B Bowling,	80 Institute Place, Chicago, Ill.	July 28, 1855	Nov. 6, 1896
Single.	VII	Roberta Bowling,	Ky. and Chicago, Ill. Chicago, Ill.	Feb. 10, 1888
Nov. 13, 1879.	VI	James M. Eichelberger, } Mary Alice Cordry, }	Pilot Grove, Mo. "	Feb. 20, 1858
	VII	Jasper Earl, Alma Pearl, Anna B, Eula M., Roger, William Andrew, Gertrude, James Grey Wood, Wear,	" " " " " " " "	Feb. 14, 1881 May 15, 1883 July 25, 1885 Oct. 28, 1887 Mar. 6, 1890 Aug. 17, 1892 Sept. 28, 1894 July 19, 1897 Apr. 4, 1900	Aug. 26, 1884

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
Mar. 2, 1886.	VI	Andrew Hoke Eichel- berger, }	Pilot Grove, Mo.	Dec 14, 1859
	VII	Sallie Tavener, Clara Myrtle, Lillian S., Bessie E., Andrew M., Hall, }	" " " "	Mar. 31, 1887 Nov. 15, 1888 Nov. 27, 1890 Aug 29, 1892
Dec. 21, 1881.	VI	Sarah E. Eichelberger, } Rev. A. M. Buchanan, } No issue.	Pilot Grove, Mo. Moberly Co., Mo.	Mar. 20, 1862
	V	Samuel C. Eichelberger }	Carroll Co., Md.	June 6, 1826	Mar. 12, 1863
	VI	Margaret Fogle, Babe, George, }			Died in inf'y
	VI	George Eichelberger, }	Near Lewistown, Md.
	VII	Emma ——— George, Elizabeth, Charles, Nellie, Martin, Raymond, Bessie, John, Rheda, Rubie, }
	V	Anna Eichelberger, }	Lewistown, Md.	Apr. 11, 1831
	VI	William Dommer, } Issue, but unknown.	"
June 20, 1866.	V	Washington Eichelber- ger, }	Pilot Grove, Mo.	Sept. 20, 1836	July 9, 1898
	VI	Maria Jane Merritt, Jacob Lee, Daisy Annie, Thomas S., Susie Myrtle, Nathaniel Henry, Tessie, }	" " " "	Aug. 19, 1868 June 10, 1875 Aug. 11, 1876 Feb. 22, 1880 Oct. 17, 1882
Single. " "
1895.	VI	J. Lee Eichelberger, }	Pilot Grove, Mo.	Aug. 19, 1868
	VII	Harriet Custer, Henry, }	"	189-

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
Nov. 1896	VI VII	Daisy A. Eichelberger, } Frank Oswald, } Blanche,	Pilot Grove, Mo.	June 10, 1875
1872.	V	Jacob H Eichelberger, } Emma Freshour, }	Lewistown, Md.	Feb. 8, 1839	Nov. 12, 1885
Single.	VI	Clara E., Elsie E.,	" "	May 10, 1874 Jan. 21, 1878	June 12, 1882
June 10, 1860.	V VI	Maria Eichelberger, } David Mowry, } Florence, Lillie, (Mr. Tavener) Samuel, John, Lula M., Winfield.	Pilot Grove, Mo. " " " " "	Dec. 13, 1843 Oct. 17, 1861 Sept. 16, 1870 July 30, 1872 Aug. 16, 1874 Dec. 6, 1876 Feb. 7, 1881
Sept. 9, 1867.	V VI	Adam S. Eichelberger, } Savilla C. Favorite, } Harvey C., Elsie, Frank,	Pilot Grove, Mo " " " "	July 6, 1841 Sept 30, 1837 May 14, 1869 July 12, 1871 Oct. 25, 1878	Sept. 9, 1875
Oct. 1890.	VI VII	Harvey C Eichelberger } Mollie Helms, } Mabel, Clayton,	Pilot Grove, Mo.	May 16, 1893 Sept 19, 1895
Mar. 25, 1823.	IV V	Susannah Eichelberger } Henry Rudisill, }	York Co., Pa. Heidelberg, Twp.	Oct. 9, 1803	Aug. 23, 1851
Feb. 27, 1831.	IV V	Elizabeth Eichelberger } John Bixler, }	York Co., Pa	Jan. 8, 1806	Apr. 13, 1858
Mar. 10, 1831.	IV V	Jacob S. Eichelberger, } Mary Mechlin, } Sarah Eichelberger, Louisa M., Adam S. M., Johannah C. M., Wm Henry D., U.S.A. Joseph Monroe, Mary Ellen M., Miriam Alice, Nelson,	York Co., Pa. " " " " " " " " Hanover, Pa. " Hanover and Balto.	Mar. 9, 1808 May 9, 1812 Dec 31, 1831 Oct. 14, 1834 Nov. 22, 1837 Feb. 24, 1841 Mar. 8, 1844 Oct. 4, 1847 Sept. 28, 1851 July 2, 1853 Feb. 10, 1856	Oct. 16, 1877 July 17, 1894
Single.					Jan. 25, 1865
"					Oct. 16, 1878
"					Jan. 26, 1874

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
May 11, 1854.	V VI	Sarah E. Eichelberger, } Barney Rudisill, }	York Co., Pa.	Dec. 31, 1831
Apr. 27, 1858.	V VI	Louisa M. Eichelberger } Adam Smith, } Emma B., (F. D. Dun- lap.) Savilla Alice, (E. E. Haggerty.) Clara, (W. M. Keller) Sharon E., (Blanche Shultz.)	York Co., Pa. Phillipsburg, Pa. Hanover, Pa. "	Oct. 14, 1834	Deceased. Jan. 22, 1899
Oct. 6, 1861.	V VI	Adam S. M. Eichelber- } ger, } Sarah H. Sheaffer, } Isaac S., } Alexander S., }	York Co., Pa. Pa, Los Angeles, Cal. Maryland.	Nov. 22, 1837 Unknown. June 25, 1862 Feb. 22, 1864	Feb. 5, 1865 Unknown.
Mar. 12, 1865.	V VI	Johannah C. M. Eich- } elberger, } Jacob S. Bealing, } Alverta, (Albert Roller) Lily M., (Mr. Bowman) Isaac J., (Miss Yealy)	Hanover, Pa. " " " "	Feb. 24, 1841 Apr. 26, 1866 May 26, 1868 Nov. 15, 1873
	V VI	Nelson Eichelberger, } Anna Strawsbach, } William Jacob,	Hanover and Balto. Hanover, Pa.	Feb. 10, 1856 Aug. 6, 1880	About 1883 Sept. 21, 1881
	V	Nelson Eichelberger, } Lilly Russel, }	Hanover and Balto.	Feb. 10, 1856	Deceased.
	IV V	George Eichelberger, } _____ }	Cumberland Co. Pa., and Ohio.	Nov. 2, 1797
1827.	IV V V VI	Adam Eichelberger, } _____ Simon, William, Simon Eichelberger, } _____ }	Cumberland Co. Pa., and Ohio. Ashland, Ohio.	Oct., 1801 Apr. 20, 1828 1831 Apr. 20, 1828	Aug., 1891

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
	IV	Samuel Eichelberger, }
	V	_____
	IV	Henry Eichelberger, }
	V	_____
	IV	Elizabeth Eichelberger }
	V	John Robb, _____ }
	IV	Elizabeth E. Robb, }
	V	_____ Harmon, (2d mar.) }
	IV	Susannah Eichelberger }
	V	David Orris, _____ }
	IV	Sarah Eichelberger, }
	V	John Miller, _____ }
	IV	Mary Eichelberger, }
	V	_____ Speer, _____ }
<hr/>
Line of Adam's Second Marriage.
	IV	Isabelle Eichelberger, }
	V	_____ Benizer, _____ }
	IV	Hetty Eichelberger, }
	V	_____ Crider, _____ }
	IV	Susea Eichelberger, }
	V	_____ Hichnell, _____ }

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
1854.	V	William Eichelberger, }	Cumberland Co. Pa., and Ohio.	1831	1893
	VI	Susan Mell, }
Single.		John Adam,	Wayne Co , Ohio. Stevenson Co., Ill.	June 6, 1855
		William Allen,		Jan. 26, 1858
		Benjamin Franklin,		May 10, 1859
		Harvey A ,		Oct. 27, 1860
		Joseph Elmer,		Apr. 7, 1863
		Ella Mary,
		Selesta A ,		Dec. 8, 1867
		Celia Mary,		Jan. 24, 1871
	VI	John A. Eichelberger, }	Ashland Co., Ohio, and Indiana.	June 6, 1855
	VII	Minnie Bengle, }
		Ada,
		Ray,
		Roy,
	VI	W. Allen Eichelberger }	Ohio.	Jan. 26, 1858
	VII	Ida Ergle, }
		Edna,
	VI	Benj. F. Eichelberger, }	Wayne Co., Ohio.	May 10, 1859
	VII	Bessie Prince, }
		Grace,
	VI	Harvey A Eichelberger }	Wayne Co., Ohio.	Oct. 27, 1860
	VII	Jessie Weaver, }
		Earl,
	VI	Joseph E Eichelberger }	Freeport, Ill.	Apr. 7, 1863
	VII	Olive Clark, }
		Clark Elmer,	"
		Joseph Herbert,	"
	VI	Selesta Eichelberger, }	Freeport, Ill.	Dec. 8, 1867
	VII	Jerome Boyer, }
		Helen,
	VI	Celia M. Eichelberger, }	Stephenson Co , Ill.	Jan. 24, 1871
		Charles Shoesmith, }

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
JOSEPH'S LINE.
1828.	IV	James Eichelberger, } M. D.	Emmitsburg, Md.	June 17, 1804	Aug 12, 1895
Single	V	Anna Motter, } Gustavus M., } Motter, } Mary Elizabeth, } Marian F., } Charles Dicks, } Columbia M., } James M., } Anna M., }	" " " " " " " "	Feb. 17, 1808 June 26, 1829 Sept. 24, 1832 Oct. 18, 1831 May 7, 1837 Mar. 2, 1835 Aug. 28, 1839 Oct. 5, 1841 Jan. 3, 1844	Aug. 19, 1888 Oct. 26, 1829 Dec. 17, 1850 Dec. 21, 1852
	V	Mary E. Eichelberger, } Rev. C. J. Ehrhart, } No issue.	Emmitsburg, Md.	Oct. 18, 1831	Deceased.
	V	James M. Eichelberger } M. D., }	Emmitsburg, Md.
	VI	Minnie Hoke, } Charles Dicks, Jr., }
	V	Anna M. Eichelberger, } Eugene Rowe, }
	VI	Mary Belle,
Nov. 29, 1832.	IV	Job Dicks Eichelberger } Amy Ann Boomer, }	Rocky Ridge, Md.	Oct 23, 1808	Aug. 25, 1850
Single.	V	Anna Margaret } Joseph Niles, } twins.	"	May 12, 1836	1898
"		Elizabeth Jane, John James, Emma Johanna,	Cincinnati, Ohio. Maryland. Paris, Kentucky. "	Feb. 15, 1838 Dec. 25, 1839 Nov. 7, 1847	1871
Nov. 27, 1851.	IV	Job Dicks Eichelberger } Maria H. Cloud, }	Maryland.	Mar 22, 1819
Single.	V	Mary F., Martha Dicks, Melvina Rebecca, Helen Maria, Jessie Cloud,	" " " " "	Sept. 24, 1852 Sept. 13, 1854 July 3, 1856 Mar. 28, 1859	1876
	V	Anna M. Eichelberger, } Benjamin Durall, }	Frederick Co., Md		Deceased.
	VI	Wilbur H ,	Frederick, Md.
	V	Elizabeth J. Eichelber- } ger, }			Sept. 10, 1865
	VI	John H. Williams, Preston H.,	Kentucky. Versailles, Ky.

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
Jan 6, 1876.	V	Emma J. Eichelberger, }	Rocky Ridge, Md.	Nov. 7, 1847
	VI	Charles J. Barrick, }		Oct. 26, 1846
		George Dicks, "	"	Nov. 5, 1878
		Charles Newell, "	"	Dec. 19, 1876	July 2, 1887
		Harry W., "	"	Feb. 4, 1881
		Grove Eichelberger, "	"	Dec. 6, 1884
		Nannie Susan, "	"	Feb. 22, 1887	Sept., 1887
		Morris Victor, "	"	Jan. 5, 1892
		Children of Job's second marriage.
	V	Mary F. Eichelberger, }	Johnstown, Pa.
	VI	Benjamin Gobin, }
	V	Martha D Eichelberger }	Omaha, Nebraska.
	VI	J. S. Valentine, }
	V	Jessie C. Eichelberger, }	Johnstown, Pa.
		— Norcroft, }
	IV	Joanna Eichelberger, }	Maryland.	Sept. 13, 1806	Unknown.
		— Miller, }
	IV	Josephine Eichelberger }	Maryland.	Apr. 5, 1810	Unknown.
		— Otto, }
		LINE OF SALOME, Youngest child of Capt. Adam.
	IV	Joseph Eichelberger }	York Co., Pa.	Jan. 19, 1813	July 9, 1874
		Cremer, }
	V	Rebecca Wirt, }	Hanover, Pa.	Oct. 9, 1822	July 26, 1866
Single.		Charles Edwin, }	Chester, Pa.	Sept. 10, 1847	Dec. 8, 1883
"		Henry Wirt, }	Hanover, Pa.	Jan. 8, 1841	Nov. 7, 1891
	IV	Charles Cremer, }	Hanover, Pa.	July, 1815	Sept. 6, 1850
		Polly Bollinger, }
	V	Salome, (Mr. Bender.)	Manchester, Kansas.	1840
		John Adam, "	Hanover, Pa.	Feb. 17, 1842
		Anna Maria, (Mr. Wolf)	"
Single.		Joseph Eichelberger, "	"	1847	Jan., 1876
"		Amelia E, "	"	1850	1867
	V	John Adam Cremer, }	Hanover, Pa.	Feb. 17, 1842
		Catherine Reiff, }
Single.	VI	Frank Eugene, "	"	1875
"		Mary Katherine, "	"	1880
"		Charles Henry, "	"	1882
"		Joseph Eichelberger, "	"	1884

Line of Jacob Eichelberger,

Second Son of Philip Frederick Eichelberger and His Second Wife,
Magdalene.

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
	II	Jacob Eichelberger, }	Hanover, Pa.	Sept. 26, 1746	Aug. 14, 1811
	III	Anna Maria Reinacker } Jacob,	"	Mar. 26, 1752 Apr. 24, 1775	May 19, 1837
1796.	III	Jacob Eichelberger, }	Hanover, Pa.	Apr. 24, 1775	Aug. 18, 1843
	IV	Elizabeth Nace, }	"	Dec., 1797	Mar. 4, 1872
		Louisa,	"	Mar. 10, 1799	Mar. 26, 1872
		Maria,	"	Aug 20, 1800	June 10, 1841
		Eliza,	"		Died young.
		Susanah,
1819.	IV	Louisa Eichelberger, }	Hanover, Pa.	Dec., 1797	Mar. 4, 1872
		George Trone, }	"	1788	1875
	V	Anna Maria, (Adam	"	1820	1843
		Hinkle; no issue.)
Single.		Albert Eichelberger,	Florida.	1822	July 7, 1890
		Louisa Elizabeth, (D.Q.	Hanover, Pa.	Sept. 15, 1826	July 12, 1896
		Albright; no issue.)
		Matthias Edmund,	"	Oct. 20, 1824
		Catherine M,	"	1828
"		Pamela,	"
		George Eichelberger,	"	1832
"		Daniel,	"	1834	Jan 26, 1882
		Samuel Emanuel,	"	1837
June 3, 1851.	V	Matthias E Trone, }	Hanover, Pa.	Oct. 20, 1824	Mar. 17, 1853
Single.	VI	Catherine J. Hinkle, }	"		July 17, 1859
		Emily J.,	"
	V	Catherine M. Trone, }	Hanover, Pa.	1828	June 23, 1892
		Absalom G. Schmidt, }
Single.	VI	Martha Louisa	Washington, D. C.
		Rev. Ambrose M., (Miss	Lancaster, Pa.
		Stauffer; one son.)
		George T., (Miss Krebs;	Hanover, Pa.	Oct. 12, 1859 four boys.)
		Catherine M., (Mr. Na-	Washington, D. C.	1861 gle; one son)

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
	V	George E. Trone, }	Hanover, Pa.	1832	Dec. 7, 1890
	VI	Amelia Stark, }	"
		Ella O., (Dr. J. A. Mel-	" sheimer; 2 children)
		Maurice N.,
		Twins,			Died in inf'y
	V	Samuel E. Trone, }	Hanover, Pa.
	VI	Louisa Thomas, }	"
Single		Mabel K., (Harry K.	" Schrivver; no issue.)
		Ralph E.,
	IV	Eliza Eichelberger, }	Westminster, Md.	Aug. 20, 1800
		Michael Barnitz, }		Jan. 8, 1797
	V	Elizabeth S.,		Jan. 31, 1820
		Covington,		Apr. 19, 1822
Dec. 29, 1842.	V	Elizabeth Barnitz, }	Philadelphia, Pa.	Jan. 31, 1820	May 6, 1900
		Rev. Joseph Seiss, D.D. }
		LL D.,
	VI	Helen Elizabeth, (Mr.	"
		Vanderslice, D. D.S; no living issue.)
Single.		Mary Louisa,	"
"		Covington Few,	"
"		Lennie Josephine,	"
		Ralph William, M. D.,	" (Virginia Taylor; no issue.)
	V	Covington Barnitz, }	Baltimore, Md.
		Anna C. Claggett, }
	VI	John C.,	"	May 20, 1851	Apr. 16, 1852
		Grace, (Mr. Worthing-	" ton, deceased.)
Single.		Anna Covington,	"
	IV	Maria Eichelberger, }	Hanover, Pa.	Mar. 20, 1799	Mar. 26, 1872
		Jacob Young, }		Dec. 4 1795	June 8, 1875
	V	Alexander,	Adams Co., Pa.	Mar. 27, 1824
		Ann Eliza,	Hanover, Pa.	Dec. 12, 1825
		Edward Eichelberger,	"	Nov. 28, 1827
		Maria Louisa,	"	Sept 22, 1829
		Henry Augustus,	"	May 26, 1832
		Cornelius,	"	May 9, 1835
		William Jacob,	"	June 14, 1838
Dec. 19, 1820.
Single.

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
June 20, 1848.	V	Alexander Young, }	Hanover, Pa.	Mar. 27, 1824	Nov. 16, 1873
	VI	Rebecca Felty, }	"
Single.		Rose Elizabeth,	"
		George W.,	"
		Rebecca Jane,	"
		Jacob H., (Agnes Rebert, deceased.)	"
April 18, 1854.	V	Edward E. Young, }	Hanover, Pa.	Nov. 28, 1827	May 6, 1857
Married.	VI	Elizabeth Alexander, }		Jan. 6, 1826	Sept. 12, 1888
		Hugh, (Has children)
May 19, 1853.	V	Maria Louisa Young, }	Hanover, Pa.	Sept. 22, 1829	1899
	VI	Henry L. Sprenkle, }	"	Sept. 27, 1827	Feb. 3, 1857
		Hamilton Young,	"
		Mary J.,
Dec. 17, 1857.	V	Henry A. Young, }	Hanover, Pa.	May 26, 1832	Mar. 27, 1899
		Catherine Reiff, }		1829	Apr. 13, 1889
		No issue.
	V	Henry A. Young, }
		Mrs. Elizabeth Mickley,
		No issue.
Oct. 25, 1870.	V	Cornelius Young, }	Hanover, Pa.	May 9, 1835
Single.	VI	Nancy Bechtel, }	"
		Alverta,	"
Jan. 3, 1861.	V	William Jacob Young, }	Hanover, Pa.
	VI	Louisa C. Eichelberger,	"
		Ida,	"
		Sarah B.,	Baltimore, Md.
		Robert L.,	Omaha, Nebraska
		Cora,	Hanover, Pa.
		Grace M.,	"
		Anna Katherine,	"
Single.		Carrie M.,	"
"		Edward B.,	Baltimore, Md.
"		Helen E.,	Hanover, Pa.
"		Henry William,	"
	VI	George W. Young, }	Hanover, Pa.
	VII	Ella Weikert,	"
		Ada,
	VI	Rose Elizabeth Young, }	Hanover, Pa.
	VII	Levi H. Eckert,	"
		Georgia,
		Paul,	"	1885	Died young.

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
Apr. 30, 1878.	VI	Hamilton Y. Sprengle, }	Hanover, Pa.
Single.	VII	Anna George, }	"
"		Arthur George,	Pittsburg, Pa.	Feb. 21, 1881
"		Walter Young,	Hanover, Pa.	Feb. 4, 1884
"		Emma,	"	May 24, 1888
"		Louise,	"	May 28, 1890
Jan. 17, 1882.	VI	Mary J. Sprengle, }	Philadelphia, Pa.
	VII	John Luther Long, }	"
		Bayard Henry,	"
	VI	Ida Young, }	Hanover, Pa.
	VII	John H. Brough, }	"
		Charles Young,	"
		Katie,	"
		Myra,	"
	VI	Sarah B. Young, }	Baltimore, Md.
	VII	George A. Klinefelter, }	"
		Edward,	"		Deceased.
		Katie,	"
	VI	Robert L. Young, }	Omaha, Nebraska.
	VII	Nellie Morris, }	"
		William M.,	"
June 2, 1892.	VI	Cora Young, }	Hanover, Pa.
	VII	H. M. Alleman, M. D., }	"
		Winnemore Young,	"
Oct. 20, 1893.	VI	Grace M. Young, }	Hanover, Pa.
	VII	Harry C. Naill, }	"
		Richard Young,	"	Apr. 21, 1896
		Catherine Elizabeth,	"	Mar. 17, 1899
Sept. 1898	VI	Anna K. Young, }	Hanover, Pa.
		Frank H. Jenkins, }	"

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
2d wife.	III	Jacob Eichelberger, }	Hanover, Pa.	Apr. 24, 1775	Aug. 18, 1843
	IV	Maria Wirt, }		Sept. 19, 1787	Aug. 28, 1865
		Matthew,	Gettysburg, Pa.	Oct. 27, 1807
		Jacob,	Hanover and Ala.	Aug. 28, 1811
		Henry,	Hanover, Pa.	Oct. 27, 1813
		Catherine M.,	Penna. and Georgia.	May 4, 1817
		Abdiel W.,	Hanover, Pa.	Dec. 6, 1819
		Rufus A.,	"	May 20, 1822
		Amanda,	Hanover and Oxford	Sept. 14, 1826
		Amelia H.,	Hanover, Pa.
	IV	Matthew Eichelberger, }	Gettysburg, Pa.	Oct. 27, 1807	May 23, 1893
		Mrs. Ickes; maiden }			Nov. 9, 1893
		name, Sarah Tucker }
		No issue.
1840.	IV	Jacob Eichelberger, }	Oxford, Alabama.	Aug. 28, 1811	Nov. 4, 1881
	V	Assenath Scoggins, }		July 20, 1820	Mar. 23, 1870
		Elizabeth,		July 25, 1842
		Anna Maria,		July 21, 1844	Died young
		Charles W.,		July 10, 1846
		John W.,		May 29, 1848	"
		Catherine,		June 18, 1850
		Mary,		Sept. 23, 1852
		Martha,		Oct. 1, 1854
		Jacob,		Jan. 25, 1857	"
		George W.,		Sept. 18, 1859
Dec., 1871	IV	Jacob Eichelberger, }
		Mrs. Charlotte Allen, }
Single.	IV	Henry Eichelberger,	Hanover, Pa.	Oct. 27, 1813	Feb. 28, 1890
Dec., 1839	IV	Catherine Eichelberger }	Pa., then to Georgia	May 4, 1817	Sept. 8, 1868
	V	Samuel Alex. McCosh, }	in 1844.		1864
		Mary Wirt,	Georgia.	Jan., 1841
		James Eichelberger,	Alabama.	May 12, 1843
		Louisa Deborah,	"	Apr. 14, 1845
		Samuel Alexander,	Georgia	June 22, 1848
		Cornelius Rufus,	Hanover, Pa.	May 29, 1850
		Henry Clay,	Buried at Hanover.	1852	1852
		Catherine M.,	Atlanta, Georgia.	July, 1854
Single.	IV	Abdiel Wirt Eichelberger	Hanover, Pa.	Dec. 6, 1819
Single.	IV	Rufus A. Eichelberger,	Hanover, Pa.	May 20, 1822	Aug. 3, 1885
Dec. 16, 1847.	IV	Amanda Eichelberger, }	New Oxford, Pa.	Sept. 14, 1826	May 2, 1871
	V	Abdiel F. Gitt, }	"	Jan. 27, 1823
		Mary F.,	"
		Catherine Wirt,	"
Single.	IV	Amelia H. Eichelberger,	Hanover, Pa.

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
Aug. 22, 1858.	V VI	Elizabeth Eichelberger } Jesse Garrett, } Mary Kate, Sarah Frances,	Alabama. " "	July 25, 1842 July 8, 1832 Apr. 15, 1860 Mar. 16, 1862	Apr. 30, 1891
Jan. 26, 1893.	V	Elizabeth E Garrett, } A. B. Mullins, (2d mar) }			Mar. 17, 1895
Oct. 1, 1865.	V VI	Chas. W. Eichelberger, } Nancy Thomas Brooks } Stella Blanche, Pauline D, Jacob Wirt, Maggie Thomas,	Rock Mills, Ala. " " " "	July 10, 1846 1850 Dec. 1, 1871 Feb. 23, 1873 Oct. 14, 1876 Sept. 14, 1880	1880 Apr. 14, 1880
Jan. 1, 1881.	V VI	Chas. W. Eichelberger, } Irene Taylor, (2d mar) } Katherine W., Charles Henry,	Rock Mills, Ala. " "	Feb. 1, 1883 Sep. 27, 1885
Oct. 28, 1866.	V VI	Catherine Eichelberger } John M. Sudduth, } Anna M., John W., Charles V., Ora A., Mary C., Estella, Jacob L.,	Alabama and Texas. " " Alabama. Alabama and Texas. Texas and Oklahoma Texas. " "	June 18, 1850 Dec. 31, 1840 Nov. 1, 1867 Nov. 4, 1869 June 29, 1871 Feb. 24, 1874 Sept. 4, 1876 Sept. 9, 1879 Jan. 28, 1882	Feb. 23, 1882 Aug. 22, 1889 Sept. 14, 1871 Sept. 5, 1878 June 25, 1882
1877.	V VI	Martha Eichelberger, } George Cunningham, } Newton Eichelberger, James Pratt, Mary Katherine,	Alabama. "	Oct. 1, 1854 Oct. 10, 1880 July 12, 1883 Aug. 18, 1885	1886
1867	V VI	Mary Eichelberger, } Thomas Holly, } Mary Ida, Carro-Belle, George W., Martha B., Kate C., Amelia Eichelberger, Charles W., (Anna Green)	Rock Mills, Ala. Alabama.	Aug. 23, 1852 Sept. 9, 1868 Dec. 1, 1869 Dec. 16, 1875 Apr. 29, 1874 Sept. 27, 1877 Jan. 16, 1889 Dec. 11, 1879	About 1890

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
July, 1899	V	George W. Eichelberger }	near Savannah, Ga.	Sept 18, 1859
		Emma F. Allen, }	"
	VI	Paul Metzgar,	"	Aug. 26, 1881
		Annie Ray, (William	Meldrin Georgia.	July 11, 1883
		Turner.)
		Jacob Allen,	Georgia.	June 30, 1886	Sept 5, 1886
		George Ralph,	near Savannah, Ga.	June 28, 1887	July 1, 1900
		Sallie Mae,	"	Dec. 16, 1888
		John Abdiel,	"	Nov. 20, 1890
		Amanda Blanche,	"	Nov 18, 1892
Dec. 27, 1899.		Amelia Blonell,	"	"	Apr. 18, 1893
		Augustus Lee,	"	June 27, 1894
		Albert Wirt,	"	Feb. 4, 1897
		Rufus Alton,	"	July 7, 1898
	V	Mary W. McCosh, }	Alabama.	Jan., 1841	Mar. 1, 1896
		N. E. Baker, }
	VI	Mary Louise, (W. A.	Norfolk, Virginia.	Oct. 4, 1871
		Gilham.)	Alabama.
		James Henry,	"	Feb. 7, 1873
		Cornelius Edwin,	"	Oct. 12, 1875
Jan. 1870		Silas Whitton,	"	Feb. 7, 1878
	V	James E. McCosh, }	Alabama.	May 12, 1843
		Mary E Birdsong, }		Jan. 15, 1850
	VI	Samuel Abdiel,	"	Sept. 29, 1871
		Anna Rebecca,	"	Nov. 13, 1872
		John Birdsong,	"	Aug. 27, 1876
		Ruth,	"	May 31, 1878
	V	Louisa D. McCosh, }	Rock Mills, Ala.	Apr. 14, 1845	Dec. 5, 1900
		James H. Hines, }		Jan. 4, 1848
	VI	Nancy Katherine	"	Sept. 14, 1870
Apr. 22, 1879.		Cornelius Elmer,	"	Dec 25, 1872
		James Alexander,	"	Aug. 28, 1878
		Sarah Louise,	"	Nov. 3, 1880
		Annie Dimon,	"	Mar. 15, 1883
		Mary Wirt,	"	Jan. 9, 1885
	V	Samuel A. McCosh, }	Atlanta, Georgia	June 22, 1848	May 4, 1890
		Louise W Kellogg, }		Nov. 19, 1859
	VI	James Nathaniel,	Hanover, Pa.	Apr. 6, 1881
		Rufus Eichelberger,	"	Aug. 7, 1883
		Marshall Kellogg,	"	Dec. 3, 1885
1879		Louise Alice,	"	Oct. 31, 1888
	V	Cornelius R. McCosh, }	Hanover, Pa	May 29, 1850
		Nancy E. Baugher, }	"	Jan. 9, 1857
	VI	Irma Kathryn,	"	Sept. 23, 1879
		Henry Eichelberger,	"	Aug. 13, 1881
		Robert Alexander,	"	Nov. 24, 1882
		Louise Baugher,	"	May 20, 1889

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
1875.	V	Catherine McCosh, }	Atlanta, Georgia.	July, 1854	Aug. 12, 1895
	VI	James A. Ware, }	"		1894
Single.		Alexander M.,	"	1875	1894
"		James Melville,	Alabama.	Mar 28, 1880
"		John Matthew,	"	July 15, 1883
		Cornelius,	"	Aug. 3, 1888
Mar. 14, 1872.	V	Mary F. Gitt, }	New Oxford, Pa		Jan. 8, 1899
	VI	Paul Hersh, }	Washington, D. C.
		No issue.
Apr. 19, 1877	V	Catherine W Gitt, }	New Oxford, Pa.
Single	VI	William A. Himes, }	"
"		Anna Katherine,	"
"		Amelia Eichelberger,	"
"		Helen Lanius,	"
"		William D.,	"
Apr 30, 1876	VI	Mary Catherine Garrett }	Texas.	Apr. 15, 1860
	VII	W. B. DeArman, }	"
		Estelle J ,	"	Oct. 10, 1878
		Jessie L.,	"	Apr 10, 1881
		Storie T.,	"	Dec 29, 1884
		Rufus A.,	"	May 13, 1887
		Elizabeth,	"	Dec. 7, 1889
		Monnie B.,	"	Mar. 26, 1895
		Herbert H.,	"	Feb. 11, 1899
Nov. 25, 1877.	VI	Sarah Frances Garrett, }	Texas.	Mar. 16, 1862
	VII	C. L. Cunningham, }	"
		Jessie H.,	"	Jan. 25, 1879
		Kate S.,	"	Jan. 24, 1881	Nov. 4, 1885
		George Eichelberger,	"	Jan 4, 1883	May 22, 1886
		Louis B.,	"	Mar. 5, 1885
		Abdiel W.,	"	Aug. 15, 1887
		Charles L.,	"	Jan. 19, 1889
		Mary E.,	"	May 20, 1891
		Mattie Florence,	"	Jan. 12, 1894	May 27, 1896
		Elma Ray,	"	Dec. 14, 1898
Nov. 26, 1885.	VI	Anna M. Sudduth, }	Wise Co., Texas.
	VII	H. R. Mullins, M. D. }	"
		Maud,	"	Sept. 19, 1886
		Kate S.,	"	Aug. 5, 1888
		Lemuel Eichelberger,	"	Sept. 18, 1890
		Ruby G.,	"	Jan. 9, 1895
		Mary R.	"	Mar. 5, 1898
Jan. 16, 1891.	VI	Ora F Sudduth, }	Texas.
	VII	R F Forrester, }	Oklahoma.
		Maggie L		Dec. 8, 1891	Nov., 1893
		George W.		Sep. 12, 1893

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
1891.	VI	Mary J. Holly, }	Alabama.
	VII	Glove Truitt, M D. }	"
		Keener Holly,	"	Sept. 9, 1892
		Webbie DeCosta,	"	July 10, 1897
		Clifford,	"	Mar. 14, 1899
	VI	Carro Belle Holly, }	Alabama.
		William White, }	"
	VI	George W. Holly, }	Alabama.
	VII	Irene R, }	"	Oct. 7, 1898
	VI	Charles Wirt Holly, }	Alabama.
		Anna Green, }	"
	VI	N. Katherine Hines, }	Alabama.
	VII	— Hilt, M. D., }	"
		Irma Louise,		Apr. 27, 1895
		James Hines,		Apr. 23, 1897
	VI	Elmer Hines, }	Alabama.
	VII	— — — }
		James Roy,		Mar. 15, 1896
		Baby,		Dec. 17, 1899

Line of Leonard Eichelberger,

Third Son of Philip Frederick Eichelberger and His Second Wife, Magdalene.

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
1775.	II III	Leonard Eichelberger, } Elizabeth Smyser, } Jacob, Mary M., Sarah, Frederick, George M., John, Elizabeth, Lydia, Susan, Catherine,	York Co., Pa.	Aug. 12, 1750 Mar. 11, 1753 1776 Jan. 20, 1778 Apr., 1781 Aug. 24, 1783 Feb. 11, 1784 Feb. 5, 1787 Mar. 3, 1789 Nov. 7, 1792 1794 Apr. 6, 1795	Feb. 14, 1811 Jan. 26, 1817 Drowned, Aug. 12, 1810
	III IV	Jacob Eichelberger, } Elizabeth Dinkle, } Eliza, Catherine, Maria,	York, Pa. "	1776 Oct. 9, 1807 1809 1812	June 17, 1831 Oct. 9, 1832
Mar. 8, 1827.	IV V	Eliza Eichelberger, } Geo. L. Shearer, M. D. } Jacob Eichelberger, Susanah Elizabeth, James Mitchell, George Lewis, Frederick Eichelberger Maria Henrietta, Niles Harrison, Juliette, M. D., Catherine Louisa, Edgar,	Dillsburg, Pa.	Oct. 9, 1807 Mar. 21, 1801 Jan. 21, 1828 Feb. 21, 1832 Dec. 26, 1833 Oct. 16, 1835 Mar. 27, 1838 Apr. 5, 1840 Mar. 29, 1842 Jan., 1844 Feb. 4, 1846 May 19, 1848	June 6, 1895 Feb., 1868 Feb. 2, 1828 Feb. 14, 1834 Dec. 14, 1881
Single.			Washington, D. C.
"			York, Pa.
	V VI	Geo. L. Shearer, D. D., } Mary Ketchum, } Mary Young, Elizabeth, Leander Y., Edith, George, Catherine, Conway Wing Margaret,	New York City. " " " " " " " "	Oct. 16, 1835	Died young.

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
	V	Frederick E. Shearer, }	New York City.
		D. D., }	"
	VI	Kate B. Russell, }	"
		Louisa Russell, }	"		Deceased.
		George Louis, }	"
		Kitty, }	"
		Anna Dampert, }	"
		Frederick E., Jr., }	"
		Margery, }	"
	V	Maria H. Shearer, }	York or Baltimore.	Nov. 3, 1837	Apr. 20, 1866
		William Dyson, }	"
	VI	Logan, }
	V	Mrs. Maria H. Dyson, }	York or Baltimore.		Dec. 27, 1882
		Edward Wagoner, }	"
	V	Jas. M. Shearer, M.D., }	Dillsburg, Pa.	Dec. 26, 1833
		Georgia Cowan, }
		No issue.
	V	Niles H. Shearer, M.D., }	York, Pa.
		Mary Keyworth, }	"
	VI	George, }	"	About 1890	Deceased.
		Bessie, }	"	1892
		Juliette, }	"	1896
	IV	Catherine Eichelberger }		1809	Jan. 1885
		Enoch Young, }	Carlisle, Pa.		Unknown.
		No issue.
1836.	IV	Maria Eichelberger, }	Gettysburg, Pa. and
		James McCosh, }	St. Louis, Mo.
	V	George, }
		Lida, }
	V	George McCosh, M. D., }	St. Louis, Mo.
		Isabelle Sherer, }	"
	VI	Genevieve, }	"
	V	Lida McCosh, }	St. Louis, Mo.
		Arthur Clark, }	"
	VI	Myra, }	"		Deceased.
		Arthur, }	"
		Frederick Eichelberger }	"

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
	III	Col. Frederick Eichelberger, Catherine Baker, No issue.	Dillsburg, Pa., and Frederick, Md.	Jan. 24, 1783 Aug. 30, 1782	Sept. 5, 1836 Sept. 19, 1869
Nov. 1813	III	Geo. M. Eichelberger, } Jane Grayson, }	Frederick, Md.	Feb. 11, 1784 1795	Jan. 16, 1854 Feb. 2, 1870
	IV	Ann Elizabeth, Lydia, Niles, Grayson, Margaret, Harvey, William Allen, Mary Jane,	" " " " " " "	1814 Nov. 3, 1819 Aug. 8, 1821 Mar. 7, 1824 1826 1827 Sept. 5, 1828	Died in inf'y Jan. 17, 1841 Feb. 23, 1892 Aug 30, 1862
Jan. 1836.	IV	Ann E. Eichelberger, } Charles A. Gambrill, }	Baltimore, Md.	1814	Aug., 1852
	V	Jane, M. Louisa, Albert, Mary, Richard A., Charles A., Emily, Juliette, Eddie, George and Charlie all died in infancy.		Mar., 1837 June 29, 1838 1846 Mar. 5, 1847 Dec., 1848 Aug. 12, 1851	May 20, 1900 July 16, 1868 Jan. 4, 1890 July 26, 1896
June 1863	V	Jane Gambrill, } Robert Tyson, } No issue,	Baltimore, Md ,	Mar , 1837	Mar., 1864
Dec. 24, 1874.	V	M Louisa Gambrill, } Patrick H. McGill, } No issue.	Baltimore, Md.	June 29, 1838	Mar. 22, 1892
	V	Albert Gambrill, } Laura Webb, }	Baltimore, Md.	1846	May 20, 1900
Single.	VI	Albert, Jr , Laura, Louise, Mary and Ethel died in infancy.	" " "	1875 1878 1880
1898.	VI	Albert Gambrill, Jr., } Nannie Coulter, } One son,	Baltimore, Md.	1875 1900

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
1889.	V	Richard A. Gambrill, }	Baltimore, Md	Dec., 1848	Jan. 4, 1890
	VI	Anna Van Nest, }	New York City.	July 11, 1890
		Richard Van Nest,	"
May 21, 1844.	IV	Grayson Eichelberger, }	Frederick, Md.	Aug 8, 1821	Feb. 17, 1870
Single.	V	Amanda Baugher, }	"	July 13, 1822	July 24, 1885
		Ella Virginia,	"	Mar. 9, 1845
		Frances Marian,	"	Aug 20, 1846
		Edward Shriver,	"	June 16, 1856
		Byrd Gambrill,	"	Mar. 27, 1860
		Effie Grace,	"	Jan. 15, 1865
		Edmund W.,			Died in inf'y
		Charles B.,			"
		William J.,			"
June 19, 1873.	V	Frances M. Eichelberg- }	Baltimore, Md.	Aug. 20, 1846	Oct. 23, 1875
	VI	er,
		Cornelius H. Hill,
		One son died in inf'y.
June 28, 1894	V	Edw. S. Eichelberger, }	Frederick, Md.	June 16, 1856
	VI	Miriam Gray,	"	Dec. 16, 1869
		Margaret Grayson,	"	Sept. 18, 1896
		Edward Gray,	"	June 10, 1900
Jan. 3, 1900.	V	Byrd G. Eichelberger, }	Baltimore, Md.	Mar. 27, 1860
		Lorella Dangerfield }		1880
		Faunt-Le-Roy, }
July, 1847	IV	Margaret Eichelberger, }	Baltimore, Md.	Mar. 7, 1824	Sep. 12, 1893
		dau. of George M., }	"
	V	John T. Woodside,		1850	Aug. 15, 1897
		William S.,		May 19, 1852
		Margaret S.,
		George, Daniel, and Grace, all died in infancy.
	V	William S. Woodside, }	Baltimore, Md.
	VI	Jessie Coulter,
		Several children, names
		unknown.

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
	V	Margaret S. Woodside, }	Baltimore, Md.
	VI	Albion J. Corning, }	Boston, Mass.	1873
		John W., }	Baltimore, Md.	1880
		Charles, } twins.	"	1884
		Albion, }
		Margaret,
1900.	VI	Albion Corning, Jr., }	Baltimore, Md.
		Hannah Barclay, }
Feb., 1847	IV	Mary J. Eichelberger }	Frederick, Md.	Sept. 5, 1828	Dec. 27, 1860
		Jermingham Boone, }	"
Single.	V	Jermingham,	St. Louis, Mo.	1848	1898
"		Janie,	Buckeystown, Md.	1849
"		Nancy,	"	1850	1852
"		Robert,		Apr. 30, 1854	Mar. 14, 1878
"		Katie,		May, 1856
"		Margaret,	"	1858
1894.	V	Katie Boone, }	Washington Co., Md.
		William Stonebraker, }
	III	John Eichelberger, }	Dillsburg, Pa.	Feb. 6, 1787	July 1, 1833
		Maria ——— }
Single	IV	John,	Monaghan Township	1817
		John Alexander,	York Co., Pa.	1819
1838.	IV	John A. Eichelberger,)	Phila., Pa., and Md.	1819
		Elenore Tolbert Cham-)	Terre Haute, Ind.	July 30, 1829 bus,
	V	William Chambus,		July 19, 1840
		John Stephens,		July 26, 1843
Single.		James A., U. S. A.,	Danville, Ill.	July 25, 1846
		Charles S.,		June 1, 1856
"		Eugene M.,		May 20, 1853	Aug. 10, 1856
"		Margaret J.,		Oct 30, 1849	Sept., 1869
"		Arnold P.,		Mar. 14, 1858
"		Clarence E.,		June 23, 1860	May 11, 1861
Jan. 16, 1877.	V	William C. Eichelber-)	Terre Haute, Ind.	July 19, 1840
		ger, M. D. }	"
	VI	Octavia Barnett,	"	July 4, 1879	July 13, 1888
		Harry Burnett,

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
Dec. 15, 1869	V	John S. Eichelberger, } Georgianna Monroe, }	Terre Haute, Ind.	July 26, 1843	Sept. 27, 1897
Single.	VI	William C., Jr., Frank, Hallie,	" " "	1889	June 23, 1896
"	V	Charles S. Eichelberger } Mary Grace, }	Terre Haute, Ind.	Jan. 1, 1856	Aug., 1896 Sept., 1897
		No issue.
	V	Arnold P. Eichelberger } — Clark, }	Terre Haute, Ind.	Mar. 14, 1858
	VI	Clark S.,	" "	1882
	III	Mary M. Eichelberger, }	Dillsburg, Pa.	Jan. 20, 1778	Oct. 16, 1829
	IV	Bernard Welty, }	"	Aug. 20, 1774	Apr. 1, 1856
		Daniel, Eliza, Mary, Jacob, William, Joseph, James,
Single.	IV	Daniel Welty, }	Dillsburg, Pa.
		Sophia Livas, }	"
	V	Julia, (Charles Wilson)	"
		Mary, (Joseph Hobbs.)	"
		Sophia, (Jas Granger.)	"
		Harriet, (James Wheel- er.)	"
		Frank, (Margaret Reid)	"
		Eichelberger, (Melissa Ayer.)	"
		Olly, (Joseph Hobbs.)	"
	IV	Eliza Welty, }	Dillsburg, Pa.
		Joseph Wise, }	"
	V	Felix, Imogen,	"
	IV	Mary Welty, }	Dillsburg, Pa.
		Frederick Black, }
		No known issue.
	IV	Jacob Welty, }	Dillsburg, Pa.
		Elizabeth Hannagan, }	"
		No known issue.

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
Single	IV	Joseph Welty, }	Dillsburg, Pa
		Barbara Troxell, }	"
	V	Anna,	"
		Mary,	"
		Juliette,	"
	III	Sarah Eichelberger, }	Dillsburg, Pa.	Apr., 1781	1830
		Frederick Welty, }	"	Mar. 12, 1779	Apr. 28, 1877
	IV	Jeremiah,			Died in inf'y
		Eliza,	"		"
		Levi,	"
Single.		Kezia M.,	"
		Caroline E.,	"
		Lydia A.,	"
	IV	Kezia M. Welty, }	Dillsburg, Pa.
		James N. Blair, }
		No issue.
	IV	Lydia A. Welty, }	Dillsburg, Pa.
		Jacob Coover, }
	V	Sarah Eichelberger,
		Morrett, (Victorine
Mar. 18, 1813.		Roundfort; 3 children.) Frederick Welty, (Elizabeth —; 2 children)
		Ella May, (John N.
		Logau; 6 children.)
		Laura V,
		Jacob George,
	III	Susan Eichelberger, }	York, Pa.	1794
		Lewis Sherer, }	"
April 7, 1840 Single.		If issue, unknown.
	III	Elizabeth Eichelberger }	Dillsburg, Pa.	Mar. 3, 1789	Nov. 8, 1818
		Henry Richenbach, }	"
		No issue.
	III	Lydia Eichelberger, }	Dillsburg, Pa.	Nov. 7, 1792	Aug. 24, 1842
		Daniel Bailey, }	"	Aug. 27, 1791	July 1, 1853
	IV	Elizabeth Caroline,	"	Feb. 9, 1814	Oct. 24, 1814
		Frederick Eichelberger	"	Feb. 16, 1816
	V	Frederick E Bailey, }	Dillsburg, Pa.	Feb 16, 1816	Apr. 7, 1845
		Matilda Doudel, }	York, Pa.
2d Mar. Dec. 11, 1856.	VI	Daniel D., U S. A.	Dillsburg, Pa.	Nov. 21, 1842	Aug. 8, 1862
		Susan Lydia,
	IV	Matilda D. Bailey, }	Dillsburg, Pa.		Mar. 29, 1894
		Levi Welty, }		Jan. 21, 1811	Apr. 8, 1892
		No issue.

Line of Lewis Eichelberger,

Fourth Son of Philip Frederick Eichelberger and His Second Wife, Magdalene.

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
1774.	II	Lewis Eichelberger, }	Adams Co., Pa.	Dec. 1, 1752	Mar., 1801
		Elizabeth Bair, }	Littlestown, Pa.	1756	1858
	III	Frederick,		1776
Single.		Adam,		1780
"		Ludwig or Lewis,	Adams Co., Pa.	1790	1830
"		Michael,	"	Oct. 22, 1791
"		Jacob,	"	Mar., 1786
"		George,	"	Dec. 14, 1793	Apr., 1801
"		Elizabeth,	"	Jan 23, 1780
"		Martalena,	"	1782
"		Louis, }	"	Oct. 10, 1798	1802
"		Sally, } twins.	"
"		Hannah,	"	Dec. 23, 1795	May 13, 1798
	III	Frederick Eichelberger }	Pennsylvania, and	1776
	IV	Joseph,	Springfield, Ohio.	1804
1819.	III	Adam Eichelberger, }	Frederick Co , Md.	1780	1849
		Polly Koontz, }		1799	1835
	IV	Adam Lewis		May 1, 1824
Single.		Greenbury,		1819
"		Henry Martin,	"	1821
"		Lewis,	"	1823
"		Sarah, (Mr. Abrecht ;	"	1830
		issue.)
"		Mary, (Mr Beall ; issue)	"	1828
"		Rebecca, (Mr. Smith ;
		issue.)
"		Susan,
1837.	III	Adam Eichelberger, }		1780	1849
2d wife.		Mrs. Hannah Leppard, }
	IV	Peter,
		Josephine Catherine,
		Neil,
		Clementine,
		Hannah,

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
	III	Jacob Eichelberger, }	Adams Co., Pa.	Mar., 1786	Sept 6, 1855
	IV	Catherine Koontz, }		Dec 22, 1794	Mar. 19, 1847
		Anna Maria,		July 30, 1815
		Loudan,		Dec. 18, 1816
		Samuel,		Sept. 8, 1818
		Catherine,		Oct. 5, 1820
		Mary Louvina,		July 4, 1833
		William Lewis,		Nov. 26, 1828
		George Henry,		June 6, 1831
		Nancy Margaret,		Aug. 31, 1836
		Ann Savilla,		Apr. 15, 1827
1796.	III	Elizabeth Eichelberger }	Columbus Co., Ohio.	Jan. 23, 1880
Single.	IV	Michael Dotterer, }	"	Dec. 12, 1774	Feb. 25, 1843
Married		Frederick, (Idiot.)		Jan. 23, 1798	Deceased.
"		John,	Ohio.		"
Single.		George,	"		"
		Jacob,	"	1804	Died young.
		Lydia,
		Eliza,		Oct 21, 1814
		David,		Dec. 25, 1816
		Sallie,		Nov. 9, 1818
		Michael Eichelberger,
		Anna Maria,
LINE OF ADAM, Second son of Lewis.
1846.	IV	Adam L. Eichelberger }	Pa. and Fred. Co. Md	May 1, 1824	About 1893.
	V	Sarah Elizabeth Hahn, }	Littlestown, Pa.
		William Henry,	Maryland.
		Francis,	"
		Marian,	"
		Abraham,	"
1836.	IV	Greenbury Eichelberg-)	Frederick Co, Md.	1819
		er,
		Mary Elizabeth Barnds)		1820	1854
	V	Elnora Catherine, (Mr.	Agency—S. Dakota.	1837 Smoot.)
Single.		James Weldon,		1838	1863
"		Laura Madeline,		1841	"
		Daniel Greenbury, —	Washington, D. C.	1844
		(Married; no issue.)
"		Lewis Cass,		1851	1892
"		Mary Elizabeth }		1852	Died in inf'y
"		Mary Eugenia, } twins.
"		Eliza Barnds,	Point of Rocks, Md.

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
1867. 2d Wife.	IV V	Greenbury Eichelberg- er, Mary E. Knouffe, John Franklin,	Baltimore, Md. "	1819 1869	About 1893.
		LINE OF JOHANNE JACOB.
1833.	IV V	Anna M. Eichelberger, } Anthony Kronk, } Catherine, Anna, Sophronia, Loudan or Anthony, Jr., Martin, Joseph, Elias, Pamela, Masilla, Lesta,	Pennsylvania, and Elkhart, Indiana. St. Louis, Michigan.	July 30, 1815	About 1885.
July 15, 1849.	IV V	Loudan Eichelberger, } Catherine Gingrich, } Sidney Ann, (George Hevel; 3 children.) William Henry, Almyra Allie, (George Booth; 2 sons) Mary Jane, (William Vogtman; 1 child.) Jessie Almeda, (Byron Rainier; 2 children.) Ida May, (Henry Beck; 1 son) Edward Burton,	Pennsylvania, and Waterloo, Indiana. " " " " " " "	Dec. 18, 1816 July 2, 1852 May 25, 1855 July 4, 1857 Aug. 20, 1859 May 30, 1862 May 8, 1864 Oct. 25, 1866	Apr. 8, 1894 Sept., 1867 Mar. 27, 1884 Apr. 8, 1858 Single.
"
1844.	IV	Catherine Eichelberger } John Heizerman, } No issue.	Ohio. "	Oct. 5, 1820	1844
1858.	IV V	Nancy Margaret Eich- elberger, } James N. Kennedy, } Two children,	Indiana. 7	Aug. 31, 1836	186-

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
May 7, 1848.	IV	Ann Savilla Eichelber- ger,	Michigan.	Apr. 15, 1827	Dec. 12, 1897
	V	Daniel Stambach, Simon, George H., (I. Louisa VanSickle; II. Sarah Rounds.) Mary, (Ira Nelson.) William F., Albertis. Elmer W., James L., (Bertha Peck.) John C., (Sarah Rus- sel) Elizabeth Eichelberger, Olive Irene, } twins. Oliver Ira, }	"	Sept. 1, 1849 Aug. 1, 1851 May, 21 1853 Nov. 14, 1855 Jan. 3, 1858 Oct. 2, 1859 Dec. 7, 1861 Apr. 9, 1864 Aug. 13, 1866 Dec. 9, 1870
July 4, 1859.	IV	William L Eichelber- ger,	Iowa.	Nov. 26, 1828	Nov 25, 1886
Single.	V	Jane Newton, Edward Franklin, Mary Ella, Ida May, William Carson, Charles Elmer, Ulysses S., Carrie J.,	Illinois. Woodstock, Ill. Iowa. " "	Oct. 17, 1840 Aug 22, 1862 May 6, 1864 Nov. 12, 1866 May 25, 1869 Jan. 10, 1863 Dec., 1873 Apr. 20, 1877	Aug 31, 1887 Feb. 8, 1863 Apr. 16, 1874 Mar. 16, 1881
Mar. 9, 1886	V	Mary E. Eichelberger, }	Northwood, Iowa.
	VI	Andrew Walser, Charles W., Dora M., Helen Blanche, Robert A.,	" " " "	Dec. 29, 1886 Sept. 23, 1888 Nov. 25, 1894 Feb. 5, 1900
Nov. 28, 1889.	V	Ida May Eichelberger, }	Northwood, Iowa.
	VI	James Barker, Ethel May, Edith M., Pearl M.,	" " " "	Apr 11, 1891 June 9, 1895 Aug. 14, 1898

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
Nov. 4, 1890.	V	William Carson Eich- elberger, }	Woodstock, Illinois.
	VI	Edith Boutelle, Leslie Ernest, Bessie E., Glen Bennitt,	Iowa.	May 6, 1892 Oct. 30, 1895 Sept. 27, 1898
1860.	IV	George Henry Eichel- berger, youngest son of John Jacob, }	Pontiac, Illinois.	June 6, 1831
	V	Lenora L. Lockwood, Mary, William, Stephen LeRoy, (Mar- ried; has one child.)	Ottawa, Illinois.		Aug. 20, 1880 Deceased.
Single.		Henry Edwin, Lovina, George Francis,	Pontiac, Illinois.		"
"		Harriet Lenora,	Farms—3 miles from Pontiac, Illinois.	1879	"
July, 1852	IV	Mary L. Eichelberger, }	Michigan.		July, 1852
	V	Timothy McEndafer, }	Indiana.	Apr. 20, 1853	Sept. 17, 1881
		Isabelle, (Elisha Guth- rie; Roy and Effie)	"	Sept. 19, 1854	July 19, 1882
		Lovinda, (Henry Metz- gar; 5 children.)	"	May 28, 1856
		Byron, (Nancy Fried; Orpha.)	"	Oct. 12, 1858
		Oliver, (Mattie Mc- Maury; 2 children.)	"	"
		Olive, twin of Oliver, (Jacob Henson; no issue.)	"	"
Nov. 5, 1866.	IV	Mary L E. McEndafer, }
		Henry Myers, }
		No issue.

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
	IV V	John Dotterer, } Issue.	Ohio.	1800	Unknown.
	IV V	George Dotterer, } Issue.	Ohio.	1803	Unknown.
	IV V	Lydia Dotterer, } Miller, } Issue.		1806	Unknown.
	IV V	Eliza Dotterer, } Henry Wayne, } Issue.	Indiana.	1810
	IV V	David Dotterer, } Issue.	Liberty Mills, Wa- bash Co., Ind.	1814	Unknown.
	IV V	Sallie Dotterer, } Jacob Coblentz, } Issue.	North Lind, Ind.	Dec, 25, 1816	Unknown.

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
1846.	IV	Michael Eichelberger } Dotterer, }	Lowellville, Ohio.	Nov. 9, 1818	Nov. 9, 1893
Married.	V	Elizabeth Warner, }	"
"		Obediah,	"	Feb. 1, 1848
"		Caroline,	"	Dec. 21, 1847
Single.		Catherine,	"	Nov. 27, 1856	Died young
Married.		Sophia,	"	Apr. 22, 1852
1842.	IV	Anna Maria Dotterer, }	Lowellville, Ohio.	Mar. 10, 1820	Nov. 11, 1892
		Henry Smith, }		Jan. 4, 1813	Apr. 29, 1871
	V	Martha, (John L. Stewart; 3 children.)	Cleveland, Ohio.	Feb. 28, 1843
		Sophia, (Jacob Mohr; one child, deceased.)	Lowellville, Ohio.	Oct. 23, 1844	Sept., 1899
		Mary Elizabeth, (Robert Erkskine; 2 children.)	"	May 14, 1853
		Henry D., (Edna Miller; 4 children.)	"	Apr. 14, 1856

BRIEF SKETCH

OF

Capt. Caspar Reinacker

AND

HIS IMMEDIATE FAMILY.

Captain Caspar Reinacker

And His Immediate Family.

Although this Historical Record is meant to deal entirely with those of the Eichelberger name, yet as the second son, by the second marriage of Philip Frederick Eichelberger, when he married a Miss Reinacker, and as so many of their descendants are now living in our immediate neighborhood, it is thought that to them at least, a slight sketch of the Reinacker family would be of importance, especially to those who are interested in Colonial history, as Captain Caspar Reinacker, a Captain in the Revolutionary Army, was the father of our grandmother.

At their home in Germany, (the precise town or principality we are unable to give,) on the 30th of July, 1733, there was born to Adam Reinacker and his wife Elizabeth, a son, Caspar. In his early youth, in 1750, he came to America, with his two brothers, Paul and Martin, and probably a large party of others. Where the two brothers settled we can but guess, for only recently have I learned of a number of Reinackers living on Silver Run, in the upper section of Carroll County, Maryland. Among these there are several of the name of Paul, which fact would seem to indicate that they are descendants of Caspar's brother, Paul Reinacker.

In Gibson's History of York County, Pennsylvania, which was published in 1886, I find that Caspar Reinacker was a Captain in the Sixth Battalion of the Pennsylvania Militia, in 1774, '75 and '76, and during that time was elected a member of the "Committee of Safety" for the country's government. This is undoubted evidence of his loyalty to the colony during the Revolution. In this same history I find, among the list of annual assessments for 1783, that Caspar was taxed for 250 acres in Manheim Township, and 25 acres and a house and lot, two horses, two head of cattle, and three negroes, in Heidelberg Township, York County.

The earliest documentary information I have of Caspar Reinacker dates back to the 3d of June, 1763, in a deed he gave my great-grandfather, Philip Frederick Eichelberger, for a tract of land he sold him. The next is for a lot of ground he purchased from Richard McAllister, the founder of Hanover, in 1764. Subsequently he bought three more town lots, on several of which he paid an annual ground rent until May, 1790; after which time his son, Conrad, one of his executors, paid it until 1794. I have all these receipts in my possession, and I am living on one of the lots. In the deeds which give the occupation of the parties, Caspar was usually designated as a "yeoman," which is a farmer. In one he was called a "merchant," in another a "gentleman."

So we are supposedly correct in saying that Caspar settled on his arrival in America, in what was just about that time newly styled York County, in Pennsylvania. The 17th of October, of the following year, saw him united in marriage to Anna Maria Carle, daughter of Adam Carle, a large landholder in that neighborhood. She bore him ten children, three sons and seven daughters. Capt. Caspar Reinacker's will was executed the 13th of November, 1783, and his death occurred on the 30th of July, 1790, when he was 57 years of age. His wife, Anna Maria, died about one year previously. They were first buried in "Winebrenner's graveyard," about a mile north of Hanover, from which their remains were removed by me to Mt. Olivet Cemetery, Hanover, together with their tombstones in September, 1885.

Their oldest child, Anna Maria, was married about 1770, to Jacob Eichelberger, and the only child of this couple, Jacob, Jr., was my father. The oldest son of Caspar, George Reinacker, settled in Baltimore, the early part of the Revolution, and was Quartermaster there for several years. He married Elizabeth Fite, by whom he had five sons and one daughter. All these died without issue except one son, John, who married Anna Maria Fite. Their children who survived years of childhood were,—George A. Reinacker, who died without children during this last year in Baltimore; and Elizabeth Herr, of York, who was still living at last accounts.

Catherine, second daughter and third child of Caspar, was married to George Kuhn, of Hanover, about 1777. By him she had four children, but was soon called to her Heavenly home, and was obliged to leave her young family.

Conrad, the second son of Caspar, was an inn-keeper, first in Hanover, but removed to Baltimore, in 1795. We first thought he must have lived single, but a very short time since I discovered an old record of a deed of lot 74 here in Hanover, sold by Conrad Reinacker and his wife Eve, made to my grandfather, Jacob Eichelberger, in 1793. This is all the record we have of Conrad's family, so suppose he had no children.

Elizabeth, third daughter, married Henry Sherman, and lived near Littlestown, Pennsylvania. They had only one son, Jacob Sherman.

Anna Dorothea or Nancy, as the fourth daughter of Caspar Reinacker was commonly called, married Jacob Fite, about 1793. They lived in Baltimore, and it was this Jacob Fite, who, with his wife's brother, Conrad, built and presented to Congress, Congress Hall, in Baltimore, and in which building Congress actually sat. This couple had four children, three sons and one daughter,—Conrad R., Henry, William and Eliza.

Clara, the youngest child of Caspar and Anna Maria, married Cornelius H. Gist. They had eight children,—William, Pamela, Lucy, Cornelius, Jr., Eliza, Joshua, Emeline and Joseph.

The descendants of Captain Caspar Reinacker may well be proud of his record as a patriot. For so young a man, with home, and family cares and joys, dependent mainly upon him, to leave that home, to risk that life, for the sake of any country less dear than the "Faderland," was much :—to give up time which was needed to procure the necessities for those who made the home so dear, to assume the arduous duties necessitated by becoming a member of that home patrol, court, law and order, called the "Committee of Safety," was more. Often when enthused by patriotic speeches, martial music, and enthusiastic example a man will offer his services as a soldier, a thing which commits him for a length of time, whether his valor endures or no; but for a busy man, day after day, to expend time, thought, careful business ability, and all the thorough legal shrewdness which his mind can command, to freely give services such as those to one's country, means a great deal. May I always be the last to decry the nobility of our valiant soldier and sailor sons; but they have much honor,—and I think some is due also to those who stayed at home, protected the country from the foes of lawlessness, want and barren fields. Captain Caspar Reinacker did both, he, his son, and son-in-law, have placed the names of Reinacker and Fite, where all true patriots may see, and can but admire.

Genealogical Record

OF

Captain Caspar Reinacker and His Wife Anna Maria Carle.

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
Oct. 17, 1751.	I	Caspar Reinacker,	Germany, and York	July 30, 1733	Aug. 17, 1790
	II	Anna Maria Carle,	Co, Pa,	Aug. 22, 1736	Aug. 22, 1789
		Anna Maria,		Mch. 26, 1752	May 19, 1837
		Johan George,	Baltimore, Md,	July 25, 1754
		Maria Cadarina,	Hanover, Pa.,	July 3. 1757	1781
		Eva Margreda,		Mch. 15, 1762
		Susanah,		Mar. 12, 1764	Apr. 23, 1781
		Conradt,		Aug 10, 1766
		Johan Adam,		Sept. 28, 1768
		Elizabeth,		Feb. 23, 1771
		Anna Dorodea,	Baltimore, Md.,	Aug. 10, 1773
		Clara,	West Virginia,	Feb. 15, 1776
	II	Anna Maria Reinacker,		Mch 26, 1752	May 19, 1837
		Jacob Eichelberger,		1746	Aug. 14, 1811
	III	Jacob Eichelberger,*
		(This branch continued in the Eichelberger Family Record.)
	II	Johan George,		July 25, 1754
	III	Elizabeth Fite,
		Henry,
		Edward,
		George A.,
		John,

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
	III	John Reinacker, Pamela Eite,
	IV	George A., Elizabeth,		1813	Nov. 1, 1899
	IV	George A. Reinacker, Eliza C. Fite,	Baltimore, Md. No issue.	Dec. 27, 1813 1817	Nov. 1, 1899 1889
	IV	Elizabeth Reinacker, John Herr,
	V	Michael, Edward, (Miss Landis.) Henry, Mary, Lucy, Anna, (Prof. Shelly)
	II	Maria Cadrina Reinacker
	III	George Kuhn, Susan, Sarah, George, Elizabeth,	Hanover, Pa.,
	III	Susan Kuhn, Charles Zeigler,
	IV	Eve, Emanuel, Sarah, Maria,	York, Pa., Dillsburg, Pa., Hanover, Pa.
	III	Elizabeth Kuhn, George Sherman,
	IV	Conrad, Henry, George, Susan,
	II	Elizabeth Reinacker, Henry Sherman
	III	{ Jacob Sherman, { Miss Parr,
	IV	{ Eliza Sherman, { Jacob Sterner, { David Boyer,
	II	Nancy Reinacker, Jacob Fite,
	III	Conrad R., Henry, William, Eliza C.,
	III	Conrad Reinacker Fite, Pamela Gist,
	IV	Henry, Cornelius, Mary, Eliza, (G. A. Reinacker) Ella,	Baltimore, Md.,

Marriage	Gen	NAMES.	Residence.	Birth.	Death.
Single " "	II	Clara Reinacker,
	III	Cornelius H. Gist,
		William Gist,
		Pamelia,
		Lucy,
		Cornelius, Jr.,
		Eliza,
		Joshua,
		Emeline,
		Joseph,
	III	William Gist,
		Martha ———,
	IV	Georgia,
		Maria,
		William,
		Edward,
		Clara,
		Mary,
	III	Lucy Gist,
		Basil Beall,
	IV	Basil,
		Charles,
		Clara,
		Bill,
		Lucy,
		Mary,
		James,
	III	Joshua Gist,
		Maria Waugh,
	IV	Callie,
		Eliza,
		Lucy,
	III	Eliza Gist,
		Mr. Jones,
Jan. 31, 1834.	III	Cornelius Gist, Jr.,		Aug. 4, 1807	Feb 11, 1877
		Isabella Moore,		Mar. 20, 1813	Oct. 23, 1845
	IV	Clara,
		Sallie,
		Emily,
		Pamelia,
		James,
	III	Emeline Gist,
		Joseph Boyle,
	IV	Leonidas,
		Wilbur,
		Emma,
	III	Joseph C. Gist,
		Elizabeth Culver,
	IV	Samuel,
		Joshua,
		Joseph,
		Rachel,
		Mary,
		Lucy,

RD 61

DOBBS BROS.
LIBRARY BINDING

MAR 81

ST. AUGUSTINE

FLA.

32084

LIBRARY OF CONGRESS

0 018 458 900 A